U. S. Accuses Russia Of Obstructing UN

Malik May Be Suspended As President

Possibility To Be Discussed

By FRANCIS W. CARPENTER

LAKE SUCCESS, Aug. 8 (AP)—The United States tonight accused the Soviet Union of obstructing the majority's will on the Korea question, and said the Security Council will be stalled all this month—until Jakob A. Malik gives up the presidency September 1—if these tactics continue.

The possibility arose that Malik may face suspension as council president. Ernest A. Gross, U. S. delegate, told reporters this is one of several things that might be discussed in consultations before the council meets again Thursday. Gross said the council by majority vote, with the veto not applying, could change it rules with the effect Malik would be unseated.

"It must be apparent to all of us and to the world that the Soviet representative, who under our rules of procedure is acting as president of the Security Council this month, will not abide by our rules of procedure or by the expressed will of this council.

"The record shows that he has made every effort to stop our work and keep us from our business. If his campaign of obstruction goes on, it can lead to only one consequence. The Security Council will be stalled on dead center for the remainder of this month unable to discharge its responsibility under the charter of keeping the peace. This is the challenge we must meet.

"I am reluctant to conclude that the Soviet government intends to achieve this result."

Austin suggested the council adjourn 48 hours "in order to allow the Soviet delegation to communicate with Moscow and obtain instructions from their government, instructions which will enable the Security Council to function."

Malik responded that the Soviet delegation had all the instructions it needed, and suggested the United States wanted time to consult its "satellites."

Malik threw back an Austin charge of "obstruction," arguing the United States has delayed the council's proceedings in a week-long wrangle, ever since Malik took the presidency, over procedure on the Korean question.

The council accepted Austin's recommendation, and adjourned until 2 p. m. (EST), Thursday.

House Group Agrees On Control Bill

Remain At Odds Over Rationing

WASHINGTON, Aug. 8 (AP) —The House Banking Committee agreed today on standby wage and price control powers for President Truman but could not get together on the issue of rationing authority.

That question was left for settlement tomorrow as the committee labored to find a formula to get Congress off the economic controls merry-go-round it rode last week. The sections approved today went into the bill on a 21-1 vote with Rep. Kunkel (R-Pa) casting the "no" vote.

The committee hopes to get out a completed bill in time for a final House vote perhaps tomorrow night. The group will meet again before the House convenes.

In addition to the rationing issue, other questions left for committee decision tomorrow include the extent of authority to be given the President for curbs on real estate cerdit and commodity market speculation.

As far as it goes, the wage-price agreement by the House committee is generally in line with purely permissive authority agreed on by the Senate Banking Committee. The Senate group, however, put in standby rationing powers, too, in its additions to the limited economic controls Mr. Truman has asked.

The Senate's bill would extend credit curbs into real estate transactions as well as other fields of finance. Numerous Republicans and Southern Democrats in the House don't like that. And much the same group opposes the President's call for powers to curb speculation in commodities futures through control of the amount of margin traders must put up.

Bridges Appeals For New Bail

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 8 (AP) — Harry Bridges' plea for freedom from jail on bail was taken under submission by the United States Court of Appeals late today.

The action apparently meant that the CIO Longshore Labor Leader would remain imprisoned at least until the end of the week.

The case admittedly was without precedent. Bridges had been at liberty on $25,000 bail pending appeal on a perjury conviction for saying he was not a communist when he became an American citizen in 1945.

Federal Judge George B. Harris revoked this bail and declared Bridges was a dangerous menace to the internal security of the country at the time of the Korean war.

Today three judges of the Appeals Court — Clifton Mathews, William Haly and William Orr — heard arguments by Bridges' attorney, Norman Leonard, for renewal of his bail.

Leonard recalled that Supreme Court Justice Jackson in 1943 declared in an opinion that "because the country was at war, it did not constitute a reason for scrapping the bill of rights."

The attorney added that he "feared this action against Bridges was indicative of a tendency on the part of the government to eliminate dissenters."

At the suggestion of the court, Leonard agreed to file a supplemental motion to vacate and set aside Judge Harris' order revoking bail.

Secret Papers Stolen

LONDON, Aug. 8 (AP) — The Laborite Daily Herald said tonight that "secret papers on atomic research have been stolen from a brief case belonging to an American who has arrived in England."

'Miss Sunday, Mr. Monday'

Defense Speedup Urged By Italy, France, Britain

Call For Unity Against Attack

STRASBOURG, France, Aug. 8 (AP)—Political figures of Britain, France and Italy urged before the Council of Europe's Consultative Assembly today a speedup in the west's common defense efforts against the threat of a Russian attack.

At the same time they charged the committee of Foreign Ministers —the council's upper house—has failed to push European unity. They ignored a council statute placing national defense matters outside the scope of the council, which is a sort of international parliament.

Andre Philip, a French socialist leader, called for setting up a massive West European army. He said the communist attack on Southern Korea may be followed by an attack on Western Europe, "perhaps in the next few months, or even weeks."

Maurice Edelman, a British Laborite, said Western Europe should go on a virtual war footing in mobilizing all its military and economic resources.

"While in the last year we have been engaged in a ceaseless wrangle, the Russians have gone ahead assembling and enlarging their forces. The theme of this assembly must be defense," he said.

Enzo Giacchero, Italian assemblyman, appealed also for speed in bolstering defenses. He said "the greatest tribute we can make to those who are now fighting and dying in Korea is to give up part of our sovereignty."

James Callaghan, youthful British Labor Party spokesman, told the assembly hundreds of thousands of British men are ready to take up arms in the defense of Western Europe and that "millions of reserves stand behind them."

Meantime, British conservatives in the assembly announced a counter-proposal for pooling Europe's steel and coal production.

President Asks Stricter Curb On Spies And Aliens

By ARTHUR EDSON

WASHINGTON, Aug. 8 (AP) — President Truman today asked Congress for immediate action on stricter laws to deal with spies and deportable aliens, but even as he made the request he warned:

"We must not be swept away by a wave of hysteria."

In a 3,500-wor message, Mr. Truman reminded Congress that, in addition to armed aggression, "communist imperialism also seeks to weaken and overthrow free nations by working within their borders."

Therefore, he said, Congress should pass these laws before the close of the present session:

1. Extend the statue of limitations for peacetime espionage. At present, a violator of this law must be prosecuted within three years. Mr. Truman thinks that is not long enough, and should be extended.

2. Require persons who have received instructions on spying or subversive tactics from a foreign government or political party to register under the Foreign Agents Registration Act.

3. Give the President additional power to set up security rules for the protection of military bases and other national defense installations.

4. Permit the Attorney General to supervise aliens subject to deportation, and make them report where they are and what they are doing.

Mr. Truman's message was read to the Senate just before it was scheduled to act on an anti-communist bill and another measure relating to internal security.

Senator Lucas (D-Ill), the administration leader in the Senate, promptly objected to both bills — and set off a minor flurry.

Lucas said he thought the Senate Judiciary Committee should first examine the President's message and see how it was related to the pending bills.

Chairman McCarran (D-Nev) of the Judiciary Committee said he had heard "nothing in the message that was new."

Senator Mundt (R-SD), who along with Senator Ferguson (R-Mich), is sponsoring the bill requiring registration of communists and communist-front organizations, called President Truman a "Johnny-come-lately" to the ranks of those fighting communism.

"I welcome this support on the part of President Truman, belated though it comes," Mundt said.

Lucas' shouted reply:

"There is no man in the country who detests communists more than the President of the United States."

Wait, General - Bartender Is Coming Too

CAMP COOKE, Calif., Aug. 8 (AP)—Brig. Gen. James T. Roberts, commanding the 13th armored Reserve Division here, got a call early today from Los Angeles 125 miles away.

"But," began the General.

"I can leave for Korea in 48 hours," the voice persisted. "I've got two buddies here who'll enlist with me. Wait—make it three. The bartender's going to close up and join too."

MacArthur Wants Jap Peace Treaty

WASHINGTON, Aug. 8 (AP) — Douglas MacArthur expressed doubt today that there is any way to enlist Japanese in the U. S. Armed forces without first making a peace treaty with their country.

Whether he would favor such a move after a formal peace settlement the General did not say.

Japan is "under international control," MacArthur pointed out in a cable to Senator Magnuson (D-Wash) who had proposed that Japanese veterans be accepted as volunteers. In such circumstances, he said, such action by the United States alone would be "of doubtful feasibility."

Not stated in MacArthur's message, but obvious by inference, was the idea of Russian reaction in propaganda and otherwise. Critics of the Magnuson proposal have argued that it would lay this country open to charges of exploiting Japan and resorting to mercenary armies.

Magnuson had asked MacArthur for his views on the plan, which the Senator advanced with the aim of providing additional manpower for the fighting in Korea and releasing some Americans from occupation duty.

In a bill introduced last week the Senator proposed pay for Japanese volunteers at half the American rates, with no citizenship or veterans' benefits.

MacArthur's message, made public by Magnuson, said that "the underlying purpose that you have in mind of bolstering the security of Japan and thereby strengtheing resistance to totalitarian communism throughout the world has my heartiest understanding and sympathy."

Gunman Who Killed Three Hunted In Forested Hills

EMINENCE, Mo., Aug. 8 (AP) — A man sought as the slayer of three persons leaped from a ditched car and fled into heavily forested hills near here today as a posse pressed its search for the gunman.

The gunman, identified by the State Highway Patrol as William Harris, 39, killed three and wounded two others in a shooting spree in a farmhouse in the Ozark mountains near this Southern town last night.

Killed in the shooting last night were R. S. (Bill) Fansler, 63; his son, Homer L. Fansler and Barbara Harris, 4-year-old daughter of the gunman. Wounded were Fansler's wife, Rosa, 60, and his brother-in-law, Chester Nichols, 42. They were taken to Springfield Hospitals. Nichols received a wound in the hip and Mrs. Fansler a shoulder wound. The hospital reported Mrs. Fansler's condition was serious.

Motive for the shooting remained obsure today.

Today a pickup truck sped past a roadblock maintained by Trooper G. D. Lindsay on Dead Man Ridge in Western Carter County, 20 miles east and south of Eminence. The trooper gave a chase but a man believed to be Harris escaped into the woods.

Wilson Quits A-Commission, Blasts Dean

Questions Atomic Chief's Ability

By WILLARD H. MOBLEY

WASHINGTON, Aug. 8 (AP) — Carroll Wilson, general manager for the Atomic Energy Commission ever since that civilian agency took over from the Army, quit today in an explosive split with AEC Chairman Gordon Dean.

Wilson issued a statement saying he lacked the "confidence" in Dean necessary to do the job properly. He questioned the chairman's experience and qualifications to head the huge task of developing atomic energy for war and peace.

Wilson's intention to quit, effective next Tuesday, first became known when the White House released an exchange of letters between him and President Truman. This correspondence did not disclose the reasons for the resignation, which Mr. Truman said he had "no alternative" but to accept.

Wilson then issued the statement outlining his reasons. Dean told a reporter he had seen the statement and added that "while I'm sorely tempted to, I don't care to comment on it."

The commission referred questioners to an AEC statement, issued ahead of Wilson's blast, saying the AEC "deeply regrets the loss of Mr. Wilson's services" and asserting:

"The organization is fully prepared for the demands of its expanding program."

The commission announced that Carleton Shugg, who has been Wilson's deputy, will be acting general manager. The job consists of carrying out policies and administrative duties on instructions from the commission.

Wilson's blast at Dean found little support on Capitol Hill, at least immediately. Senator Mc Mahon (D-Conn), chairman of the joint Senate - House Atomic Committee, announced that the committee had unanimously authorized him to "express its confidence" in Dean.

Anti-Tank Rifle Is Russian Make

WASHINGTON, Aug. 8 (AP) — A long barreled anti-tank rifle believed to have killed the crews of a number of American tanks in Korea has been identified by the U. S. Army as a Russian-made 1941 model.

The Army has had a sample of this gun since World War II. It contends the rifle is outmoded and the U. S. is producing no similar weapon for American infantrymen.

Instead, the Army is concentrating in this field on three projects:

1. Producing the 3.5-inch Bazooka and its ammunition, now in use by American troops in Korea.

2. Producing recoilless rifles which can be carried by two infantrymen yet can fire a high explosive shell more than 4,000 yards.

3. Solving technical problems involved in starting production of shaped charge ammunition for recoilless rifles.

Md. Draft Boards "Equipped For Job"

BALTIMORE, Aug. 8 (AP) — Col. Henry C. Stanwood, State Selective Service director, said today Maryland's draft boards are equipped well enough to handle their job in the "foreseeable future."

The job is calling up enough men to fill the state's quota of 1,474 soldiers through October.

Wallace Ends Progressive Membership

Says He Can Better Serve Peace Cause

NEW YORK, Aug. 8 (AP) — Henry Wallace tonight pulled out of the Progressive Party which was formed to run him for president in 1948.

The former Vice-President and former Secretary of Commerce wrote to C. B. Baldwin, Progressive Party secretary:

"In view of the actions recently taken by the national committee of the Progressive Party and the various state committees, I am convinced that I can more effectively serve the cause of peace by resigning from the national committee and the executive committee of the Progressive Party.

"You will therefore take this letter as my formal resignation from the party."

Wallace recently issued a statement saying that, although he was not condoning previous actions of either the United States or Russia, he must stand with his country and the United Nations on Korea.

On the same day the national committee issued a statement opposing American intervention in the Korean fighting.

Marines To Call Reserves Back As They Are Needed

Junior Officers, Enlisted Men First

WASHINGTON, Aug. 8 (AP)—The Marine Corps announced today that its call-up of volunteer reserves will be paced to meet expansion requirements.

A Marine Corps statement issued today said that reservists to receive orders to report between August 15 and October 31 will be mainly officers of captain's rank and below and enlisted men of sergeant's grade and below, with combat type specialties.

The statement was described as "an amplification" of yesterday's announcement on calling up reserves. It said the "very few senior officers and senior enlisted men" will be called in the first phase.

Only a few women Marines will be summoned to active duty initially, the corps stated. They will be called as required to meet the general expansion of the corps and to release males for the operating forces.

The corps spokesman said that the results obtained from the first call for 50,000 volunteer reservists would govern, to an extent, the mobilization schedule for the approximately 30,000 remaining reservists.

"We don't know how many men we will actually get on this first call," a spokesman said, "but we need 50,000." He added that the call to active duty would eventually go to all of the volunteer reserves.

Marine reservists called up will serve for an indefinite period, the spokesman added. "There is no time limit on their terms of active duty," the spokesman stated.

'Desert Mermaid' Swims Channel In Record Time

Shirley May France Fails Again

DOVER, Eng., Aug. 8 (AP) — Pretty Florence Chadwick, a "desert mermaid" from San Diego, Calif., swam the English Channel today an hour faster than any other woman in history.

Shirley May France, a more publicized entry from Somerset, Mass., failed for the second time in two years to complete the punishing grind — 19 miles as the crow flies; 22 or more as the swimmer breasts the tide.

Florence splashed through the seaweed under Dover's chalk cliffs just 13 hours and 28 minutes after plunging into the water at Cap Gris Nez, France.

A trim, lithe professional swimmer who decided to try the channel while working as a typist for the Arabian-American Oil Company in hot, Sandy Saudi Arabia, she erased the women's record of 14 hours and 34 minutes set by Gertrude Ederle of New York August 6, 1926. She is 31.

Shirley May, a 17-year-old high school girl, was pulled hysterical and weeping into her pilot boat, still eight and a half miles from her goal, almost at the moment Florence stepped ashore.

"Everyone's going to think I'm a flop," Shirley May sobbed.

They started from the French coast only 19 minutes apart. Florence plunged in at 2:37 a.m. (8:37 p.m. EST Monday) and Shirley May at 2:56.

It never developed into a race.

Training that she did for months in the Persian Gulf paid off. The cold water, nowhere warmer than 60 degrees, never bothered her.

She kept right on smiling when she swam smack into the middle of a gunnery practice range, forcing a battery of British territorials to quit lobbing shells off the Dover cliffs.

When she finally wallowed ashore through a bed of kelp, Florence told newsmen:

"I feel fine. I am quite prepared to swim back."

Told that she had succeeded in her aim of bettering the Ederle record, she exclaimed:

"Oh Boy! Good."

Hard Fighting Erupts Along Entire Line

Troops In South Renew Offensive

TOKYO, Wednesday, Aug. 9 (AP)— The Korean communists today shoved tanks and troops across the Naktong Rvier only 12 air miles northwest of Taegu as the entire river defense line erupted in heavy fighting.

The greatest threat yet to the key communications hub came as Americans launched a general attack against a red bridgehead to the southwest. Counterattacking South Koreans hammered the reds back to the River's east bank at spots northwest of Taegu.

On the Korean south coast, beyond the flaming Naktong River line, U. S. Marines and Army infantry got their offensive rolling again toward Chinju.

An Eighth Army communique Wednesday morning said these westward-thrusting Americans had gained two to three miles against determined red resistance.

The gravest menace to Taegu, 55 miles northwest of the all-important supply port of Pusan, was at Waegwan. There the communists got 10 tanks and a battalion of troops across in a dawn haze Wednesday and set up strong roadblocks behind the U. S. First Cavalry Division.

Five of the red tanks were reported knocked out but the reds still had five tanks and perhaps 2,500 men on the east bank at a point where a main highway curves 16 miles to Taegu. Some 1,600 North Koreans earlier had been reported across the river at Waegwan.

The First Cavalry shot out patrols into the haze-draped area as soon as the dawn crossing was reported. By the time they made contact the tanks were coming over. Associated Press Correspondent Leif Erickson, reporting the action at Eighth Army Headquarters, said how the tanks got across was not determined immediately.

Correspondent O. H. P. King on the Naktong River front said that fresh American reinforcements jumped off at 5:45 a. m. on the communist bridgehead west of Changnyong, 23 miles southwest of Taegu.

Other American elements which had been containing an estimated 2,500 to 3,000 North Koreans joined in the general attack.

Sharp artillery fire and heavy air strikes supported the American drive to push the Reds back to the west bank of the Naktong.

About 40 miles farther north, the South Korean First Division slammed a strong counterattack last night at three Red regiments threatening Taegu from the northwest.

The Reds were hurled back 2.3 to 3.4 miles, American advisory sources said, with the South Korean drive reaching banks of the Naktong River.

Truman Signs Bill For Atomic Sub

WASHINGTON, Aug. 8 (AP) — President Truman today signed a $350,000,000 Navy shipbuilding bill, which includes authority to build this country's first atomic-powered submarine.

The act also authorizes the building of radically new small combat craft, including several experimental type submarines, as well as the conversion of a cruiser into a guided missile vessel.

Violence Threatens In N. J. Gas "War"

TRENTON, N. J., Aug. 8 (AP) — Shouting threats of violence, some 2,500 New Jersey service station operators voted today to shut down tomorrow for a week in protest of a gasoline price war in the state.

The station operators denounced price-cutting gasoline companies and demanded a state investigation of the price war in New Jersey. Prices for standard brands of gasoline have dropped from 24.4 to 20.9 per gallon in many cases.

Execution Stayed

STRASBOURG, France, Aug. 8 (AP)—Political figures of Britain, France and Italy urged before the Council of Europe's Consultative Assembly today a speedup in the west's common defense efforts against the threat of a Russian attack.

At the same time they charged the committee of Foreign Ministers—the council's upper house—has failed to push European unity. They ignored a council statute placing national defense matters outside the scope of the council, which is a sort of international parliament.

Andre Philip, a French socialist leader, called for setting up a massive West European army. He said the communist attack on Southern Korea may be followed by an attack on Western Europe, "perhaps in the next few months, or even weeks."

Maurice Edelman, a British Laborite, said Western Europe should go on a virtual war footing in mobilizing all its military and economic resources.

"While in the last year we have been engaged in a ceaseless wrangle, the Russians have gone ahead assembling and enlarging their forces. The theme of this assembly must be defense," he said.

Enzo Giacchero, Italian assemblyman, appealed also for speed in bolstering defenses. He said "the greatest tribute we can make to those who are now fighting and dying in Korea is to give up part of our sovereignty."

James Callaghan, youthful British Labor Party spokesman, told the assembly hundreds of thousands of British men are ready to take up arms in the defense of Western Europe and that "millions of reserves stand behind them."

Meantime, British conservatives in the assembly announced a counter-proposal for pooling Europe's steel and coal production.

President Asks Stricter Curb On Spies And Aliens

By ARTHUR EDSON

WASHINGTON, Aug. 8 (AP) — President Truman today asked Congress for immediate action on stricter laws to deal with spies and deportable aliens, but even as he made the request he warned:

In a 3,500-wor message, Mr. Truman reminded Congress that, in addition to armed aggression, "communist imperialism also seeks to weaken and overthrow free nations by working within their borders."

Therefore, he said, Congress should pass these laws before the close of the present session:

1. Extend the statue of limitations for peacetime espionage. At present, a violator of this law must be prosecuted within three years. Mr. Truman thinks that is not long enough, and should be extended.

2. Require persons who have received instructions on spying or subversive tactics from a foreign government or political party to register under the Foreign Agents Registration Act.

3. Give the President additional power to set up security rules for the protection of military bases and other national defense installations.

4. Permit the Attorney General to supervise aliens subject to deportation, and make them report where they are and what they are doing.

Mr. Truman's message was read to the Senate just before it was scheduled to act on an anti-communist bill and another measure relating to internal security.

Senator Lucas (D-Ill), the administration leader in the Senate, promptly objected to both bills — and set off a minor flurry.

Lucas said he thought the Senate Judiciary Committee should first examine the President's message and see how it was related to the pending bills.

Chairman McCarran (D-Nev) of the Judiciary Committee said he had heard "nothing in the message that was new."

Senator Mundt (R-SD), who along with Senator Ferguson (R-Mich), is sponsoring the bill requiring registration of communists and communist-front organizations, called President Truman a "Johnny-come-lately" to the ranks of those fighting communism.

"I welcome this support on the part of President Truman, belated though it comes," Mundt said.

Lucas' shouted reply:

"There is no man in the country who detests communists more than the President of the United States."

Wait, General - Bartender Is Coming Too

CAMP COOKE, Calif., Aug. 8 (AP)—Brig. Gen. James T. Roberts, commanding the 13th armored Reserve Division here, got a call early today from Los Angeles 125 miles away.

"But," began the General.

"I can leave for Korea in 48 hours," the voice persisted. "I've got two buddies here who'll enlist with me. Wait—make it three. The bartender's going to close up and join too."

MacArthur Wants Jap Peace Treaty

WASHINGTON, Aug. 8 (AP) — Douglas MacArthur expressed doubt today that there is any way to enlist Japanese in the U. S. Armed forces without first making a peace treaty with their country.

Whether he would favor such a move after a formal peace settlement the General did not say.

Japan is "under international control," MacArthur pointed out in a cable to Senator Magnuson (D-Wash) who had proposed that Japanese veterans be accepted as volunteers. In such circumstances, he said, such action by the United States alone would be "of doubtful feasibility."

Not stated in MacArthur's message, but obvious by inference, was the idea of Russian reaction in propaganda and otherwise. Critics of the Magnuson proposal have argued that it would lay this country open to charges of exploiting Japan and resorting to mercenary armies.

Magnuson had asked MacArthur for his views on the plan, which the Senator advanced with the aim of providing additional manpower for the fighting in Korea and releasing some Americans from occupation duty.

In a bill introduced last week the Senator proposed pay for Japanese volunteers at half the American rates, with no citizenship or veterans' benefits.

MacArthur's message, made public by Magnuson, said that "the underlying purpose that you have in mind of bolstering the security of Japan and thereby strengtheing resistance to totalitarian communism throughout the world has my heartiest understanding and sympathy."

Gunman Who Killed Three Hunted In Forested Hills

EMINENCE, Mo., Aug. 8 (AP) — A man sought as the slayer of three persons leaped from a ditched car and fled into heavily forested hills near here today as a posse pressed its search for the gunman.

The gunman, identified by the State Highway Patrol as William Harris, 39, killed three and wounded two others in a shooting spree in a farmhouse in the Ozark mountains near this Southern town last night.

Killed in the shooting last night were R. S. (Bill) Fansler, 63; his son, Homer L. Fansler and Barbara Harris, 4-year-old daughter of the gunman. Wounded were Fansler's wife, Rosa, 60, and his brother-in-law, Chester Nichols, 42. They were taken to Springfield Hospitals. Nichols received a wound in the hip and Mrs. Fansler a shoulder wound. The hospital reported Mrs. Fansler's condition was serious.

Motive for the shooting remained obsure today.

Today a pickup truck sped past a roadblock maintained by Trooper G. D. Lindsay on Dead Man Ridge in Western Carter County, 20 miles east and south of Eminence. The trooper gave a chase but a man believed to be Harris escaped into the woods.

Wilson Quits A-Commission, Blasts Dean

Questions Atomic Chief's Ability

By WILLARD H. MOBLEY

WASHINGTON, Aug. 8 (AP) — Carroll Wilson, general manager for the Atomic Energy Commission ever since that civilian agency took over from the Army, quit today in an explosive split with AEC Chairman Gordon Dean.

Wilson issued a statement saying he lacked the "confidence" in Dean necessary to do the job properly. He questioned the chairman's experience and qualifications to head the huge task of developing atomic energy for war and peace.

Wilson's intention to quit, effective next Tuesday, first became known when the White House released an exchange of letters between him and President Truman. This correspondence did not disclose the reasons for the resignation, which Mr. Truman said he had "no alternative" but to accept.

Wilson then issued the statement outlining his reasons. Dean told a reporter he had seen the statement and added that "while I'm sorely tempted to, I don't care to comment on it."

The commission referred questioners to an AEC statement, issued ahead of Wilson's blast, saying the AEC "deeply regrets the loss of Mr. Wilson's services" and asserting:

The commission announced that Carleton Shugg, who has been Wilson's deputy, will be acting general manager. The job consists of carrying out policies and administrative duties on instructions from the commission.

Wilson's blast at Dean found little support on Capitol Hill, at least immediately. Senator Mc Mahon (D-Conn), chairman of the joint Senate - House Atomic Committee, announced that the committee had unanimously authorized him to "express its confidence" in Dean.

Anti-Tank Rifle Is Russian Make

WASHINGTON, Aug. 8 (AP) — A long barreled anti-tank rifle believed to have killed the crews of a number of American tanks in Korea has been identified by the U. S. Army as a Russian-made 1941 model.

The Army has had a sample of this gun since World War II. It contends the rifle is outmoded and the U. S. is producing no similar weapon for American infantrymen.

Instead, the Army is concentrating in this field on three projects:

1. Producing the 3.5-inch Bazooka and its ammunition, now in use by American troops in Korea.

2. Producing recoilless rifles which can be carried by two infantrymen yet can fire a high explosive shell more than 4,000 yards.

3. Solving technical problems involved in starting production of shaped charge ammunition for recoilless rifles.

Wallace Ends Progressive Membership

Says He Can Better Serve Peace Cause

NEW YORK, Aug. 8 (AP) — Henry Wallace tonight pulled out of the Progressive Party which was formed to run him for president in 1948.

The former Vice-President and former Secretary of Commerce wrote to C. B. Baldwin, Progressive Party secretary:

"In view of the actions recently taken by the national committee of the Progressive Party and the various state committees, I am convinced that I can more effectively serve the cause of peace by resigning from the national committee and the executive committee of the Progressive Party.

"You will therefore take this letter as my formal resignation from the party."

Wallace recently issued a statement saying that, although he was not condoning previous actions of either the United States or Russia, he must stand with his country and the United Nations on Korea.

On the same day the national committee issued a statement opposing American intervention in the Korean fighting.

Marines To Call Reserves Back As They Are Needed

Junior Officers, Enlisted Men First

WASHINGTON, Aug. 8 (AP)—The Marine Corps announced today that its call-up of volunteer reserves will be paced to meet expansion requirements.

A Marine Corps statement issued today said that reservists to receive orders to report between August 15 and October 31 will be mainly officers of captain's rank and below and enlisted men of sergeant's grade and below, with combat type specialties.

The statement was described as "an amplification" of yesterday's announcement on calling up reserves. It said the "very few senior officers and senior enlisted men" will be called in the first phase.

Only a few women Marines will be summoned to active duty initially, the corps stated. They will be called as required to meet the general expansion of the corps and to release males for the operating forces.

The corps spokesman said that the results obtained from the first call for 50,000 volunteer reservists would govern, to an extent, the mobilization schedule for the approximately 30,000 remaining reservists.

"We don't know how many men we will actually get on this first call," a spokesman said, "but we need 50,000." He added that the call to active duty would eventually go to all of the volunteer reserves.

Marine reservists called up will serve for an indefinite period, the spokesman added. "There is no time limit on their terms of active duty," the spokesman stated.

'Desert Mermaid' Swims Channel In Record Time

Shirley May France Fails Again

DOVER, Eng., Aug. 8 (AP) — Pretty Florence Chadwick, a "desert mermaid" from San Diego, Calif., swam the English Channel today an hour faster than any other woman in history.

Shirley May France, a more publicized entry from Somerset, Mass., failed for the second time in two years to complete the punishing grind — 19 miles as the crow flies; 22 or more as the swimmer breasts the tide.

Florence splashed through the seaweed under Dover's chalk cliffs just 13 hours and 28 minutes after plunging into the water at Cap Gris Nez, France.

A trim, lithe professional swimmer who decided to try the channel while working as a typist for the Arabian-American Oil Company in hot, Sandy Saudi Arabia, she erased the women's record of 14 hours and 34 minutes set by Gertrude Ederle of New York August 6, 1926. She is 31.

Shirley May, a 17-year-old high school girl, was pulled hysterical and weeping into her pilot boat, still eight and a half miles from her goal, almost at the moment Florence stepped ashore.

"Everyone's going to think I'm a flop," Shirley May sobbed.

They started from the French coast only 19 minutes apart. Florence plunged in at 2:37 a.m. (8:37 p.m. EST Monday) and Shirley May at 2:56.

It never developed into a race.

Training that she did for months in the Persian Gulf paid off. The cold water, nowhere warmer than 60 degrees, never bothered her.

She kept right on smiling when she swam smack into the middle of a gunnery practice range, forcing a battery of British territorials to quit lobbing shells off the Dover cliffs.

When she finally wallowed ashore through a bed of kelp, Florence told newsmen:

"I feel fine. I am quite prepared to swim back."

Told that she had succeeded in her aim of bettering the Ederle record, she exclaimed:

"Oh Boy! Good."

Md. Draft Boards "Equipped For Job"

BALTIMORE, Aug. 8 (AP) — Col. Henry C. Stanwood, State Selective Service director, said today Maryland's draft boards are equipped well enough to handle their job in the "foreseeable future."

The job is calling up enough men to fill the state's quota of 1,474 soldiers through October.

Troops In South Renew Offensive

TOKYO, Wednesday, Aug. 9 (AP)—The Korean communists today shoved tanks and troops across the Naktong Rvier only 12 air miles northwest of Taegu as the entire river defense line erupted in heavy fighting.

The greatest threat yet to the key communications hub came as Americans launched a general attack against a red bridgehead to the southwest. Counterattacking South Koreans hammered the reds back to the River's east bank at spots northwest of Taegu.

On the Korean south coast, beyond the flaming Naktong River line, U. S. Marines and Army infantry got their offensive rolling again toward Chinju.

An Eighth Army communique Wednesday morning said these westward-thrusting Americans had gained two to three miles against determined red resistance.

The gravest menace to Taegu, 55 miles northwest of the all-important supply port of Pusan, was at Waegwan. There the communists got 10 tanks and a battalion of troops across in a dawn haze Wednesday and set up strong roadblocks behind the U. S. First Cavalry Division.

Five of the red tanks were reported knocked out but the reds still had five tanks and perhaps 2,500 men on the east bank at a point where a main highway curves 16 miles to Taegu. Some 1,600 North Koreans earlier had been reported across the river at Waegwan.

The First Cavalry shot out patrols into the haze-draped area as soon as the dawn crossing was reported. By the time they made contact the tanks were coming over. Associated Press Correspondent Leif Erickson, reporting the action at Eighth Army Headquarters, said how the tanks got across was not determined immediately.

Correspondent O. H. P. King on the Naktong River front said that fresh American reinforcements jumped off at 5:45 a. m. on the communist bridgehead west of Changnyong, 23 miles southwest of Taegu.

Other American elements which had been containing an estimated 2,500 to 3,000 North Koreans joined in the general attack.

Sharp artillery fire and heavy air strikes supported the American drive to push the Reds back to the west bank of the Naktong.

About 40 miles farther north, the South Korean First Division slammed a strong counterattack last night at three Red regiments threatening Taegu from the northwest.

The Reds were hurled back 2.3 to 3.4 miles, American advisory sources said, with the South Korean drive reaching banks of the Naktong River.

Truman Signs Bill For Atomic Sub

WASHINGTON, Aug. 8 (AP) — President Truman today signed a $350,000,000 Navy shipbuilding bill, which includes authority to build this country's first atomic-powered submarine.

The act also authorizes the building of radically new small combat craft, including several experimental type submarines, as well as the conversion of a cruiser into a guided missile vessel.

Violence Threatens In N. J. Gas "War"

TRENTON, N. J., Aug. 8 (AP) — Shouting threats of violence, some 2,500 New Jersey service station operators voted today to shut down tomorrow for a week in protest of a gasoline price war in the state.

The station operators denounced price-cutting gasoline companies and demanded a state investigation of the price war in New Jersey. Prices for standard brands of gasoline have dropped from 24.4 to 20.9 per gallon in many cases.

Execution Stayed

CHARLESTON, W. Va., Aug. 8 (AP) —The State Supreme Court granted a 90-day stay of execution today to Robert Ballard Bailey, who was under sentence to die August 25 in the state prison at Moundsville.

Austin told the council:

"It is not edifying to the Security Council for the representative of the Soviet Union to use his position as president of the Security Council to make these charges there, that the United States of America is the aggressor, that the South Koreans provoked the North Koreans by invading North Korea, and doing this on the time of the Security Council and on the time of those poor boys over there who are under fire while we monkey and twist the rules and the charter of the United Nations solely for the purpose of preventing progress toward peace and toward the consideration of a resolution first on the table that has a tendency at least to narrow the area of conflict and to clarify the picture before the world."

"When the president, as such or as the representative of the Soviet Union — it makes no difference which hat he wears while he is doing it—but, when he undertakes to persuade this great audience here present and in all the world outside that the United States of America is an aggressor in Korea, I would like to ask:

"Whose troops are attacking deep in the country of somebody else? The North Koreans.

"Whose country is being overrun by an invading army? The Republic of Korea.

"Who is assisting the Republic of Korea to defend itself? The United Nations, with the support of 53 out of 59 members.

"Who has the influence and the power to call off the invading Northern Korean army? The Soviet Union.

"Who then is supporting the United Nations charter and working for peace? The fifty-three members of the United Nations who are assisting the Republic of Korea.

"Is the Soviet Union one of the 53? No.

"What member of this Security Council is assisting in the Security Council the invaders? The Soviet Union."

The American delegate was loudly applauded by the public section of the audience and Malik gavelled for order with an admonition to the public to remain orderly.

Austin fired his broadside at Malik directly after Malik accused the United States of using "gangster" methods in trying to force decisions on the council. Malik also put up a resolution proposing that the council order the Americans to cease bomb attacks on Korea's people and towns.

The Russians popped their resolution into the council after a speech by Malik tagged by several western delegates as part of an obvious filibuster. Western sources said approval of this resolution would give a big boost to North Korean troops since the North Korean planes have been swept out of the air by the Americans and no longer present a serious threat to the United Nations forces in Korea.

COLLEGE PARK, Md., Aug. 8 (AP)—A debate on whether communism is "a friend of America," banned from the University of Maryland campus here, is off altogether, so far as its sponsors are concerned.

Truman Critical Of Alaskan Strike

WASHINGTON, Aug. 8 (AP)—Secretary of Defense Johnson said today that President Truman agrees with him that a housing construction strike in Alaska is "jeopardizing the security of the United States."

Details of the strike as given by Johnson to reporters did not jibe with information obtained from the Federal Mediation and Conciliation Service and from the office of Alaskan Delegate E. L. Bartlett. Johnson denounced the work stoppage, however, in no uncertain terms.

B'Nai B'Rith Takes Stand

SAN DIEGO, Calif., Aug. 8 (AP)—A district convention of B'Nai B'rith, Jewish service organization, were on record today against "false peace movements" in the Korean crisis.

Delegates from eight western states adopted a resolution declaring such moves are "inspired and motivated by the very forces that have brought about the present world crisis."

The resolution condemned communism and all forms of totalitarianism and pledged support of the United States' action in Korea.

The American counter drive on the south coast was reported in motion again after being stalled most of Tuesday. It was hitting stiff resistance.

Red Debate Banned

COLLEGE PARK, Md., Aug. 8 (AP)—A debate on whether communism is "a friend of America," banned from the University of Maryland campus here, is off altogether, so far as its sponsors are concerned.

Truman Critical Of Alaskan Strike

WASHINGTON, Aug. 8 (AP)—Secretary of Defense Johnson said today that President Truman agrees with him that a housing construction strike in Alaska is "jeopardizing the security of the United States."

Details of the strike as given by Johnson to reporters did not jibe with information obtained from the Federal Mediation and Conciliation Service and from the office of Alaskan Delegate E. L. Bartlett. Johnson denounced the work stoppage, however, in no uncertain terms.

B'Nai B'Rith Takes Stand

SAN DIEGO, Calif., Aug. 8 (AP)—A district convention of B'Nai B'rith, Jewish service organization, were on record today against "false peace movements" in the Korean crisis.

Delegates from eight western states adopted a resolution declaring such moves are "inspired and motivated by the very forces that have brought about the present world crisis."

The resolution condemned communism and all forms of totalitarianism and pledged support of the United States' action in Korea.

Polio's Challenge

More Hospitals Join Fight To Check Dread Disease

This year's national outbreak of poliomyelitis is running second to the all-time record set last summer. For the year to date more than 6,000 cases have been reported to the Public Heath Service in Washington. The disease this yer is more widespread Texas is among regions being hit harder than in 1949. Aspects of the challenge are discussed in this series of five articles. Here is the first.

By HOWARD W. BLAKESLEE

NEW YORK — (AP) — Apparently the United States must grin and bear it with polio for another two or three years.

There is nothing now ready to stop the disease, and only one possibility even in sight—that is vaccination.

Meanwhile polio is rising rapidly. The count is under last year's all-time record, but with that exception higher than any other year. It is far above the average.

Roland Berg, of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis, says recent polio history indicates that the yearly averages are likely to remain high. Before 1945 the average was 10,000 to 12,000 cases a year. Since then the average has jumped to 20,000 to 22,000. Last year's count was double this average.

Paradoxically the rise in average is not an entirely bad sign. The higher counts are due partly to better awareness of doctors, to better diagnosis of the milder types. Also to better reporting of the disease. Since the medical profession has been paying sharper attention, some of the increase may be due to other diseases masquerading as mild forms of polio, but not yet distinguished from the paralytic disease.

The nation entered the 1950 polio season better equipped than ever before. The number of general hospitals which will accept cases of polio are the index of this improvement. Last year there were 800 hospitals. This year there are 1,000. Eight years ago there were only 300.

Why the fears by hospitals? Because so little was known about polio, so little could be done for the sick, and fear of spreading the disease to other patients. It was long believed that polio patients had to be isolated. Hospitals have learned that polio spread can be prevented without isolation by sanitary precautions.

The entry of so many hospitals is one of the most important anti-polio moves on record. It is part of community awakening. Along with this awakening, thousands of doctors have been studying polio, learning how to diagnose it and how to treat it. Until a few years ago, the disease was so seldom seen that few doctors had any reason to become experts. Polio was left to those with special training. Now doctors are not only making their own studies, but thousands are taking refresher courses in polio. This year there will be one or more such courses in every state, with the national foundation paying the expenses of instruction.

There are 17,000 victims of paralysis of previous years still requiring care this year. There is $10,900,000 at work on research. There were 42,375 cases last year.

Will polio hit again in the places where it was worst last year? There is no advance answer. In New York which had the highest state total last year, 5,241, the early increase this year is different. Now it is more widespread, and apparently less concentrated in heavily populated areas.

Rep. Hall Says Demos To Blame For Korean War

WASHINGTON, (AP)—Rep. Leonard W. Hall (R.-N.Y.), chairman of the Republican Congressional Committee, says the Democrats, not the Republicans, are to blame for the communist invasion of South Korea.

Hall made the statement in a letter to Democratic nominees for the House and in reply to a recent letter sent to the same nominees by Rep. Kirwan (D.-Ohio), chairman of the Democratic National Congressional Committee.

Hall said he sent the letter to Democrats in order to correct "outright errors of fact, padded figures, and distortions of the actual record" in the Democratic letter.

Kirwan had claimed that "isolationists" in Congress and he said most of the Republicans belonged in that category—"must shoulder the responsibility for the communist attack on South Korea."

In support of that claim he cited almost solid opposition in the House to a bill for economic aid in Korea. The bill was defeated last January by a one-vote margin but was passed later.

Hall said a speech last January 12 by Secretary of State Acheson "was an open invitation for the Chinese communists to complete the conquest of China by taking Formosa and South Korea." In that speech, he said, Acheson told the world that the United States would not intervene in China, Formosa or Korea.

Hall said the Democrat letter had claimed that more than $310,000,000 was provided Korea in arms and equipment for defense purposes. Hall called this a "complete misstatement of fact and erorr as to figures." The actual military assistance, he said, was $57,000,000.

He accused the Democrats of having padded figures on the amount of arms purchased by Korea from this country. The actual amount, he said, was $253,000 based on official records but the Democrats represented it as $253,000,000.

"It is to be presumed," he said, "you would not want to be a party to any such bald deception by the Democratic Congressional Committee to promote poiltical ends."

Hall said the war in Korea was a culmination of "the tragic policy pursued by the administration for five years."

Verdict On The Eleven Cuts Through Phraseology

"Nobody doubts," said U. S. Judge Learned Hand, "that when the leader of a mob already ripe for riot gives the word to start, his utterance is not protected by the (First or 'free speech') amendment."

This verdict, the unanimous opinion of three Court of Appeals judges, reaffirms the guilt for the eleven Communist Party members who had been arraigned for conspiracy to overthrow the government by force. The U. S. reds, having lost out twice, may now appeal their case to the Supreme Court. They are almost certain to do so.

What the appellate court has done is cut through the murk of phraseology raised by attorneys for the communists during the course of the celebrated trial before Judge Harold R. Medina in New York last year. By every sort of harassment and devious line of action the attorneys tried to keep the court in disorder and tempt Judge Medina into committing a judicial error of some sort. Meanwhile they were hammering away at the line that the Smith Act—the law under which they were eventually convicted and sentenced—was unconstitutional.

The lengths to which the defense went and the irrelevant arguments they brought into play were too numerous for repetition here. The appeals court has upheld Judge Medina and decided that (1) the Smith Act is entirely valid, and (2) sufficient evidence was presented by the government attorneys to justify the verdict of guilt.

To decide whether the actions of the communist defendants came within or fell outside the zone of protection granted by the First Amendment, the judges made an exhaustive analysis of American court decisions having to do with freedom of speech. In the eyes of the court "what these men taught and advocated is outside the zone."

It is typical of the twisted morality of the communist mind that the Daily Worker should dub this reasoned opinion a "war ruling." How topsy turvy can thinking get?

The Other Driver

"Why doesn't he learn to drive?" At this very instant some motorist is probably muttering that question under his breath as he recovers his course and equilibrium after barely getting his car out of a tight spot caused by the unpredicted antics of another driver. What this irate motorist almost never realizes is that the other driver doubtless is muttering the same question.

The automobile driver, described in general, has the terrible fault of expecting others to drive as he drives. He thinks that the "rules of the road" mean to others the same things they mean to him. But consider people outside of their automobiles, walking along a fairly busy street: Some walk slowly, some fast; some proceed in a straight, business-like line, others casually from shop to shop; some chatter amiably with companions, others go silently, intent on their surroundings. There are endless other deviations in the way people walk along a city street.

When these people drive cars, they also drive by different habits. Some want to go fast, some slow; some want to see what they pass, others only to get from one place of another; some make shrewd calculations of their chances and slide swiftly from one opening to another, while others are content to have their pace slowed for many miles rather than attempt a hurried pass. Different people have different ideas about how a car ought to be driven. This is the thing that so many drivers fail to take into consideration; they try to figure out what the other fellow is going to do on the basis of what they would do. All too often this reasoning is wrong, and the result is a tight spot, perhaps an accident.

The next time you find yourself chafing at the behavior of another driver, pause long enough to remember that his way to drive may be different from yours, yet possibly just as good. This may improve your prospect for a ripe old age.

Put On Another Record

Can the Russians possibly be so simple-minded as to believe what they keep on saying about Americans? In public statements as well as in the deliberations of the Security Council they speak of the United States as the aggressor in Korea. This notwithstanding the fact that when the war started this country had only a corporal's guard stationed in the republic and even now has infinitely fewer troops than the government at which the supposed attack is aimed. No aggressor in history has ever embarked on an adventure under such unfavorable conditions.

Another loudly proclaimed Soviet theory is to the effect that the United States seeks permanent possession of Korea for itself. That statement is even sillier than the other. To men of even limited intelligence it must be clear that there is nothing in Korea that this country wants or could use. To own it would be merely to acquire another headache and to complicate still further our international situation.

It is useless to expect the Russians, in and out of the council, to end this defamation of the United States. But, because the world is sick and tired of the tune they have been playing, one may at least suggest that they put on another record.

Something Big Is Up

The most remarkable thing about the whole World War II atomic energy project, in which the duPont Company had a leading part, was the awesome veil of security that cloaked the project until the very moment the bomb dropped on Hiroshima.

The most remarkable thing about the Atomic Energy Commission's announcement that duPont has accepted the assignment of building and operating new atomic energy facilities, is its utter frankness. Most observers interpret this to mean that duPont will undertake to develop processes and materials for the H-bomb in the same way it did the A-bomb. There seem to be valid reasons for thinking along these lines. It seems obvious that something big is up.

There is no question that the project is "of vital importance to the security of the United States." While Soviet progress in the field of atomic energy has been the subject of much guesswork, the probability is that the U. S. still holds a lead of sorts. The U. S. must not only hold it, but increase it. That, evidently, is the task the duPont Company finds cut out for it.

The government has come out against hoarding, unmindful of all those eggs stored in a Kansas cave.

Moscow claims the U. S. has been dropping potato bugs on Eastern Germany. And us, with potatoes to give away?

Bites and Stings

MOSQUITOES and gnats inject an irritating fluid under the skin just prior to sucking the blood. It is believed that the swelling and itching that follow are due to allergy to this substance. Individuals who claim to be immune to insect bites probably are not sensitive and are unaware of being molested because a reaction does not occur.

Bees and wasps cause even more severe symptoms. Occasionally the effect is alarming, especially when it occurs in the aged. The same can be said when a bee stings a person who is highly sensitive to the venom. In the last few years several lives have been saved by recognizing the allergic aspect and treating the condition accordingly. Adrenalin is still used when quick action is needed but for mild bites application of a salve containing one of the anti-histaminics is sufficient. This controls itching and shortly thereafter swelling subsides. The sting of a bee or wasp on the front of the eye also causes serious damage. This produces a violent inflammation but if the stinger is removed prompt recovery usually takes place. Otherwise redness and swelling of the eye becomes more severe and occasionally produces scarring.

Ant, caterpillar, beetle and spider bites are far from harmless. The black widow spider is the most notorious and has caused death in children. Adults usually survive but are definitely ill and excruciating pain is noted at the site of attack. These creatures are more prevalent in the south and are found generally in dark corners and closets. About 10 or 15 minutes after the nip a burning sensation develops over the involved area that spreads gradually throughout the whole body. This is associated with abdominal pain and severe cramps in the arms, legs, and back. Most of the victims become weak, restless, and occasionally hysterical from fear. Headache, nausea, and vomiting add to the discomfort. Symptoms gradually subside after the body neutralizes the poisonous venom. In the past very little could be done except to apply an ice bag, or to use drugs that ease pain or relax muscle spasm. Nowadays calcium gluconate is used and, according to some reports, immediate relief was obtained after giving a 10 per cent solution intravenously.

The scorpion is a threat only in the dry climate of the southwest. This anthropod resembles a lobster or crawfish and some varieties inject a lethal venom when molested or surprised. An effective rabbit anti-scorpion serum is available but it is so difficult to make that it is rarely used. In Arizona most physicians rely upon ice bags and tourniquets to hold the venom in the bitten area. The tourniquet, for example, is removed after five minutes but the hand or foot is kept in ice water for two hours. Sedatives induce relaxation and prevent convulsions but should be administered promptly to be effective.

Venetian blinds "do not a prison make." Their owners would be fortunate in having as many methods of adjustment—and proper adjustment to life prevents neuroses.

It Says Here

By BOB HOPE

Hats off to the newest television star.

Yes, sir, Mayor O'Dwyer has been appearing on his own television show in New York and all the critics agree that he is a big hit.

This experience may come in handy during the next mayoralty election. His slogan may be: "Vote for O'Dwyer . . . his Hooper's higher."

O'Dwyer's success in television might land him in the movies. He may even get an offer to star in a Cecil B. De Mille epic, but the details may be hard to work out. De Mille will probably insist on using all eight million New Yorkers as extras.

The Mayor, who is famed for catching public enemies, will still be able to carry on despite his television show. With so many crime programs on TV, all he has to do to nail a crook is move over to the next channel.

This television show is just another facet of His Honor's amazing career. Future historians of New York will long remember the "rain" of Mayor O'Dwyer. (Oops . . . sorry).

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

U. S. Has Not Worked At Spreading Democracy; Student Exchange Is Best Way For People To Get To Know Each Other; Moral Mobilization Helps

Says DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON—This is the last column I shall write before taking a couple of weeks off, and naturally I should like to make it a good one. But I don't feel so good about the state of the world or the state of the nation, and I don't get much kick out of sitting back and Peglarizing.

However, here are some contrasts affecting our future which the American public ought to know about and which Congress will have a chance to rectify—if it wants to.

CONTRAST NO. 1—Between 1,200 to 2,000 Chinese students are going to Moscow every month to become indoctrinated in the ways of the Soviet. Mao Tse-Tung, now the communist ruler of China, spent a long time studying in Moscow, and they will follow in his footsteps. Twenty years ago the Russians planned their domination of China by setting up a special university of the Far East. The monthly trek of Chinese students across the Trans-Siberian Railroad shows Moscow is still looking far into the future.

In contrast, the U.S.A. used to bring possibly 1,200 Chinese students to this country a year, against what the Russians are bringing per month. Some of our Boxer-Rebellion-educated Chinese went back to help run China, but for about ten years almost no Chinese students have come here. When they do come they are heckled and hounded with red tape, including a bond which says they are undesirable yellowmen who promise not to remain in the U. S. A.

CONTRAST NO. 2—The Russians recently invited the publisher of three Indo-Chinese newspapers to Moscow, where they gave him a special parade of the Red Army, let him interview Stalin, gave him the caviar-vodka-ballet treatment, and sent him back after having spent perhaps $50,000 on his entertainment. His newspapers promptly came out for Russia.

Meanwhile, in Washington we entertain such important Oriental visitors as the Mayor of Tokyo and members of the Japanese Parliament at cheaper hotels near the Union Station, where we allow only $10 a day to cover all meals, hotel room and everything else—all because a niggardly Congress has cut "the exchange of persons" budget to the bone.

These distinguished visitors are told that President Truman is too busy to see them, though Stalin takes time to see leading Orientals. However, many state and city officials—with the notable exception of Boston—have done their best to be hospitable, while federal officials have done as much as they could within their penny-pinched budget.

CONTRAST NO. 3 — In Latin America the president who is friendliest to the United States was educated at the University of Maryland and the University of California. He is President Galo Plaza of Ecuador, who also runs one of the steadiest governments in Latin America.

In Argentina the Navy and Air Force are vigorously pro-American. Reason: Their commanding officers trained as cadets in the U.S.A. The Argentine Army was partly trained by Germans and is anti-American.

In Brazil, the Navy is also strong for the United States because its officers went to Ann polis. The Brazilian Army, trained by Europeans, did not rush to join the United States immediately after Pearl Harbor.

Congress permits only a handful of Latin Americans to get a free education in the United States, but many come here at their own expense anyway.

CONTRAST NO. 4—On July 13, the State Department's appropriation for "exchange of persons" and other propaganda came up for debate, and a majority of the Senate voted to cut $2,300,000 off a budget already scaled to the bone. Those who fought for people-to-people friendship were Fulbright of Arkansas and Lehman of New York. Those who led the fight against it were McKellar of Tennessee, McCarran of Nevada, and Saltonstall of Mass., with such senators as Byrd of Virginia, George of Georgia, Taft of Ohio, McCarthy of Wisconsin, and Brewster of Maine supporting them.

Meanwhile, a printer from Akron, Ohio, Fred W. Danner, walked into the State Department and offered to compensate for the niggardliness of Congress by printing 1,000,000 colored booklets telling the story of America, free. His offer was accepted.

Moral Mobilization

The above pertains only to channels for telling the story of America to foreign countries. It does not pertain to telling the story of America to Americans—which also is necessary.

For when we exhibit strong, moral leadership at home, such leadership spills over to other countries and gives us world leadership, too.

And I should like to suggest, as I quit writing and leave for my vacation, that what the world needs today—and what we need—is hope. We live too much in an age of fear. We worry constantly. We worry about what happens after we reach the 38th Parallel in Korea, what happens after the Korean war is ended? We worry about arming to the teeth, taxing ourselves to the bone, living in a world where the atomic bomb may be dropped at any moment.

These are justifiable worries. They cannot be dispelled by a pollyanna policy or the cove system. The only way to dispel them, it seems to me, is by both moral mobilization and total mobilization.

The far-sighted Senator from Connecticut, Brien McMahon, saw this some time ago when he proposed that we take the lead in demanding world disarmament. This is something which not only negates Moscow's cry that we are warmongers, but more than anything else, it gives the world hope.

Ultimatum To Moscow

The time is soon approaching, when, with both total mobilization and moral mobilization, we should notify Moscow that we are ready for any eventualities, and that we demand two things:

1. Total disarmament.
2. Normal interchange of peoples, books, newspapers; religious worship, and the end of the iron curtain.

In brief, the time has come to notify Moscow that when a heavily armed nation holds itself aloof from the world, refusing to let its people know the peaceful hopes of the world, constantly preparing them for war—then such unsocial attitude constitutes war—and we give them the alternative of changing their policy or dropping the bomb.

No city or community in the Western World would permit an armed citizen to build up an arsenal and constantly terrorize his neighbors. He would be locked up.

In this modern day, nations have become like people, and must be dealt with accordingly.

That is why dollars today are not as important as ideas. That is why armed mobilization must be accompanied by moral mobilization, and most important of all why we cannot influence the world—or ourselves — without giving mankind hope.

Groaning In Washington Due To Inflation Threat

By MARK SULLIVAN

PRECEDING the Korean crisis, the operation of the American economy was largely influenced, indeed one could say it was largely determined by the Administration at Washington. Central in the Administration concept of the country's economy was increase of the national income, meaning the aggregate income of all the people. President Truman, in public statements and messages to Congress, dwelt exultantly upon an increase of some $100,000,000,000 in the annual national income that had taken place during the past ten years. Then in a speech at Pendleton, Ore., last May, he projected the increase into the future. He said that the "goal" was to add another increase of $100,000,000,000 in the next ten years. That was the Administration's economic plan at the time the Korean crisis intervened.

"Increase in the national income" is an alluring phrase and, if understood, a justified one. But accurate understanding should see that the increase can come about in two ways. One is increase of real income, of true wealth—that is, increase in the quantity of goods produced and available to the people to make use of. The other is, increase taking place through marking up of figures. The two ways overlap and intermingle, but need to be examined separately.

Real increase of national income, actual increase of goods, goes on at all times. It is brought about by new inventions and improved processes in industry. An example is increase of farm crops—that is, of food—brought about by advances in farming. These include breeding of better stock, more scientific use of fertilizers, development of better seeds, and substitution of mechanical power for horsepower. Corresponding increases in real national income have come about through improvements in practically all industries.

Statistical Increase

The sum of these increases in the production of goods account for a large part of the $100,000,000,000 increase in annual national income that has taken place during the past ten years. But much of the $100,000,000,000 increase has come about in a different way.

The other way of increasing national income takes place not in the world of work and production, but in the world of statistics; it is a marking up of figures. This has gone on in a large way during the past five. Beginning in early 1946 there have been four rounds of increases in wage rates. These have not been increases in quantity of goods produced. Along with the increases in wage rates have gone increases in prices of goods, which of course were not increases in the production of goods.

These statistical increases in the national income have been much relied upon by the Administration, and have been promoted by it. Beginning in 1945 President Truman formally advocated raises in wage rates. The raise in wage rates resulted in increased costs of producing manufactured goods, usually and naturally followed by increased prices of such goods. These increased prices of manufactured goods were used by the Administration as justification for raising the official prices at which it supported farm crops. The theory, and the price support statute, was to the effect that prices paid to farmers for their crops must go up in proportion to increases in the prices farmers had to pay for manufactured goods.

Out The Window

The two statistical increases in national income composed a spiral mechanism. Increases in wage rates, followed by increases in prices of manufactured goods, was the basis of increases brought about by the government in prices of farm crops, of food. In turn, the governmentally caused increases in the prices of food became the basis of demands by labor unions and leaders for increased wage rates. The sta-

Reserves' Service Period Should Be Determined

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON, Aug. 8.—If the American people could somehow be assured, for innstance, that there would be no more fighting after Korea is pacified and that the main purpose of mobilization now is to prevent a large-scale war, there is no sacrifice of time or convenience or dollars that would not be enthusiastically made. Such assurance can't be given, but what is the plan if large-scale war doesn't break out for years?

The big problem now for President Truman and his advisers is home-front morale. Young men who did their bit and more in World War II are being asked to give up their jobs and detach themselves from their families—and many of these men now have responsibilities they did not have when they went to war before.

A long-range program of assurance that the reserves now being called up will be replaced in a year or thereabouts is absolutely essential. The reserves being called now for the Army, the Navy, the Marines, and the Air Force will go away to service with more enthusiasm and much less anxiety if they can be told that there is a plan to replace them and let them go back to work—in the event that large-scale war doesn't break out in a year.

Military Training Proposed

If Russia doesn't make another move like that in Korea and holds off further aggression, then it would not be fair to keep those American reservists in uniform doing police duty in various parts of the globe.

What is clearly indicated is the need for a system of universal military training to be authorized at once and a wider and wider application of the draft, together with more and more officers' training camps. Such a plan should be organized now so as to give some degree of assurance to the reservists that they will not remain in uniform indefinitely during a period of several years of tension in which hostilities do not occur.

Every day that passes seems to prove that the present period is unlike any other in the past. For while there is a readiness to meet sudden war, there is also the possibility that no large-scale war may break out at all. Preparation for either contingency must be the same so as to prevent war.

The assumption in the Korean affair has been that Russia wanted to test out America's determination to resist. If this is so, then the young men who have died and those who are making heroic sacrifices every day in Korea are performing a service for the rest of the American people which has not yet been pointedly explained or fully appreciated. Those soldiers in Korea who wonder why they are there should be told that they are preventing a large-scale war—that they are giving an example of American resistance which may prevent further aggression altogether.

To support the morale of men who are now in Korea and those in the United States who are donning uniforms, the Secretaries of the Army, Navy and Air, together with the Secretary of Defense, should be able soon to announce that a system of replacements is planned. If the money isn't specifically authorized for this as yet, Congress should be apprised of it so that plans can be laid immediatey to bring back after a few months or a year the veterans who have just responded to the call.

Could Assure Victory

What are the chances of large-scale war? This question cannot be answered by anyone, but a larger mobilization of trained men can prove valuable in the event that war does break out. Then, incidentally, America would have the newly trained men plus the first line of reserves and this could mean a force big enough to assure victory.

There's one pece of news in this connection that hasn't been printed yet which may or may not be a straw in the wind. For several days now, Russian submarines have appeared in Korean waters. They have been engaged in patrolling and getting information. They have not made a single maneuver of hostility. Instructions to our ships and planes at sea are to shoot or drop bombs only if a submarine gets itself in a position close enough to fire a torpedo. The mere fact that the Russian subs have refrained is proof that the Soviets do not intend to extend the area of hostilities and involve their own forces — at least, that's the present picture. But it is an encouraging one nevertheless, for if the Soviet had intended to start a war, they have had plenty of chance to do so these last ten days by firing from a submarine behind a North Korean flag.

There are other evidences that Moscow may intend to harass the Western allies but not to start large-scale war. The policy of America and her associates is to mobilize in the hope that the steps taken now will prevent war. Hence those who serve in uniform today and those behind them on the home front are playing a vital part, the importance of which they do not perhaps yet realize themselves. More should be said by the government about the immense contribution to peace being made by our armed forces today even though they are operating in a relatively small area.

These Days By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

The Press and the Courts

THE PRESS has come in for its share of criticism in recent years, principally by those who would in some manner limit its freedoms in the interests of a particular group.

Recently, Judge Simon H. Rifkind of New York has come up with what those who apparently prefer star chamber proceedings call "trial by newspaper." The particular annoyance of most of these critics is that the newspapers in New York gave such widespread publicity to the first Hiss trial that what, at the beginning, looked like a typical Washington push-over, led to an actual conviction in the second Hiss trial. The judges did not like the rough handling the court got from reporters, some of whom have had longer and more profound experience in the courts than some of the judges.

Held out by Judge Rifkind and others is the system in vogue in England where a case may not be discussed while it is on trial.

Granted that the British standard of judicial performance is high, British judges are all appointed practically for life. They do not have to go to politicians for the favor of a nomination or a renomination. They do not have to contribute to party funds in their own name or that of their fathers-in-law. Even federal judges, who in this country are also appointed for a tenure of good behavior, usually have to have the endorsement or friendship of some party boss or great figure. A few outstanding personalities can by-pass the politician, but they are very few.

What keeps some judges — too many of them — in line is fear of the press. Unfortunately, in large cities, the courts cannot be adequately covered; they are too numerous and the calendar enormous. Nevertheless, when a big issue arises, it is the press which watches in the interest of the people.

Judge Rifkind makes the point:

". . . There is practically no restraint upon the character of the information and opinion which a newspaper can publish about a case before trial, while it is pending before a jury, or after it has been decided."

Actually, what worries many lawyers and even judges is that sound reporters get the facts in many cases before they can be covered up. In the combination between politicians and criminals, the courts of this country would have been in a bad way were it not that newspapermen, on the prowl for news, rarely respect the politician or fear the criminal.

Judge Rifkind says, ". . . an attitude of dispassionateness, of objectively, or serenity prevail in the courtroom." He must be describing a court very different from, let us say, the one over which his colleague, Judge Medina, presided, where lawyers bickered and brayed and generally disgraced themselves.

In fact, in the first Hiss trial there was little enough objectivity when Justice Felix Frankfurter donned the role of a character witness. Nor was there much serenity or dignity.

The judge proposes that the bench, bar, and press get together to make a deal as to how the press is to handle cases before the courts. The reason:

". . . After all, the press and the courts are mutually interdependent. The press must have an uncoerced judiciary to maintain freedom of the press; and the judiciary requires an uncensored press to maintain an uncoerced judiciary. . ."

Apparently, Judge Rifkind does not understand the Anglo-Saxon tradition of freedom of the press. Newspapers exist not to have the courts protect their right to be free, but to publish the news. They are no dependent upon judges but upon their readers. Their obligation is not to politicians but to the public.

A judge, or a lawyer, or a witness is just like anybody else. If he makes news, good or bad, he gets his name in the paper and sometimes a picture. Maybe some of these rarified souls would prefer that newspapers publish nothing but their obituary notices, carefully edited so that their grandchildren may refer to them with pride. Life is not like that.

The best thing to do is to let the press alone. When the newspapers anger public opinion, they hear from the readers. And that is one voice that is never ignored. Our courts are not so perfect nor our judges so noble that this country can afford to suppress the free publication of the news about our courts.

Verdict On The Eleven Cuts Through Phraseology

"Nobody doubts," said U. S. Judge Learned Hand, "that when the leader of a mob already ripe for riot gives the word to start, his utterance is not protected by the (First or 'free speech') amendment."

This verdict, the unanimous opinion of three Court of Appeals judges, reaffirms the guilt for the eleven Communist Party members who had been arraigned for conspiracy to overthrow the government by force. The U. S. reds, having lost out twice, may now appeal their case to the Supreme Court. They are almost certain to do so.

What the appellate court has done is cut through the murk of phraseology raised by attorneys for the communists during the course of the celebrated trial before Judge Harold R. Medina in New York last year. By every sort of harassment and devious line of action the attorneys tried to keep the court in disorder and tempt Judge Medina into committing a judicial error of some sort. Meanwhile they were hammering away at the line that the Smith Act—the law under which they were eventually convicted and sentenced—was unconstitutional.

The lengths to which the defense went and the irrelevant arguments they brought into play were too numerous for repetition here. The appeals court has upheld Judge Medina and decided that (1) the Smith Act is entirely valid, and (2) sufficient evidence was presented by the government attorneys to justify the verdict of guilt.

To decide whether the actions of the communist defendants came within or fell outside the zone of protection granted by the First Amendment, the judges made an exhaustive analysis of American court decisions having to do with freedom of speech. In the eyes of the court "what these men taught and advocated is outside the zone."

It is typical of the twisted morality of the communist mind that the Daily Worker should dub this reasoned opinion a "war ruling." How topsy turvy can thinking get?

The Other Driver

"Why doesn't he learn to drive?" At this very instant some motorist is probably muttering that question under his breath as he recovers his course and equilibrium after barely getting his car out of a tight spot caused by the unpredicted antics of another driver. What this irate motorist almost never realizes is that the other driver doubtless is muttering the same question.

The automobile driver, described in general, has the terrible fault of expecting others to drive as he drives. He thinks that the "rules of the road" mean to others the same things they mean to him. But consider people outside of their automobiles, walking along a fairly busy street: Some walk slowly, some fast; some proceed in a straight, business-like line, others casually from shop to shop; some chatter amiably with companions, others go silently, intent on their surroundings. There are endless other deviations in the way people walk along a city street.

When these people drive cars, they also drive by different habits. Some want to go fast, some slow; some want to see what they pass, others only to get from one place of another; some make shrewd calculations of their chances and slide swiftly from one opening to another, while others are content to have their pace slowed for many miles rather than attempt a hurried pass. Different people have different ideas about how a car ought to be driven. This is the thing that so many drivers fail to take into consideration; they try to figure out what the other fellow is going to do on the basis of what they would do. All too often this reasoning is wrong, and the result is a tight spot, perhaps an accident.

The next time you find yourself chafing at the behavior of another driver, pause long enough to remember that his way to drive may be different from yours, yet possibly just as good. This may improve your prospect for a ripe old age.

Put On Another Record

Can the Russians possibly be so simple-minded as to believe what they keep on saying about Americans? In public statements as well as in the deliberations of the Security Council they speak of the United States as the aggressor in Korea. This notwithstanding the fact that when the war started this country had only a corporal's guard stationed in the republic and even now has infinitely fewer troops than the government at which the supposed attack is aimed. No aggressor in history has ever embarked on an adventure under such unfavorable conditions.

Another loudly proclaimed Soviet theory is to the effect that the United States seeks permanent possession of Korea for itself. That statement is even sillier than the other. To men of even limited intelligence it must be clear that there is nothing in Korea that this country wants or could use. To own it would be merely to acquire another headache and to complicate still further our international situation.

It is useless to expect the Russians, in and out of the council, to end this defamation of the United States. But, because the world is sick and tired of the tune they have been playing, one may at least suggest that they put on another record.

Something Big Is Up

The most remarkable thing about the whole World War II atomic energy project, in which the duPont Company had a leading part, was the awesome veil of security that cloaked the project until the very moment the bomb dropped on Hiroshima.

The most remarkable thing about the Atomic Energy Commission's announcement that duPont has accepted the assignment of building and operating new atomic energy facilities, is its utter frankness. Most observers interpret this to mean that duPont will undertake to develop processes and materials for the H-bomb in the same way it did the A-bomb. There seem to be valid reasons for thinking along these lines. It seems obvious that something big is up.

There is no question that the project is "of vital importance to the security of the United States." While Soviet progress in the field of atomic energy has been the subject of much guesswork, the probability is that the U. S. still holds a lead of sorts. The U. S. must not only hold it, but increase it. That, evidently, is the task the duPont Company finds cut out for it.

The government has come out against hoarding, unmindful of all those eggs stored in a Kansas cave.

Adrenalin is still used when quick action is needed but for mild bites application of a salve containing one of the anti-histaminics is sufficient. This controls itching and shortly thereafter swelling subsides. The sting of a bee or wasp on the front of the eye also causes serious damage. This produces a violent inflammation but if the stinger is removed prompt recovery usually takes place. Otherwise redness and swelling of the eye becomes more severe and occasionally produces scarring.

Ant, caterpillar, beetle and spider bites are far from harmless. The black widow spider is the most notorious and has caused death in children. Adults usually survive but are definitely ill and excruciating pain is noted at the site of attack. These creatures are more prevalent in the south and are found generally in dark corners and closets. About 10 or 15 minutes after the nip a burning sensation develops over the involved area that spreads gradually throughout the whole body. This is associated with abdominal pain and severe cramps in the arms, legs, and back. Most of the victims become weak, restless, and occasionally hysterical from fear. Headache, nausea, and vomiting add to the discomfort. Symptoms gradually subside after the body neutralizes the poisonous venom. In the past very little could be done except to apply an ice bag, or to use drugs that ease pain or relax muscle spasm. Nowadays calcium gluconate is used and, according to some reports, immediate relief was obtained after giving a 10 per cent solution intravenously.

The scorpion is a threat only in the dry climate of the southwest. This anthropod resembles a lobster or crawfish and some varieties inject a lethal venom when molested or surprised. An effective rabbit anti-scorpion serum is available but it is so difficult to make that it is rarely used. In Arizona most physicians rely upon ice bags and tourniquets to hold the venom in the bitten area. The tourniquet, for example, is removed after five minutes but the hand or foot is kept in ice water for two hours. Sedatives induce relaxation and prevent convulsions but should be administered promptly to be effective.

Venetian blinds "do not a prison make." Their owners would be fortunate in having as many methods of adjustment—and proper adjustment to life prevents neuroses.

It Says Here

By BOB HOPE

Hats off to the newest television star.

Yes, sir, Mayor O'Dwyer has been appearing on his own television show in New York and all the critics agree that he is a big hit.

This experience may come in handy during the next mayoralty election. His slogan may be: "Vote for O'Dwyer . . . his Hooper's higher."

O'Dwyer's success in television might land him in the movies. He may even get an offer to star in a Cecil B. De Mille epic, but the details may be hard to work out. De Mille will probably insist on using all eight million New Yorkers as extras.

The Mayor, who is famed for catching public enemies, will still be able to carry on despite his television show. With so many crime programs on TV, all he has to do to nail a crook is move over to the next channel.

This television show is just another facet of His Honor's amazing career. Future historians of New York will long remember the "rain" of Mayor O'Dwyer. (Oops . . . sorry).

U. S. Has Not Worked At Spreading Democracy; Student Exchange Is Best Way For People To Get To Know Each Other; Moral Mobilization Helps

Says DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON—This is the last column I shall write before taking a couple of weeks off, and naturally I should like to make it a good one. But I don't feel so good about the state of the world or the state of the nation, and I don't get much kick out of sitting back and Peglarizing.

However, here are some contrasts affecting our future which the American public ought to know about and which Congress will have a chance to rectify—if it wants to.

CONTRAST NO. 1—Between 1,200 to 2,000 Chinese students are going to Moscow every month to become indoctrinated in the ways of the Soviet. Mao Tse-Tung, now the communist ruler of China, spent a long time studying in Moscow, and they will follow in his footsteps. Twenty years ago the Russians planned their domination of China by setting up a special university of the Far East. The monthly trek of Chinese students across the Trans-Siberian Railroad shows Moscow is still looking far into the future.

In contrast, the U.S.A. used to bring possibly 1,200 Chinese students to this country a year, against what the Russians are bringing per month. Some of our Boxer-Rebellion-educated Chinese went back to help run China, but for about ten years almost no Chinese students have come here. When they do come they are heckled and hounded with red tape, including a bond which says they are undesirable yellowmen who promise not to remain in the U. S. A.

CONTRAST NO. 2—The Russians recently invited the publisher of three Indo-Chinese newspapers to Moscow, where they gave him a special parade of the Red Army, let him interview Stalin, gave him the caviar-vodka-ballet treatment, and sent him back after having spent perhaps $50,000 on his entertainment. His newspapers promptly came out for Russia.

Meanwhile, in Washington we entertain such important Oriental visitors as the Mayor of Tokyo and members of the Japanese Parliament at cheaper hotels near the Union Station, where we allow only $10 a day to cover all meals, hotel room and everything else—all because a niggardly Congress has cut "the exchange of persons" budget to the bone.

These distinguished visitors are told that President Truman is too busy to see them, though Stalin takes time to see leading Orientals. However, many state and city officials—with the notable exception of Boston—have done their best to be hospitable, while federal officials have done as much as they could within their penny-pinched budget.

CONTRAST NO. 3 — In Latin America the president who is friendliest to the United States was educated at the University of Maryland and the University of California. He is President Galo Plaza of Ecuador, who also runs one of the steadiest governments in Latin America.

In Argentina the Navy and Air Force are vigorously pro-American. Reason: Their commanding officers trained as cadets in the U.S.A. The Argentine Army was partly trained by Germans and is anti-American.

In Brazil, the Navy is also strong for the United States because its officers went to Annapolis. The Brazilian Army, trained by Europeans, did not rush to join the United States immediately after Pearl Harbor.

Congress permits only a handful of Latin Americans to get a free education in the United States, but many come here at their own expense anyway.

CONTRAST NO. 4—On July 13, the State Department's appropriation for "exchange of persons" and other propaganda came up for debate, and a majority of the Senate voted to cut $2,300,000 off a budget already scaled to the bone. Those who fought for people-to-people friendship were Fulbright of Arkansas and Lehman of New York. Those who led the fight against it were McKellar of Tennessee, McCarran of Nevada, and Saltonstall of Mass., with such senators as Byrd of Virginia, George of Georgia, Taft of Ohio, McCarthy of Wisconsin, and Brewster of Maine supporting them.

Meanwhile, a printer from Akron, Ohio, Fred W. Danner, walked into the State Department and offered to compensate for the niggardliness of Congress by printing 1,000,000 colored booklets telling the story of America, free. His offer was accepted.

Moral Mobilization

The above pertains only to channels for telling the story of America to foreign countries. It does not pertain to telling the story of America to Americans—which also is necessary.

For when we exhibit strong, moral leadership at home, such leadership spills over to other countries and gives us world leadership, too.

And I should like to suggest, as I quit writing and leave for my vacation, that what the world needs today—and what we need—is hope. We live too much in an age of fear. We worry constantly. We worry about what happens after we reach the 38th Parallel in Korea, what happens after the Korean war is ended? We worry about arming to the teeth, taxing ourselves to the bone, living in a world where the atomic bomb may be dropped at any moment.

These are justifiable worries. They cannot be dispelled by a pollyanna policy or the cove system. The only way to dispel them, it seems to me, is by both moral mobilization and total mobilization.

The far-sighted Senator from Connecticut, Brien McMahon, saw this some time ago when he proposed that we take the lead in demanding world disarmament. This is something which not only negates Moscow's cry that we are warmongers, but more than anything else, it gives the world hope.

Ultimatum To Moscow

The time is soon approaching, when, with both total mobilization and moral mobilization, we should notify Moscow that we are ready for any eventualities, and that we demand two things:

1. Total disarmament.

2. Normal interchange of peoples, books, newspapers; religious worship, and the end of the iron curtain.

In brief, the time has come to notify Moscow that when a heavily armed nation holds itself aloof from the world, refusing to let its people know the peaceful hopes of the world, constantly preparing them for war—then such unsocial attitude constitutes war—and we give them the alternative of changing their policy or dropping the bomb.

No city or community in the Western World would permit an armed citizen to build up an arsenal and constantly terrorize his neighbors. He would be locked up.

In this modern day, nations have become like people, and must be dealt with accordingly.

That is why dollars today are not as important as ideas. That is why armed mobilization must be accompanied by moral mobilization, and most important of all why we cannot influence the world—or ourselves — without giving mankind hope.

Groaning In Washington Due To Inflation Threat

By MARK SULLIVAN

PRECEDING the Korean crisis, the operation of the American economy was largely influenced, indeed one could say it was largely determined by the Administration at Washington. Central in the Administration concept of the country's economy was increase of the national income, meaning the aggregate income of all the people. President Truman, in public statements and messages to Congress, dwelt exultantly upon an increase of some $100,000,000,000 in the annual national income that had taken place during the past ten years. Then in a speech at Pendleton, Ore., last May, he projected the increase into the future. He said that the "goal" was to add another increase of $100,000,000,000 in the next ten years. That was the Administration's economic plan at the time the Korean crisis intervened.

"Increase in the national income" is an alluring phrase and, if understood, a justified one. But accurate understanding should see that the increase can come about in two ways. One is increase of real income, of true wealth—that is, increase in the quantity of goods produced and available to the people to make use of. The other is, increase taking place through marking up of figures. The two ways overlap and intermingle, but need to be examined separately.

Real increase of national income, actual increase of goods, goes on at all times. It is brought about by new inventions and improved processes in industry. An example is increase of farm crops—that is, of food—brought about by advances in farming. These include breeding of better stock, more scientific use of fertilizers, development of better seeds, and substitution of mechanical power for horsepower. Corresponding increases in real national income have come about through improvements in practically all industries.

Statistical Increase

The sum of these increases in the production of goods account for a large part of the $100,000,000,000 increase in annual national income that has taken place during the past ten years. But much of the $100,000,000,000 increase has come about in a different way.

The other way of increasing national income takes place not in the world of work and production, but in the world of statistics; it is a marking up of figures. This has gone on in a large way during the past ten years, especially during the past five. Beginning in early 1946 there have been four rounds of increases in wage rates. These have not been increases in quantity of goods produced. Along with the increases in wage rates have gone increases in prices of goods, which of course were not increases in the production of goods.

These statistical increases in the national income have been much relied upon by the Administration, and have been promoted by it. Beginning in 1945 President Truman formally advocated raises in wage rates. The raise in wage rates resulted in increased costs of producing manufactured goods, usually and naturally followed by increased prices of such goods. These increased prices of manufactured goods were used by the Administration as justification for raising the official prices at which it supported farm crops. The theory, and the price support statute, was to the effect that prices paid to farmers for their crops must go up in proportion to increases in the prices farmers had to pay for manufactured goods.

Out The Window

The two statistical increases in national income composed a spiral mechanism. Increases in wage rates, followed by increases in prices of manufactured goods, was the basis of increases brought about by the government in prices of farm crops, of food. In turn, the governmentally caused increases in the prices of food became the basis of demands by labor unions and leaders for increased wage rates. The sta-

Reserves' Service Period Should Be Determined

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON, Aug. 8.—If the American people could somehow be assured, for innstance, that there would be no more fighting after Korea is pacified and that the main purpose of mobilization now is to prevent a large-scale war, there is no sacrifice of time or convenience or dollars that would not be enthusiastically made. Such assurance can't be given, but what is the plan if large-scale war doesn't break out for years?

The big problem now for President Truman and his advisers is home-front morale. Young men who did their bit and more in World War II are being asked to give up their jobs and detach themselves from their families—and many of these men now have responsibilities they did not have when they went to war before.

A long-range program of assurance that the reserves now being called up will be replaced in a year or thereabouts is absolutely essential. The reserves being called now for the Army, the Navy, the Marines, and the Air Force will go away to service with more enthusiasm and much less anxiety if they can be told that there is a plan to replace them and let them go back to work—in the event that large-scale war doesn't break out in a year.

Military Training Proposed

If Russia doesn't make another move like that in Korea and holds off further aggression, then it would not be fair to keep those American reservists in uniform doing police duty in various parts of the globe.

What is clearly indicated is the need for a system of universal military training to be authorized at once and a wider and wider application of the draft, together with more and more officers' training camps. Such a plan should be organized now so as to give some degree of assurance to the reservists that they will not remain in uniform indefinitely during a period of several years of tension in which hostilities do not occur.

Every day that passes seems to prove that the present period is unlike any other in the past. For while there is a readiness to meet sudden war, there is also the possibility that no large-scale war may break out at all. Preparation for either contingency must be the same so as to prevent war.

The assumption in the Korean affair has been that Russia wanted to test out America's determination to resist. If this is so, then the young men who have died and those who are making heroic sacrifices every day in Korea are performing a service for the rest of the American people which has not yet been pointedly explained or fully appreciated. Those soldiers in Korea who wonder why they are there should be told that they are preventing a large-scale war—that they are giving an example of American resistance which may prevent further aggression altogether.

To support the morale of men who are now in Korea and those in the United States who are donning uniforms, the Secretaries of the Army, Navy and Air, together with the Secretary of Defense, should be able soon to announce that a system of replacements is planned. If the money isn't specifically authorized for this as yet, Congress should be apprised of it so that plans can be laid immediately to bring back after a few months or a year the veterans who have just responded to the call.

Could Assure Victory

What are the chances of large-scale war? This question cannot be answered by anyone, but a larger mobilization of trained men can prove valuable in the event that war does break out. Then, incidentally, America would have the newly trained men plus the first line of reserves and this could mean a force big enough to assure victory.

There's one pece of news in this connection that hasn't been printed yet which may or may not be a straw in the wind. For several days now, Russian submarines have appeared in Korean waters. They have been engaged in patrolling and getting information. They have not made a single maneuver of hostility. Instructions to our ships and planes at sea are to shoot or drop bombs only if a submarine gets itself in a position close enough to fire a torpedo. The mere fact that the Russian subs have refrained is proof that the Soviets do not intend to extend the area of hostilities and involve their own forces — at least, that's the present picture. But it is an encouraging one nevertheless, for if the Soviet had intended to start a war, they have had plenty of chance to do so these last ten days by firing from a submarine behind a North Korean flag.

There are other evidences that Moscow may intend to harass the Western allies but not to start large-scale war. The policy of America and her associates is to mobilize in the hope that the steps taken now will prevent war. Hence those who serve in uniform today and those behind them on the home front are playing a vital part, the importance of which they do not perhaps yet realize themselves. More should be said by the government about the immense contribution to peace being made by our armed forces today even though they are operating in a relatively small area.

These Days By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

The Press and the Courts

THE PRESS has come in for its share of criticism in recent years, principally by those who would in some manner limit its freedoms in the interests of a particular group.

Recently, Judge Simon H. Rifkind of New York has come up with what those who apparently prefer star chamber proceedings call "trial by newspaper." The particular annoyance of most of these critics is that the newspapers in New York gave such widespread publicity to the first Hiss trial that what, at the beginning, looked like a typical Washington push-over, led to an actual conviction in the second Hiss trial. The judges did not like the rough handling the court got from reporters, some of whom have had longer and more profound experience in the courts than some of the judges.

Held out by Judge Rifkind and others is the system in vogue in England where a case may not be discussed while it is on trial.

Granted that the British standard of judicial performance is high, British judges are all appointed practically for life. They do not have to go to politicians for the favor of a nomination or a renomination. They do not have to contribute to party funds in their own name or that of their fathers-in-law. Even federal judges, who in this country are also appointed for a tenure of good behavior, usually have to have the endorsement or friendship of some party boss or great figure. A few outstanding personalities can by-pass the politician, but they are very few.

What keeps some judges — too many of them — in line is fear of the press. Unfortunately, in large cities, the courts cannot be adequately covered; they are too numerous and the calendars enormous. Nevertheless, when a big issue arises, it is the press which watches in the interest of the people.

Judge Rifkind makes the point: ". . . There is practically no restraint upon the character of the information and opinion which a newspaper can publish about a case before trial, while it is pending before a jury, or after it has been decided."

Actually, what worries many lawyers and even judges is that sound reporters get the facts in many cases before they can be covered up. In the combination between politicians and criminals, the courts of this country would have been in a bad way were it not that newspapermen, on the prowl for news, rarely inspect the politician or fear the criminal.

Judge Rifkind says, ". . . an attitude of dispassionateness, of objectively, or serenity prevail in the courtroom." He must be describing a court very different from, let us say, the one over which his colleague, Judge Medina, presided, where lawyers bickered and brayed and generally disgraced themselves.

In fact, in the first Hiss trial there was little enough objectivity when Justice Felix Frankfurter donned the role of a character witness. Nor was there much serenity or dignity.

The judge proposes that the bench, bar, and press get together to make a deal as to how the press is to handle cases before the courts. The reason:

". . . After all, the press and the courts are mutually interdependent. The press must have an uncoerced judiciary to maintain freedom of the press; and the judiciary requires an uncensored press to maintain an uncoerced judiciary..."

Apparently, Judge Rifkind does not understand the Anglo-Saxon tradition of freedom of the press. Newspapers exist not to have the courts protect their right to be free, but to publish the news. They are no dependent upon judges but upon their readers. Their obligation is not to politicians but to the public.

A judge, or a lawyer, or a witness is just like anybody else. If he makes news, good or bad, he gets his name in the paper and sometimes a picture. Maybe some of these rarified souls would prefer that newspapers publish nothing but their obituary notices, carefully edited so that their grandchildren may refer to them with pride. Life is not like that.

The best thing to do is to let the press alone. When the newspapers anger public opinion, they hear from the readers. And that is one voice that is never ignored. Our courts are not so perfect nor our judges so noble that this country can afford to suppress the free publication of the news about our courts.

The Germ Turns

For as long as I can remember, my Uncle Charlie has been complaining of good health—not his own, mind you, but my Aunt Frieda's. For 40 winters, to hear him tell it, he has been an easy mark for colds, catarrhs and rheumatic pains, while his wife has never developed so much as a sniffle.

Billy Rose

Last February, when I dropped in to see them at their Allen Street flat, Charlie was in bed, runny-eyed and carmine nosed.

"What gives!" I asked.

"What always gives?" said my uncle. "Your aunt loses the flu, I find it. She's got a constitutional like a horse."

Frieda was in the kitchen warming up a plaster.

"Like a pastrami sandwich she treats me," said Charlie. "I'm all over mustard. Every reasonable woman lays down in bed once in a while. But not her—she won't give me the satisfaction . . ."

My favorite relatives came to this country around the time Teddy Roosevelt was elected, and the voyage over, according to Charlie, was the roughest in the history of navigation. It took 23 days and even the captain was seasick. Frieda was the only one on board who ate regularly, and she gained an average of a pound a day. When the helmsman took to his bunk—still according to Charlie—it was she who took the wheel. As for my uncle, he spent the entire trip with his head sticking out a porthole and, the weather being what it was, it was a miracle he wasn't drowned.

Because of this apparent immunity to disease, Frieda has always been one of the favorite daughters of the East Side, especially when any of the neighbors are ill. For years now, she's been carrying soup and solace to their homes, tending their kids and lecturing family doctors on their therapeutic shortcomings. "Herself, she don't get sick, but to me she brings back the germs," is the way Charlie explains her.

A few days ago, however, my uncle telephoned and, without bothering to suppress the triumph in his voice, said, "Frieda is flat like a pancake. She's got a flu, with complications yet."

"I'll send my doctor down," I said, "and I'll be around in the morning."

But when I walked up the three flights to their apartment the following day, the door was opened by an obviously in-the-pink Frieda.

"What are you doing out of bed?"

My aunt motioned me in, and in the bedroom, propped up on pillows as usual, was Charlie.

"What happened?"

"What should happen?" said Frieda. "Your uncle got overheated running up and down the stairs like a chicken"

"I thought you had the flu."

"Oh, that," said Frieda. "I fixed it with a guggle-muggle."

For the benefit of the uninitiate, a "guggle-muggle" is an old East Side remedy composed of warm milk, egg, honey, cinnamon and whiskey.

Verdict On The Eleven Cuts Through Phraseology

"Nobody doubts," said U. S. Judge Learned Hand, "that when the leader of a mob already ripe for riot gives the word to start, his utterance is not protected by the (First or 'free speech') amendment."

This verdict, the unanimous opinion of three Court of Appeals judges, reaffirms the guilt for the eleven Communist Party members who had been arraigned for conspiracy to overthrow the government by force. The U. S. reds, having lost out twice, may now appeal their case to the Supreme Court. They are almost certain to do so.

What the appellate court has done is cut through the murk of phraseology raised by attorneys for the communists during the course of the celebrated trial before Judge Harold R. Medina in New York last year. By every sort of harassment and devious line of action the attorneys tried to keep the court in disorder and tempt Judge Medina into committing a judicial error of some sort. Meanwhile they were hammering away at the line that the Smith Act—the law under which they were eventually convicted and sentenced—was unconstitutional.

The lengths to which the defense went and the irrelevant arguments they brought into play were too numerous for repetition here. The appeals court has upheld Judge Medina and decided that (1) the Smith Act is entirely valid, and (2) sufficient evidence was presented by the government attorneys to justify the verdict of guilt.

To decide whether the actions of the communist defendants came within or fell outside the zone of protection granted by the First Amendment, the judges made an exhaustive analysis of American court decisions having to do with freedom of speech. In the eyes of the court "what these men taught and advocated is outside the zone."

It is typical of the twisted morality of the communist mind that the Daily Worker should dub this reasoned opinion a "war ruling." How topsy turvy can thinking get?

"Why doesn't he learn to drive?" At this very instant some motorist is probably muttering that question under his breath as he recovers his course and equilibrium after barely getting his car out of a tight spot caused by the unpredicted antics of another driver. What this irate motorist almost never realizes is that the other driver doubtless is muttering the same question.

The automobile driver, described in general, has the terrible fault of expecting others to drive as he drives. He thinks that the "rules of the road" mean to others the same things they mean to him. But consider people outside of their automobiles, walking along a fairly busy street: Some walk slowly, some fast; some proceed in a straight, business-like line, others casually from shop to shop; some chatter amiably with companions, others go silently, intent on their surroundings. There are endless other deviations in the way people walk along a city street.

When these people drive cars, they also drive by different habits. Some want to go fast, some slow; some want to see what they pass, others only to get from one place of another; some make shrewd calculations of their chances and slide swiftly from one opening to another, while others are content to have their pace slowed for many miles rather than attempt a hurried pass. Different people have different ideas about how a car ought to be driven. This is the thing that so many drivers fail to take into consideration; they try to figure out what the other fellow is going to do on the basis of what they would do. All too often this reasoning is wrong, and the result is a tight spot, perhaps an accident.

The next time you find yourself chafing at the behavior of another driver, pause long enough to remember that his way to drive may be different from yours, yet possibly just as good. This may improve your prospect for a ripe old age.

Put On Another Record

Can the Russians possibly be so simple-minded as to believe what they keep on saying about Americans? In public statements as well as in the deliberations of the Security Council they speak of the United States as the aggressor in Korea. This notwithstanding the fact that when the war started this country had only a corporal's guard stationed in the republic and even now has infinitely fewer troops than the government at which the supposed attack is aimed. No aggressor in history has ever embarked on an adventure under such unfavorable conditions.

Another loudly proclaimed Soviet theory is to the effect that the United States seeks permanent possession of Korea for itself. That statement is even sillier than the other. To men of even limited intelligence it must be clear that there is nothing in Korea that this country wants or could use. To own it would be merely to acquire another headache and to complicate still further our international situation.

It is useless to expect the Russians, in and out of the council, to end this defamation of the United States. But, because the world is sick and tired of the tune they have been playing, one may at least suggest that they put on another record.

Something Big Is Up

The most remarkable thing about the whole World War II atomic energy project, in which the duPont Company had a leading part, was the awesome veil of security that cloaked the project until the very moment the bomb dropped on Hiroshima.

The most remarkable thing about the Atomic Energy Commission's announcement that duPont has accepted the assignment of building and operating new atomic energy facilities, is its utter frankness. Most observers interpret this to mean that duPont will undertake to develop processes and materials for the H-bomb in the same way it did the A-bomb. There seem to be valid reasons for thinking along these lines. It seems obvious that something big is up.

There is no question that the project is "of vital importance to the security of the United States." While Soviet progress in the field of atomic energy has been the subject of much guesswork, the probability is that the U. S. still holds a lead of sorts. The U. S. must not only hold it, but increase it. That, evidently, is the task the duPont Company finds cut out for it.

The government has come out against hoarding, unmindful of all those eggs stored in a Kansas cave.

Moscow claims the U. S. has been dropping potato bugs on Eastern Germany. And us, with potatoes to give away?

HOW TO KEEP WELL

Bites and Stings

MOSQUITOES and gnats inject an irritating fluid under the skin just prior to sucking the blood. It is believed that the swelling and itching that follow are due to allergy to this substance. Individuals who claim to be immune to insect bites probably are not sensitive and are unaware of being molested because a reaction does not occur.

Bees and wasps cause even more severe symptoms. Occasionally the effect is alarming, especially when it occurs in the aged. The same can be said when a bee stings a person who is highly sensitive to the venom. In the last few years several lives have been saved by recognizing the allergic aspect and treating the condition accordingly. Adrenalin is still used when quick action is needed but for mild bites application of a salve containing one of the anti-histaminics is sufficient. This controls itching and shortly thereafter swelling subsides. The sting of a bee or wasp on the front of the eye also causes serious damage. This produces a violent inflammation but if the stinger is removed prompt recovery usually takes place. Otherwise redness and swelling of the eye becomes more severe and occasionally produces scarring.

Ant, caterpillar, beetle and spider bites are far from harmless. The black widow spider is the most notorious and has caused death in children. Adults usually survive but are definitely ill and excruciating pain is noted at the site of attack. These creatures are more prevalent in the south and are found generally in dark corners and closets. About 10 or 15 minutes after the nip a burning sensation develops over the involved area that spreads gradually throughout the whole body. This is associated with abdominal pain and severe cramps in the arms, legs, and back. Most of the victims become weak, restless, and occasionally hysterical from fear. Headache, nausea, and vomiting add to the discomfort. Symptoms gradually subside after the body neutralizes the poisonous venom. In the past very little could be done except to apply an ice bag, or to use drugs that ease pain or relax muscle spasm. Nowadays calcium gluconate is used and, according to some reports, immediate relief was obtained after giving a 10 per cent solution intravenously.

The scorpion is a threat only in the dry climate of the southwest. This anthropod resembles a lobster or crawfish and some varieties inject a lethal venom when molested or surprised. An effective rabbit anti-scorpion serum is available but it is so difficult to make that it is rarely used. In Arizona most physicians rely upon ice bags and tourniquets to hold the venom in the bitten area. The tourniquet, for example, is removed after five minutes but the hand or foot is kept in ice water for two hours. Sedatives induce relaxation and prevent convulsions but should be administered promptly to be effective.

These four tiny glands are concealed behind the thyroid in the neck. These structures influence the percentage of calcium in the blood. If they fail to perform, the amount of this mineral may reach a low level with the onset of tetany. In this condition, the muscles tremble constantly.

EXONERATING THE BLINDS

Mrs. G. writes: Do Venetian blinds tend to make neurotics of people? I know folks who never let in the sun or light. To me, this is like being in prison.

Venetian blinds "do not a prison make." Their owners would be fortunate in having as many methods of adjustment—and proper adjustment to life prevents neuroses.

It Says Here

By BOB HOPE

Hats off to the newest television star.

Yes, sir, Mayor O'Dwyer has been appearing on his own television show in New York and all the critics agree that he is a big hit.

This experience may come in handy during the next mayoralty election. His slogan may be: "Vote for O'Dwyer . . . his Hooper's higher."

O'Dwyer's success in television might land him in the movies. He may even get an offer to star in a Cecil B. De Mille epic, but the details may be hard to work out. De Mille will probably insist on using all eight million New Yorkers as extras.

The Mayor, who is famed for catching public enemies, will still be able to carry on despite his television show. With so many crime programs on TV, all he has to do to nail a crook is move over to the next channel.

This television show is just another facet of His Honor's amazing career. Future historians of New York will long remember the "rain" of Mayor O'Dwyer. (Oops . . . sorry).

U. S. Has Not Worked At Spreading Democracy; Student Exchange Is Best Way For People To Get To Know Each Other; Moral Mobilization Helps

Says DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON—This is the last column I shall write before taking a couple of weeks off, and naturally I should like to make it a good one. But I don't feel so good about the state of the world or the state of the nation, and I don't get much kick out of sitting back and Peglarizing.

However, here are some contrasts affecting our future which the American public ought to know about and which Congress will have a chance to rectify—if it wants to.

CONTRAST NO. 1—Between 1,200 to 2,000 Chinese students are going to Moscow every month to become indoctrinated in the ways of the Soviet. Mao Tse-Tung, now the communist ruler of China, spent a long time studying in Moscow, and they will follow in his footsteps. Twenty years ago the Russians planned their domination of China by setting up a special university of the Far East. The monthly trek of Chinese students across the Trans-Siberian Railroad shows Moscow is still looking far into the future.

In contrast, the U.S.A. used to bring possibly 1,200 Chinese students to this country a year, against what the Russians are bringing per month. Some of our Boxer-Rebellion-educated Chinese went back to help run China, but for about ten years almost no Chinese students have come here. When they do come they are heckled and hounded with red tape, including a bond which says they are undesirable yellowmen who promise not to remain in the U. S. A.

CONTRAST NO. 2—The Russians recently invited the publisher of three Indo-Chinese newspapers to Moscow, where they gave him a special parade of the Red Army, let him interview Stalin, gave him the caviar-vodka-ballet treatment, and sent him back after having spent perhaps $50,000 on his entertainment. His newspapers promptly came out for Russia.

Meanwhile, in Washington we entertain such important Oriental visitors as the Mayor of Tokyo and members of the Japanese Parliament at cheaper hotels near the Union Station, where we allow only $10 a day to cover all meals, hotel room and everything else—all because a niggardly Congress has cut "the exchange of persons" budget to the bone.

These distinguished visitors are told that President Truman is too busy to see them, though Stalin takes time to see leading Orientals. However, many state and city officials—with the notable exception of Boston—have done their best to be hospitable, while federal officials have done as much as they could within their penny-pinched budget.

CONTRAST NO. 3 — In Latin America the president who is friendliest to the United States was educated at the University of Maryland and the University of California. He is President Galo Plaza of Ecuador, who also runs one of the steadiest governments in Latin America.

In Argentina the Navy and Air Force are vigorously pro-American. Reason: Their commanding officers trained as cadets in the U.S.A. The Argentine Army was partly trained by Germans and is anti-American.

In Brazil, the Navy is also strong for the United States because its officers went to Annapolis. The Brazilian Army, trained by Europeans, did not rush to join the United States immediately after Pearl Harbor.

Congress permits only a handful of Latin Americans to get a free education in the United States, but many come here at their own expense anyway.

CONTRAST NO. 4—On July 13, the State Department's appropriation for "exchange of persons" and other propaganda came up for debate, and a majority of the Senate voted to cut $2,300,000 off a budget already scaled to the bone. Those who fought for people-to-people friendship were Fulbright of Arkansas and Lehman of New York. Those who led the fight against it were McKellar of Tennessee, McCarran of Nevada, and Saltonstall of Mass., with such senators as Byrd of Virginia, George of Georgia, Taft of Ohio, McCarthy of Wisconsin, and Brewster of Maine supporting them.

Meanwhile, a printer from Akron, Ohio, Fred W. Danner, walked into the State Department and offered to compensate for the niggardliness of Congress by printing 1,000,000 colored booklets telling the story of America, free. His offer was accepted.

Moral Mobilization

The above pertains only to channels for telling the story of America to foreign countries. It does not pertain to telling the story of America to Americans—which also is necessary.

For when we exhibit strong, moral leadership at home, such leadership spills over to other countries and gives us world leadership, too.

And I should like to suggest, as I quit writing and leave for my vacation, that what the world needs today—and what we need—is hope. We live too much in an age of fear. We worry constantly. We worry about what happens after we reach the 38th Parallel in Korea, what happens after the Korean war is ended? We worry about arming to the teeth, taxing ourselves to the bone, living in a world where the atomic bomb may be dropped at any moment.

These are justifiable worries. They cannot be dispelled by a pollyanna policy or the cove system. The only way to dispel them, it seems to me, is by both moral mobilization and total mobilization.

The far-sighted Senator from Connecticut, Brien McMahon, saw this some time ago when he proposed that we take the lead in demanding world disarmament. This is something which not only negates Moscow's cry that we are warmongers, but more than anything else, it gives the world hope.

Ultimatum To Moscow

The time is soon approaching, when, with both total mobilization and moral mobilization, we should notify Moscow that we are ready for any eventualities, and that we demand two things:

1. Total disarmament.

2. Normal interchange of peoples, books, newspapers; religious worship, and the end of the iron curtain.

In brief, the time has come to notify Moscow that when a heavily armed nation holds itself aloof from the world, refusing to let its people know the peaceful hopes of the world, constantly preparing them for war—then such unsocial attitude constitutes war—and we give them the alternative of changing their policy or dropping the bomb.

No city or community in the Western World would permit an armed citizen to build up an arsenal and constantly terrorize his neighbors. He would be locked up.

In this modern day, nations have become like people, and must be dealt with accordingly.

That is why dollars today are not as important as ideas. That is why armed mobilization must be accompanied by moral mobilization, and most important of all why we cannot influence the world—or ourselves — without giving mankind hope.

Groaning In Washington Due To Inflation Threat

By MARK SULLIVAN

PRECEDING the Korean crisis, the operation of the American economy was largely influenced, indeed one could say it was largely determined by the Administration at Washington. Central in the Administration concept of the country's economy was increase of the national income, meaning the aggregate income of all the people. President Truman, in public statements and messages to Congress, dwelt exultantly upon an increase of some $100,000,000,000 in the annual national income that had taken place during the past ten years. Then in a speech at Pendleton, Ore., last May, he projected the increase into the future. He said that the "goal" was to add another increase of $100,000,000,000 in the next ten years. That was the Administration's economic plan at the time the Korean crisis intervened.

"Increase in the national income" is an alluring phrase and, if understood, a justified one. But accurate understanding should see that the increase can come about in two ways. One is increase of real income, of true wealth—that is, increase in the quantity of goods produced and available to the people to make use of. The other is, increase taking place through marking up of figures. The two ways overlap and intermingle, but need to be examined separately.

Real increase of national income, actual increase of goods, goes on at all times. It is brought about by new inventions and improved processes in industry. An example is increase of farm crops—that is, of food—brought about by advances in farming. These include breeding of better stock, more scientific use of fertilizers, development of better seeds, and substitution of mechanical power for horsepower. Corresponding increases in real national income have come about through improvements in practically all industries.

Statistical Increase

The sum of these increases in the production of goods account for a large part of the $100,000,000,000 increase in annual national income that has taken place during the past ten years. But much of the $100,000,000,000 increase has come about in a different way.

The other way of increasing national income takes place not in the world of work and production, but in the world of statistics; it is a marking up of figures. This has gone on in a large way during the past ten years, especially during the past five. Beginning in early 1946 there have been four rounds of increases in wage rates. These have not been increases in quantity of goods produced. Along with the increases in wage rates have gone increases in prices of goods, which of course were not increases in the production of goods.

These statistical increases in the national income have been much relied upon by the Administration, and have been promoted by it. Beginning in 1945 President Truman formally advocated raises in wage rates. The raise in wage rates resulted in increased costs of producing manufactured goods, usually and naturally followed by increased prices of such goods. These increased prices of manufactured goods were used by the Administration as justification for raising the official prices at which it supported farm crops. The theory, and the price support statute, was to the effect that prices paid to farmers for their crops must go up in proportion to increases in the prices farmers had to pay for manufactured goods.

Out The Window

The two statistical increases in national income composed a spiral mechanism. Increases in wage rates, followed by increases in prices of manufactured goods, was the basis of increases brought about by the government in prices of farm crops, of food. In turn, the governmentally caused increases in the prices of food became the basis of demands by labor unions and leaders for increased wage rates. The sta-

Reserves' Service Period Should Be Determined

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON, Aug. 8.—If the American people could somehow be assured, for innstance, that there would be no more fighting after Korea is pacified and that the main purpose of mobilization now is to prevent a large-scale war, there is no sacrifice of time or convenience or dollars that would not be enthusiastically made. Such assurance can't be given, but what is the plan if large-scale war doesn't break out for years?

The big problem now for President Truman and his advisers is home-front morale. Young men who did their bit and more in World War II are being asked to give up their jobs and detach themselves from their families—and many of these men now have responsibilities they did not have when they went to war before.

A long-range program of assurance that the reserves now being called up will be replaced in a year or thereabouts is absolutely essential. The reserves being called now for the Army, the Navy, the Marines, and the Air Force will go away to service with more enthusiasm and much less anxiety if they can be told that there is a plan to replace them and let them go back to work—in the event that large-scale war doesn't break out in a year.

Military Training Proposed

If Russia doesn't make another move like that in Korea and holds off further aggression, then it would not be fair to keep those American reservists in uniform doing police duty in various parts of the globe.

What is clearly indicated is the need for a system of universal military training to be authorized at once and a wider and wider application of the draft, together with more and more officers' training camps. Such a plan should be organized now so as to give some degree of assurance to the reservists that they will not remain in uniform indefinitely during a period of several years of tension in which hostilities do not occur.

Every day that passes seems to prove that the present period is unlike any other in the past. For while there is a readiness to meet sudden war, there is also the possibility that no large-scale war may break out at all. Preparation for either contingency must be the same so as to prevent war.

The assumption in the Korean affair has been that Russia wanted to test out America's determination to resist. If this is so, then the young men who have died and those who are making heroic sacrifices every day in Korea are performing a service for the rest of the American people which has not yet been pointedly explained or fully appreciated. Those soldiers in Korea who wonder why they are there should be told that they are preventing a large-scale war—that they are giving an example of American resistance which may prevent further aggression altogether.

To support the morale of men who are now in Korea and those in the United States who are donning uniforms, the Secretaries of the Army, Navy and Air, together with the Secretary of Defense, should be able soon to announce that a system of replacements is planned. If the money isn't specifically authorized for this as yet, Congress should be apprised of it so that plans can be laid immediately to bring back after a few months or a year the veterans who have just responded to the call.

Could Assure Victory

What are the chances of large-scale war? This question cannot be answered by anyone, but a larger mobilization of trained men can prove valuable in the event that war does break out. Then, incidentally, America would have the newly trained men plus the first line of reserves and this could mean a force big enough to assure victory.

There's one piece of news in this connection that hasn't been printed yet which may or may not be a straw in the wind. For several days now, Russian submarines have appeared in Korean waters. They have been engaged in patrolling and getting information. They have not made a single maneuver of hostility. Instructions to our ships and planes at sea are to shoot or drop bombs only if a submarine gets itself in a position close enough to fire a torpedo. The mere fact that the Russian subs have refrained is proof that the Soviet do not intend to extend the area of hostilities and involve their own forces — at least, that's the present picture. But it is an encouraging one nevertheless, for if the Soviet had intended to start a war, they have had plenty of chance to do so these last ten days by firing from a submarine behind a North Korean flag.

There are other evidences that Moscow may intend to harass the Western allies but not to start large-scale war. The policy of America and her associates is to mobilize in the hope that the steps taken now will prevent war. Hence those who serve in uniform today and those behind them on the home front are playing a vital part, the importance of which they do not perhaps yet realize themselves. More should be said by the government about the immense contribution to peace being made by our armed forces today even though they are operating in a relatively small area.

These Days

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

The Press and the Courts

THE PRESS has come in for its share of criticism in recent years, principally by those who would in some manner limit its freedoms in the interests of a particular group.

Recently, Judge Simon H. Rifkind of New York has come up with what those who apparently prefer star chamber proceedings call "trial by newspaper." The particular annoyance of most of these critics is that the newspapers in New York gave such widespread publicity to the first Hiss trial that what, at the beginning, looked like a typical Washington push-over, led to an actual conviction in the second Hiss trial. The judges did not like the rough handling the court got from reporters, some of whom have had longer and more profound experience in the courts than some of the judges.

Held out by Judge Rifkind and others is the system in vogue in England where a case may not be discussed while it is on trial.

Granted that the British standard of judicial performance is high, British judges are all appointed practically for life. They do not have to go to politicians for the favor of a nomination or a renomination. They do not have to contribute to party funds in their own name or that of their fathers-in-law. Even federal judges, who in this country are also appointed for a tenure of good behavior, usually have to have the endorsement or friendship of some party boss or great figure. A few outstanding personalities can by-pass the politician, but they are very few.

What keeps some judges — too many of them — in line is fear of the press. Unfortunately, in large cities, the courts cannot be adequately covered; they are too numerous and the calendar is enormous. Nevertheless, when a big issue arises, it is the press which watches in the interest of the people.

Judge Rifkind makes the point: ". . . There is practically no restraint upon the character of the information and opinion which a newspaper can publish about a case before trial, while it is pending before a jury, or after it has been decided."

Actually, what worries many lawyers and even judges is that sound reporters get the facts in many cases before they can be covered up. In the combination between politicians and criminals, the courts of this country would have been in a bad way were it not that newspapermen, on the prowl for news, rarely spect the politician or fear the criminal.

Judge Rifkind says, ". . . an attitude of dispassionateness, of objectively, or serenity prevails in the courtroom." He must be describing a court very different from, let us say, the one over which his colleague, Judge Medina, presided, where lawyers bickered and brayed and generally disgraced themselves.

In fact, in the first Hiss trial there was little enough objectivity when Justice Felix Frankfurter donned the role of a character witness. Nor was there much serenity or dignity.

The judge proposes that the bench, bar, and press get together to make a deal as to how the press is to handle cases before the courts. The reason:

". . . After all, the press and the courts are mutually interdependent. The press must have an uncoerced judiciary to maintain freedom of the press; and the judiciary requires an uncensored press to maintain an uncoerced judiciary..."

Apparently, Judge Rifkind does not understand the Anglo-Saxon tradition of freedom of the press. Newspapers exist not to have the courts protect their right to be free, but to publish the news. They are no dependent upon judges but upon their readers. Their obligation is not to politicians but to the public.

A judge, or a lawyer, or a witness is just like anybody else. If he makes news, good or bad, he gets his name in the paper and sometimes a picture. Maybe some of these rarified souls would prefer that newspapers publish nothing but their obituary notices, carefully edited so that their grandchildren may refer to them with pride. Life is not like that.

The best thing to do is to let the press alone. When the newspapers anger public opinion, they hear from the readers. And that is one voice that is never ignored. Our courts are not so perfect nor our judges so noble that this country can afford to suppress the free publication of the news about our courts.

Rev. H. R. Stoudt Officiates

Miss Joann Glotfelty, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. S. Robert Glotfelty, Frostburg, became the bride of Michael Maurice Martin, son of Dr. and Mrs. Dailey M. Martin, Romney, August 6. The ceremony was solemnized in St. Paul's Lutheran Church, Frostburg, with Rev. Harold R. Stoudt officiating.

Mrs. Thomas Blair was her sister's matron of honor and the bridesmaids were Miss Lois Fisher, Frostburg, and Miss Marilyn Heiskell, Ellerslie. Frank E. Martin served as his brother's best man and Thomas Stewart, Frostburg and Glenn Shingleton, Romney, were the ushers.

Preceding the ceremony, Mrs. Grant Durst, Frostburg, sang "Calm as the Night" and "Because," and during the ceremony she sang "The Lord's Prayer," accompanied by Mrs. John Stewart, who also played the wedding marches. The church was elaborately decorated with bouquets of white flowers, palms, and candelabra of lighted tapers.

The bride was attired in a gown of imported net and lace; while her matron of honor was in green and the bridesmaids in yellow.

The bride is a graduate of Beall High School, class of 1948, and until recently was employed in the office of the Green Chevrolet Company, Frostburg. The bridegroom is a graduate of Romney High School with the class of 1942. He is a salesman for the Heiskell Motor Sales Company, Frostburg.

Mr. and Mrs. Glotfelty entertained with a wedding reception following the ceremony, at their home, where the couple will reside temporarily after their return from a wedding trip in the Pocono Mountains.

The Germ Turns

For as long as I can remember, my Uncle Charlie has been complaining of good health—not his own, mind you, but my Aunt Frieda's. For 40 winters, to hear him tell it, he has been an easy mark for colds, catarrhs and rheumatic pains, while his wife has never developed so much as a sniffle.

Billy Rose

Last February, when I dropped in to see them at their Allen Street flat, Charlie was in bed, runny-eyed and carmine nosed.

"What gives!" I asked.

"What always gives?" said my uncle. "Your aunt loses the flu, I find it. She's got a constitutional like a horse."

Frieda was in the kitchen warming up a plaster.

"Like a pastrami sandwich she treats me," said Charlie. "I'm all over mustard. Every reasonable woman lays down in bed once in a while. But not her—she won't give me the satisfaction . . ."

My favorite relatives came to this country around the time Teddy Roosevelt was elected, and the voyage over, according to Charlie, was the roughest in the history of navigation. It took 23 days and even the captain was seasick. Frieda was the only one on board who ate regularly, and she gained an average of a pound a day. When the helmsman took to his bunk—still according to Charlie—it was she who took the wheel. As for my uncle, he spent the entire trip with his head sticking out a porthole and, the weather being what it was, it was a miracle he wasn't drowned.

Because of this apparent immunity to disease, Frieda has always been one of the favorite daughters of the East Side, especially when any of the neighbors are ill. For years now, she's been carrying soup and solace to their homes, tending their kids and lecturing family doctors on their therapeutic shortcomings. "Herself, she don't get sick, but to me she brings back the germs," is the way Charlie explains her.

A few days ago, however, my uncle telephoned and, without bothering to suppress the triumph in his voice, said, "Frieda is flat like a pancake. She's got a flu, with complications yet."

"I'll send my doctor down," I said, "and I'll be around in the morning."

But when I walked up the three flights to their apartment the following day, the door was opened by an obviously in-the-pink Frieda.

"What are you doing out of bed?"

My aunt motioned me in, and in the bedroom, propped up on pillows as usual, was Charlie.

"What happened?"

"What should happen?" said Frieda. "Your uncle got overheated running up and down the stairs like a chicken"

"I thought you had the flu."

"Oh, that," said Frieda. "I fixed it with a guggle-muggle."

For the benefit of the uninitiate, a "guggle-muggle" is an old East Side remedy composed of warm milk, egg, honey, cinnamon and whiskey.

HOPALONG TRAGEDY
By Martha Roundtree

"'The time has come,' the walrus said,
'To talk of many things:
Of shoes and ships and sealing wax,
Of cabbages and kings,
And why the sea is boiling hot,
And whether pigs have wings' . . ."

ALICE IN Wonderland would have been completely at ease in the kind of dream world we are living in today. Reality and fantasy have gotten so mixed up with each other that I wonder at times if we are asleep or awake — whether the nightmare will disappear or continue. It seem incredible that only five short years after a war to end aggression we should be back where we were because we made exactly the same costly mistakes in almost exactly the same stupid way.

Martha Roundtree

• — • — •

KOREA: I must, of course, write about Korea, as who hasn't. The tragedy here is that after all the lessons we have been given by Stalin and Hiter we were caught completely off guard. Is it inherent in a democracy that it must always be blind and stupid until all the chips are down? Did we really expect that Russia would permit us to hold Japan without attempting first to surround us, then to make our position untenable, and finally to force us out altogether?

• — • — •

JAPAN: Have we faced up to the situation in Japan? Are we prepared either to give the Japanese all the aid necessary to defend them in case of trouble, or are we ready to arm the Japanese so that they can take care of themselves? If we are not careful there, the Russians or the Chinese communists will move in one day swiftly and with force, and then we will really be in serious trouble.

• — • — •

IRAN: What are we doing about Iran, whose oil fields interest the Russians much more than what they can find in Korea? Is Korea just a diversion, and is Iran the immediate target? And if Iran is the target, what are we prepared to do about it?

• — • — •

THE PHILIPPINES: All reports indicate that the Philippines are coming apart at the seams. The government is weak—the communists have been gaining ground, and it won't be long before real trouble develops there. We ought to remember what a number of ex-communists have told us: namely, that as far back as 1927 the communist international mapped a strategy and laid out a timetable for world conquest . . . first China—then, Formosa—then the Philippines—then Hawaii, and finally, the biggest prize of all, the United States. Evidence has been piling up that a communist fifth column has been working overtime in the Philippines and Hawaii. We had better keep our eyes open and our powder dry for something that may make Pearl Harbor seem like a picnic.

• — • — •

WHAT A CRIME: As I look back over the past five years, I can't help but think of the unnecessary and criminal mistakes in judgment that have been made by those who run our State Department. And worst of all, the very people who made the mistakes are still running our diplomacy. There we were, the strongest nation in the world—at the peak of our military power, and we permitted a bady-battered Russia to toss us around. We permitted Russia to outmaneuver and outwit us until they had grabbed off a big chunk of Europe and Asia—had almost destroyed our prestige and dangerously weakened our military power. And it isn't fair to say to me "that's hind-sight." There were too many of us who predicted the inevitability of what has happened. We knew the laws of cause and effect could not be repealed—that what we did diplomatically could only have one sad conclusion. It seems incredible that we could have learned so little from the lessons Hitler gave us in 1936 to 1945, and from the lessons Stalin started to give us even earlier.

Well, that all for now. The more I look at what a state we have let the world get into, or, rather, what a state we have HELPED the world get into, the sicker I get at the pit of my stomach.

Tailored Suit Reaches Peak Of Perfection

By DOROTHY ROE
Associated Press Fashion Editor

Mrs. America's favorite outfit, the tailored suit, reaches its peak of perfection this fall.

The silhouette is fitted to the natural curves of the body, as it was intended to be. Skirts are slim and straight, as tailored skirts should be. And fabrics are handsomer than they have been in many a year.

You'll be seeing all manner of tweeds, striped, checked or plain, in the fall suit lineup. You'll see dark charcoal gray combined with vivid color accents. You'll see every shade of gray flannel, and all the smoother versions of men's wear worsteds used in suits that employ all the neater tricks of men's tailoring, combined with the soft touches that mark them strictly feminine.

Many of the high-style suits have padded or stiffened peplums to accentuate the hipline curve, all are tightly fitted at the waistline, and all are cut to accent the curve of the bust.

Christian Dior calls it the "guitar silhouette." Other designers have other names for it, but all agree on the essential lines curved above and below the waist, pencil-slim from the hips down.

Does your facial expression belie your true self, or does it give others a wrong impression of you? Check yours today!

SECRETS OF CHARM

by JOHN ROBERT POWERS

WHAT'S MORE important to your beauty than your face? It would take a hypnotist, the arguments of a mental gymnast and a lapse of memory to convince me that there is anything of greater value to a winning feminine appearance. If you agree with me, there are a few more questions I wish you'd run through today, just to make sure that you are doing right by your own face.

How much of her beauty budget of time and money should any woman devote to making the best of her facial features? That's an easy one to answer: Enough and as much as is needed!

Free And Important

But the single, most important thing a woman can do to make her face attractive to behold is absolutely free. What is it? Simply make a frequent check of her facial expression!

For even the prettiest carriage, nicest dress, smoothest make-up, suavest voice and most charming thought are nullified by a facial expression that either falsely or truthfully gives others the impression that you are haughty, grouchy, worried, sullen or bored!

Test your facial expression before your mirror on these points today:

1. Do you squint or frown when talking or concentrating? If so, you're in danger of being thought grouchy.

2. Is your smile too wide or too timid? Better get it into line, or you'll be judged insincere.

3. Do you bite or purse your lips when talking, thinking or listening? Nervousness attracts no admirers!

4. Do you wiggle your nose at any time It's a habit that's associated with disdain for others.

Guilty Or Not?

5. Do you habitually raise or twitch your eyebrows? Haughtiness is attributed to those who do.

If you find your facial expression guilty of any of these unpleasant mannerisms, conquer the self-consciousness that causes them. Eradicate the squint and the frown: train your smile to attractive contours; make your lips and nose relax; let the light of appreciation and understanding shine from your eyes.

Substitute good habits for unpleasant ones, and then check regularly to make sure that your facial expressions reveal exactly what you want them to!

DON'T HOARD KELLOGG'S CORN FLAKES

It's not only unpatriotic, it's foolish!

There's no shortage of corn, and no prospect of any shortage, as long as the American farmer continues to do the great productive job he has done in the past. And the Kellogg Company is used to making lots of corn flakes. Because, after all, Kellogg's Corn Flakes is the largest selling ready-to-eat cereal in the world!

Besides, that special crisp freshness is one of the most important reasons why Kellogg's Corn Flakes is twice as popular as any other. If you hoard a stack of boxes on your pantry shelves, that wonderful fresh flavor your grocer sold you is going to suffer.

If we all keep our heads, there will be plenty of delicious Kellogg's Corn Flakes for all—and they'll taste better, too. So, buy Kellogg's Corn Flakes as often as you need them—but not any oftener!

Miss Joann Glotfelty, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. S. Robert Glotfelty, Frostburg, became the bride of Michael Maurice Martin, son of Dr. and Mrs. Dailey M. Martin, Romney, August 6. The ceremony was solemnized in St. Paul's Lutheran Church, Frostburg, with Rev. Harold R. Stoudt officiating.

Preceding the ceremony, Mrs. Grant Durst, Frostburg, sang "Calm as the Night" and "Because," and during the ceremony she sang "The Lord's Prayer," accompanied by Mrs. John Stewart, who also played the wedding marches. The church was elaborately decorated with bouquets of white flowers, palms, and candelabra of lighted tapers.

The bride was attired in a gown of imported net and lace; while her matron of honor was in green and the bridesmaids in yellow.

The bride is a graduate of Beall High School, class of 1948, and until recently was employed in the office of the Green Chevrolet Company, Frostburg. The bridegroom is a graduate of Romney High School with the class of 1942. He is a salesman for the Heiskell Motor Sales Company, Frostburg.

Mr. and Mrs. Glotfelty entertained with a wedding reception following the ceremony, at their home, where the couple will reside temporarily after their return from a wedding trip in the Pocono Mountains.

Korea, To Many Australians, One Tentacle Of Communist Octopus

By BARBARA GORMLY

SYDNEY, Australia — (AP) — To many Australians, Korea is one tentacle of a Communist octopus reaching ever closer to Australian territory.

People were heartened when they learned a fighter squadron of the Australian Air Force went into action with United States forces early in the struggle.

About 1,000 youths a day are volunteering for the substantial fighting ground force which Prime Minister Robert Gordon Menzies told the American Congress last week will be sent to Korea "within as few weeks as possible."

For many months Australians have been concerned over other moves of Communist expansion, in Malaya and Indochina. Australian airmen were dispatched to fight side by side with the British Royal Air Force to stem the Communist threat in Malaya.

Australia is sending a ground force numbering 1,000 men to Korea almost immediately. A larger force will follow later.

The Australian detroyer Bataan and the frigate Shoalhaven are in action with the United Nations fleet in Korean waters. Another destroyer, the Warramunga, is sailing to join them.

The recruiting of men—most of them World War II veterans—and the dispatching of ships and planes is all happening wtihout much fanfare. There are no parades, flag-waving or hysteria.

To the vast majority of Australians, the Korean conflict is like a preliminary bout before the main event.

This correspondent questioned 10 former diggers (Australian ex-servicemen), all of whom had fought more than four years in World War II.

They were of the same opinion. They were fed up with war, but "the sooner everyone comes out fighting now the better."

"Then we can clear the air," declared a young Sydney lawyer who is also an officer in Australia's part-time citizen army. "Right now its like trying to sleep with one eye open."

The people of this nation of 8,000,000 do not want a war, but they are conscious of the fact they are sitting practically on Asia's toe.

That fact was brought home to them bluntly in the last war, when the Japanese threatened Australia with invasion.

Australians for the most part went along with their prime minister, who has just conferred with President Truman and military leaders in Washington over the size of Australian forces in Korea. They approved his words to the American Congress, widely printed here: "We of Australia are proud to call ourselves your junior partner in a great and continuing adventure toward human liberty."

But liberty is not without cost. Last year Australia spent £40,000,000 ($90,000,000) on defense out of a total budget of £580,000,000 ($1,305,000,000).

Treasurer Arthur Fadden will announce a new budget in September calling for higher military expenditures.

Washington Whirl

By AUSTINE

In Washington she's no Alice in Wonderment . . . A southern charmer who believes the drawl is mightier than the sword, she has cut quite a swath. Not only because women can point to her and brag, "There is one outstandingly successful career girl who's kept her femininity" . . . But this producer of radio and television shows, "Meet The Press" and "Leave It To The Girls," impresses the Captial because she is sincere and objective about both people and politics . . . She is also a brown-eyed natural blonde, curved in the right places—Don't think that doesn't help, too.

HOPALONG TRAGEDY
By Martha Roundtree

"'The time has come,' the walrus said,
'To talk of many things:
Of shoes and ships and sealing wax,
Of cabbages and kings,
And why the sea is boiling hot,
And whether pigs have wings' . . ."

ALICE IN Wonderland would have been completely at ease in the kind of dream world we are living in today. Reality and fantasy have gotten so mixed up with each other that I wonder at times if we are asleep or awake — whether the nightmare will disappear or continue. It seem incredible that only five short years after a war to end aggression we should be back where we were because we made exactly the same costly mistakes in almost exactly the same stupid way.

• — • — •

KOREA: I must, of course, write about Korea, as who hasn't. The tragedy here is that after all the lessons we have been given by Stalin and Hiter we were caught completely off guard. Is it inherent in a democracy that it must always be blind and stupid until all the chips are down? Did we really expect that Russia would permit us to hold Japan without attempting first to surround us, then to make our position untenable, and finally to force us out altogether?

• — • — •

JAPAN: Have we faced up to the situation in Japan? Are we prepared either to give the Japanese all the aid necessary to defend them in case of trouble, or are we ready to arm the Japanese so that they can take care of themselves? If we are not careful there, the Russians or the Chinese communists will move in one day swiftly and with force, and then we will really be in serious trouble.

• — • — •

IRAN: What are we doing about Iran, whose oil fields interest the Russians much more than what they can find in Korea? Is Korea just a diversion, and is Iran the immediate target? And if Iran is the target, what are we prepared to do about it?

• — • — •

THE PHILIPPINES: All reports indicate that the Philippines are coming apart at the seams. The government is weak—the communists have been gaining ground, and it won't be long before real trouble develops there. We ought to remember what a number of ex-communists have told us; namely, that as far back as 1927 the communist international mapped a strategy and laid out a timetable for world conquest . . . first China—then, Formosa—then the Philippines—then Hawaii, and finally, the biggest prize of all, the United States. Evidence has been piling up that a communist fifth column has been working overtime in the Philippines and Hawaii. We had better keep our eyes open and our powder dry for something that may make Pearl Harbor seem like a picnic.

• — • — •

WHAT A CRIME: As I look back over the past five years, I can't help but think of the unnecessary and criminal mistakes in judgment that have been made by those who run our State Department. And worst of all, the very people who made the mistakes are still running our diplomacy. There we were, the strongest nation in the world—at the peak of our military power, and we permitted a bady-battered Russia to toss us around. We permitted Russia to outmaneuver and outwit us until they had grabbed off a big chunk of Europe and Asia—had almost destroyed our prestige and dangerously weakened our military power. And it isn't fair to say to me "that's hind-sight." There were too many of us who predicted the inevitability of what has happened. We knew the laws of cause and effect could not be repealed—that what we did diplomatically could only have one sad conclusion. It seems incredible that we could have learned so little from the lessons Hitler gave us in 1936 to 1945, and from the lessons Stalin started to give us even earlier.

Well, that all for now. The more I look at what a state we have let the world get into, or, rather, what a state we have HELPED the world get into, the sicker I get at the pit of my stomach.

Tailored Suit Reaches Peak Of Perfection

By DOROTHY ROE
Associated Press Fashion Editor

The silhouette is fitted to the natural curves of the body, as it was intended to be. Skirts are slim and straight, as tailored skirts should be. And fabrics are handsomer than they have been in many a year.

You'll be seeing all manner of tweeds, striped, checked or plain, in the fall suit lineup. You'll see dark charcoal gray combined with vivid color accents. You'll see every shade of gray flannel, and all the smoother versions of men's wear worsteds used in suits that employ all the neater tricks of men's tailoring, combined with the soft touches that mark them strictly feminine.

Many of the high-style suits have padded or stiffened peplums to accentuate the hipline curve, all are tightly fitted at the waistline, and all are cut to accent the curve of the bust.

Christian Dior calls it the "guitar silhouette." Other designers have other names for it, but all agree on the essential lines curved above and below the waist, pencil-slim from the hips down.

Auxiliary Gives To Child Welfare Project

A donation of $50 for air conditioning two rooms in Harriett Lane Hospital, Baltimore, for premature infants, was made by the Legion Auxiliary at the meeting earlier in the week.

Mrs. Pauline Smith, Mrs. Daisy Buskey, Mrs. Clara Palmer, Mrs. Margaret Graim, Mrs. Hazel Harney and Mrs. Agnes Leasure were named delegates to the Department of Maryland convention in Baltimore, August 16-19.

Election will be held next month and a class of candidates initiated.

Does your facial expression belie your true self, or does it give others a wrong impression of you? Check yours today!

SECRETS OF CHARM

by JOHN ROBERT POWERS

WHAT'S MORE important to your beauty than your face? it would take a hypnotist, the arguments of a mental gymnast and a lapse of memory to convince me that there is anything of greater value to a winning feminine appearance. If you agree with me, there are a few more questions I wish you'd run through today, just to make sure that you are doing right by your own face.

How much of her beauty budget of time and money should any woman devote to making the best of her facial features? That's an easy one to answer: Enough and as much as is needed!

Free And Important

But the single, most important thing a woman can do to make her face attractive to behold is absolutely free. What is it? Simply make a frequent check of her facial expression!

For even the prettiest carriage, nicest dress, smoothest make-up, suavest voice and most charming thought are nullified by a facial expression that either falsely or truthfully gives others the impression that you are haughty, grouchy, worried, sullen or bored!

Test your facial expression before your mirror on these points today:

1. Do you squint or frown when talking or concentrating? If so, you're in danger of being thought grouchy.

2. Is your smile too wide or too timid? Better get it into line, or you'll be judged insincere.

3. Do you bite or purse your lips when talking, thinking or listening? Nervousness attracts no admirers!

4. Do you wiggle your nose at any time It's a habit that's associated with disdain for others.

Guilty Or Not?

5. Do you habitually raise or twitch your eyebrows? Haughtiness is attributed to those who do.

If you find your facial expression guilty of any of these unpleasant mannerisms, conquer the self-consciousness that causes them. Eradicate the squint and the frown: train your smile to attractive contours; make your lips and nose relax; let the light of appreciation and understanding shine from your eyes.

Substitute good habits for unpleasant ones, and then check regularly to make sure that your facial expressions reveal exactly what you want them to!

DON'T HOARD KELLOGG'S CORN FLAKES

It's not only unpatriotic, it's foolish!

There's no shortage of corn, and no prospect of any shortage, as long as the American farmer continues to do the great productive job he has done in the past. And the Kellogg Company is used to making lots of corn flakes. Because, after all, Kellogg's Corn Flakes is the largest selling ready-to-eat cereal in the world!

Besides, that special crisp freshness is one of the most important reasons why Kellogg's Corn Flakes is twice as popular as any other. If you hoard a stack of boxes on your pantry shelves, that wonderful fresh flavor your grocer sold you is going to suffer.

If we all keep our heads, there will be plenty of delicious Kellogg's Corn Flakes for all—and they'll taste better, too. So, buy Kellogg's Corn Flakes as often as you need them—but not any oftener!

Korea, To Many Australians, One Tentacle Of Communist Octopus

By BARBARA GORMLY

SYDNEY, Australia — (AP) — To many Australians, Korea is one tentacle of a Communist octopus reaching ever closer to Australian territory.

People were heartened when they learned a fighter squadron of the Australian Air Force went into action with United States forces early in the struggle.

About 1,000 youths a day are volunteering for the substantial fighting ground force which Prime Minister Robert Gordon Menzies told the American Congress last week will be sent to Korea "within as few weeks as possible."

For many months Australians have been concerned over other moves of Communist expansion, in Malaya and Indochina. Australian airmen were dispatched to fight side by side with the British Royal Air Force to stem the Communist threat in Malaya.

Australia is sending a ground force numbering 1,000 men to Korea almost immediately. A larger force will follow later.

The Australian detroyer Bataan and the frigate Shoalhaven are in action with the United Nations fleet in Korean waters. Another destroyer, the Warramunga, is sailing to join them.

The recruiting of men—most of them World War II veterans—and the dispatching of ships and planes is all happening wtihout much fanfare. There are no parades, flag-waving or hysteria.

To the vast majority of Australians, the Korean conflict is like a preliminary bout before the main event.

This correspondent questioned 10 former diggers (Australian ex-servicemen), all of whom had fought more than four years in World War II.

They were of the same opinion. They were fed up with war, but "the sooner everyone comes out fighting now the better."

"Then we can clear the air," declared a young Sydney lawyer who is also an officer in Australia's part-time citizen army. "Right now its like trying to sleep with one eye open."

The people of this nation of 8,000,000 do not want a war, but they are conscious of the fact they are sitting practically on Asia's toe.

That fact was brought home to them bluntly in the last war, when the Japanese threatened Australia with invasion.

Australians for the most part went along with their prime minister, who has just conferred with President Truman and military leaders in Washington over the size of Australian forces in Korea. They approved his words to the American Congress, widely printed here: "We of Australia are proud to call ourselves your junior partner in a great and continuing adventure toward human liberty."

But liberty is not without cost. Last year Australia spent £40,000,000 ($90,000,000) on defense out of a total budget of £580,000,000 ($1,305,000,000).

Treasurer Arthur Fadden will announce a new budget in September calling for higher military expenditures.

Marilyn Maxwell Plots To Crash Musical Wonderland A La Grable

HOLLYWOOD—(INS)—"If you want to 'arrive' in Hollywood, you have to leave Hollywood."

Marilyn Maxwell, the platinum blonde with body, moaned this lament today as she planned to slither her curves into spangled tights and hit the road of night club circuits leading to Broadway.

Marilyn Maxwell

You see, Marilyn wants to pull a Betty Grable. And the celluloid city, even after casing the well-rounded Maxwell equipment, won't let her.

"I want the full tinsel treatment Betty gets in her pictures—good songs, dance routines, elaborate sets and swish costumes," sighed the glamor dish, tapping a shapely foot in impatient rhythm.

"But I usually end up slinking around as the 'other woman'—the blonde menace. Ugh, what a title!"

So now Marilyn is setting her sights on the legit circuits and plotting to crash the musical wonderland a la Grable, whose anatomy is curved along similar lines as Marilyn's.

La Grable kicked around Hollywood for years, doing little more than cheesecake stints, until she shook up a little stardust on Broadway as the smash starrer in "DuBarry Was a Lady." Only then did glamorville wave open arms to its future leg queen.

"This is typical," pouted Marilyn who is readying a night club act to try out on the boards. By this, she hopes to splash Broadway in a tinsel production and—"maybe, oh, maybe" to give Miss B. Grable a quick run for Hollywood's money and a crack at her crown.

Actually, Marilyn snagged the Hollywood eye when she was singing with Ted Weems' band under the name of Marvel Maxwell in 1941.

"They rolled out the carpet and the contract. But what part did I get? A straight role in "Standby for Action" with Robert Taylor," and Marilyn shook her head.

Even though she has been dancing since she was three years old, Marilyn's only shape-shaking picture stunt was in "Key to the City," where she did the famous atomic bubble dance while cast as siren stuff.

"And that wasn't a dance—only a few burlesque bumps and grinds, most of which were censored to the cutting room floor."

Right now the bombshell is trading punch lines with Bob Hope as his sweetie in "The Lemon Drop Kid." She does get a chance to warble a few ditties with Rapid Robert, but gets no production numbers.

After she finishes this flikker, Marilyn is going into a huddle with Song Writer Hugh Martin, inker of such numbers as "The Trolley Song." She and Martin are scheming routines for a night club to swing to showcase the Maxwell maximums.

She is teaming talents with Jack Gray and Dean Campbell, youthful Broadway song and dance men, for the numbers. And Marilyn, who is following the lead of many flicker favorites to hit the night spots, has a few ideas on legit shows:

"The night club is the test for entertainers. Now you have to produce—you have to give the public more than it expects.

"Doing personal appearances is one thing—they want to see you and that's about all. But cafe customers are used to the best—and they are cruelly critical."

Tire Company Appeals Compensation Decision

Kelly-Springfield Tire Company attorneys have filed an appeal from a decision of the Circuit Court in granting compensation to H. Franklin Rollin on the basis that asthma is an occupational disease.

Rollin was granted compensation after he claimed he contracted the illness while employed at the Kelly Tire Company.

Walter C. Capper, William S. Jenkins and Thomas N. Berry, attorneys for the company, filed the appeal with the Maryland Court of Appeals and Capper said arguments in the case will be heard before the high state court during the October term.

The first American-born actor was John Martin, who appeared in Philadelphia on March 13, 1790.

Robinson Risks Welter Title Last Time

Locke's Great Finish Catches Lloyd Mangrum

A-A Golf Ends In Tie, Playoff Is Set Today

CHICAGO, Aug. 8 (AP) — Exiled from American fairways for more than a year under a PGA ban, Bobby Locke returned with a vengeance today to sweep into a 72-hole tie with Lloyd Mangrum for the Tam O'Shanter All-American golf title.

They both closed their fourth round with 67's for a six-under-par tally of 282, forcing them into an 18-hole playoff beginning at 2 p. m. (EST) tomorrow. A first prize of $2,500 is at stake.

It was Locke's rusty blade putter, which looks like a throwback from the caveman days, which once again proved the fatal weapon. The South African, fresh from winning the British Open and a batch of over British events, birdied four of the last five with putts of 32, 12, 30 and 22 feet.

This closing drive, one of the greatest in the 10-year history of the colorful Tam O'Shanter gold rush, gave him a five-under 31 on the back nine to couple with his standard front side of 36.

Locke was banned by the PGA last June when he failed to fulfill a contract to appear at the Toledo Inverness Invitational. He previously had shunned several exhibition dates.

The boom was lifted on him this April by the PGA and "Old Muffin Face"—now sporting a cookie duster under his nose—made the Tam meet his first on his return to the U. S.

In a tie for fourth place, each pocketing $750, were leading money winner Sam Snead and Jim Ferrier. Snead closed with a 69 for 285 while Ferrier blasted 68.

Grouped at 286, each getting $493.75, were Fred Hawkins of El Paso, Tex., with a final 72; Chandler Harper, the PGA national champion from Portsmouth, Va., with 69; Ed Furgol of Royal Oak, Mich., the 54-hole leader, with a blow-up 75 after taking 36 putts; and Skip Alexander of Knoxville, Tenn., with 73.

Grouped at 287 were Johnny Bulla, Chick Harbert and Clayton Haefner. Skee Riegel of Tulsa, Okla., only four strokes off the pace at 54 holes, was 13th with a 288, even par for the distance, after a last 73.

Pick Co-Captains

DELAFIELD, Wis., Aug. 8 (AP)—Doak Walker, Southern Methodist halfback, and Clayton Tonnemaker, Minnesota center, today were elected co-captains of the College All-star football team.

The All-Stars will play the Philadelphia Eagles, champions of the National Football League, in the 17th annual game in Soldier Field Friday night. An estimated 80,000 are expected to see the game.

Clement "Buddy" Cosgrove and James E. "Junior" Raupach of this city will compete in the annual national motorcycle hill-climb championship events at Muskegon, Mich., Sunday, August 27.

Cosgrove won two Class "B" events in Michigan in 1949. He will compete in Class "A" contests this year.

Raupach will be riding in a national championship event for the first time.

The Hemmis Brothers — Joe and "Tee" — will likely compete at Muskegon this month. The South End brothers are now employed by the Hudson Motor Company and reside in Detroit.

Their father, Clarence "Tan" Hemmis, who won two events at the national meet in 1946, has sold his motorcycle business on Virginia Avenue but still makes his home in Cumberland.

When Edgar H. McDonald of Headsville, Mineral county, won the 16-yards championship in the West Virginia Trapshooting Tournament at the Ridgeley Rod and Gun Club traps recently he qualified as West Virginia's representative in the "Champion of Champions" race which is held annually during the Grand American Shoot at Vandalia, Ohio.

Only state champions are eligible for the event the latter part of this month.

Johnny Waltman, the Ellerslie lad, who was placed on the disabled list for 60 days after he came up with a sore arm this spring while pitching for Marshall in the East Texas League, a Class "C" circuit, will not report back to the Texas team the latter part of this month, it was learned yesterday.

He's still bothered with a sore arm and has been playing with the Hyndman VFW team in the Interstate League.

Johnny went great guns in the K. O. M. League (Class D) last season with the last place Pittsburg (Kansas) team. He won 16 and lost 14 for the tailenders, twirled in 32 games (25 complete) and had an earned run average of .242, one of the lowest in the circuit.

Waltman is the property of the St. Louis Browns and has been pitching for "farm" teams of the major league club.

The Cumberland Old Germans of the Bi-State Baseball League have a unique record this season. In fact, it might be an all-time record for that circuit.

In 29 games played to date the team has yielded 405 runs while scoring an even 100. This means that opposing teams have scored an average of 14 runs per game while the Brewers have averaged three tallies per contest.

Occupying last place with a 3-26 record, the locals have yielded 11 or more runs to the opposition in 20 of the 29 contests. In six games opposing teams have scored 20 or more runs. The 28-0 defeat at the hands of Hyndman is the worst.

The team's latest losing streak has extended to 10 games in which its opponents have rolled up 176 tallies to the Brewers' 16—an average of 17.7 to 1.6 per game.

NEWPORT, R. I., Aug. 8 (AP) — Three of the top-ranking favorites — Budge Patty, Ted Schroeder and Herb Flam — had anxious moments today but rallied to gain the fourth round in the Newport Casino Invitation Tennis Tournament.

Each of these three leading candidates for the U. S. Davis Cup team lost the opening set to unheralded foes. They pulled their jittery games together just in time to stave off disaster.

The 29-year-old veteran internationalist, whose game has deteriorated through inactivity, struggled to a 4-6, 10-8, 6-3 triumph over Arnold Saul of Los Angeles.

Schroeder, who is given an inside track for one of the singles assignments on the Davis Cup team, was seeded No. 2 in this important grass court event.

The tournament's No. 1 seed, Wimbledon champion Budge Patty, had to call upon all the stroking genius and court generalship at command to oust Harold Burrows of the University of Virginia, 3-6, 7-5, 6-0.

Little Herbie Flam, the giant killer from Beverly Hills, Calif., banged himself out of a hole to eliminate Fred Fisher of Seattle, 2-6, 6-2, 6-4.

Fusari Is 5 To 1 Underdog In New Jersey Go Tonight

Cancer Fund Show In Jersey City May Draw $150,000 Gate

By JACK HAND

JERSEY CITY, Aug. 8 (AP)—Ray Robinson risks his welterweight title for the last time tomorrow night (9 p. m. EST) in Roosevelt Stadium against Charlie Fusari in a Damon Runyon Cancer fund show.

"Win, lose or draw, this is my last welterweight defense," said Sugar Ray at his Pompton Lakes, N. J. camp today.

But Robinson didn't say "positively." Later he added that he wants to be sure of a title bout with Middleweight Champion Jake La Motta before he gives up the welter title.

It was obvious that the struggle to make the 147-pound limit is taking too much out of him.

Ray Wants Shot At Jake

What Sugar Ray has in mind is a shot at Jake LaMotta's middleweight crown. But that may be a distant proposition. No promoter has been able to get the two to agree on terms and the International Boxing Club has Jake under exclusive contract.

In the meantime, Robinson fights a doubleheader tomorrow against (1) the scales and (2) Fusari, a blond 25-year-old puncher from Irvington, N. J., and he's doing it for less than taxi fare.

The lean Harlem Slasher will fight for the sum of one dollar. Ray donates his 30 per cent purse to the fund which may realize about $50,000 if 30,000 fans pay $150,000 as expected.

The battle of the scales, scheduled for 10 a. m. (EST) at Roosevelt Stadium promises to be tougher than the 15-rounder with Fusari. However, Ray will make the weight with a little to spare. It remains to see how much it has sapped his strength.

Supporters of Fusari, a 5 to 1 underdog, count on a sub-par Robinson to tire against an inspired challenger. They may be right but the pick here is Sugar Ray in a walk.

There will be no television of the battle.

If Rain Halts Bout

In the event of rain, the fight will go on Thursday night, with no second weigh-in. However, if there is a 48-hour postponement, both boys must make the 147 pound limit again.

Braves Acquire Mickey Haefner

BOSTON, Aug. 8 (AP) — The acquisition of lefthander Mickey Haefner from the Chicago White Sox via the waiver route was announced tonight by General Manager John Quinn of the Boston Braves.

Haefner, a 37-year-old knuckleball artist, is expected to give the Braves much-needed relief pitching strength. To make room for him on the roster, the Braves released Pitcher Ernie Johnson outright to their Hartford Eastern League farm club.

Haefner, who served six terms as a starting pitcher for the Washington Senators, was sold to the White Sox late last season. So far this year he has a 1-6 record, mostly as a relief pitcher.

Marilyn Maxwell Plots To Crash Musical Wonderland A La Grable

HOLLYWOOD—(INS)—"If you want to 'arrive' in Hollywood, you have to leave Hollywood."

Marilyn Maxwell, the platinum blonde with body, moaned this lament today as she planned to slither her curves into spangled tights and hit the road of night club circuits leading to Broadway.

Marilyn Maxwell

You see, Marilyn wants to pull a Betty Grable. And the celluloid city, even after casing the well-rounded Maxwell equipment, won't let her.

"I want the full tinsel treatment Betty gets in her pictures—good songs, dance routines, elaborate sets and swish costumes," sighed the glamor dish, tapping a shapely foot in impatient rhythm.

"But I usually end up slinking around as the 'other woman'—the blonde menace. Ugh, what a title!"

So now Marilyn is setting her sights on the legit circuits and plotting to crash the musical wonderland a la Grable, whose anatomy is curved along similar lines as Marilyn's.

La Grable kicked around Hollywood for years, doing little more than cheesecake stints, until she shook up a little stardust on Broadway as the smash starrer in "Du-Barry Was a Lady." Only then did glamorville wave open arms to its future leg queen.

"This is typical," pouted Marilyn who is readying a night club act to try out on the boards. By this, she hopes to splash Broadway in a tinsel production and—"maybe, oh, maybe" to give Miss B. Grable a quick run for Hollywood's money and a crack at her crown.

Actually, Marilyn snagged the Hollywood eye when she was singing with Ted Weems' band under the name of Marvel Maxwell in 1941.

"They rolled out the carpet and the contract. But what part did I get? A straight role in "Standby for Action" with Robert Taylor," and Marilyn shook her head.

Even though she has been dancing since she was three years old, Marilyn's only shape-shaking picture stunt was in "Key to the City," where she did the famous atomic bubble dance while cast as siren stuff.

"And that wasn't a dance—only a few burlesque bumps and grinds, most of which were censored to the cutting room floor."

Right now the bombshell is trading punch lines with Bob Hope as his sweetie in "The Lemon Drop Kid." She does get a chance to warble a few ditties with Rapid Robert, but gets no production numbers.

After she finishes this flikker, Marilyn is going into a huddle with Song Writer Hugh Martin, inker of such numbers as "The Trolley Song." She and Martin are scheming routines for a night club to swing to showcase the Maxwell maximums.

She is teaming talents with Jack Gray and Dean Campbell, youthful Broadway song and dance men, for the numbers. And Marilyn, who is following the lead of many flicker favorites to hit the night spots, has a few ideas on legit shows:

"The night club is the test for entertainers. Now you have to produce—you have to give the public more than it expects.

"Doing personal appearances is one thing—they want to see you and that's about all. But cafe customers are used to the best—and they are cruelly critical."

Tire Company Appeals Compensation Decision

Kelly-Springfield Tire Company attorneys have filed an appeal from a decision of the Circuit Court in granting compensation to H. Franklin Rollin on the basis that asthma is an occupational disease.

Rollin was granted compensation after he claimed he contracted the illness while employed at the Kelly Tire Company.

Walter C. Capper, William S. Jenkins and Thomas N. Berry, attorneys for the company, filed the appeal with the Maryland Court of Appeals and Capper said arguments in the case will be heard before the high state court during the October term.

Edward J. Ryan and William L. Wilson represented Rollins in the court hearing here.

The first American-born actor was John Martin, who appeared in Philadelphia on March 13, 1790.

13 Trotters To Vie Today In $75,209 Hambletonian

By JOHN CHANDLER

GOSHEN, N. Y., Aug. 8 (AP) —Thirteen smart stepping trotters, cream of the three-year-old crop, are scheduled to start tomorrow in the $75,209 Hambletonian — richest in the event's history.

There were no surprises as the owners or trainers named their stars and paid $500 each for a crack at first money of $40,537.

Sleepy Goshen was slowly waking up as the vanguard of a crowd of 21,000 began moving in. The names of Star's Pride, Florican and Lusty Song were foremost with those who had the pari-mutuel windows in mind.

Star's Pride Favored

Star's Pride is expected to rule the 2 to 1 betting choice. The bay son of Worthy Boy is owned by E. R. Harriman of Arden, N. Y., and L. B. Sheppard, Hanover, Pa. He will be driven by Johnny Simpson.

Florican, owned by Harriman and his nephew, E. T. Gerry, will be driven by Harry Pownall, and will be coupled in the wagering with Star's Pride. Pownall won the 1945 Hambletonian with Titian Hanover owned by Harriman's Arden Homestead Stable.

Berry Seeks 3rd Win

Another horse given a chance is King's Ransom, from the Coldstream Stud, Lexington, Ky., and driven by Tom Berry—68 year old veteran of the sulky who took the 1950 Hambletonian with Hanover's Bertha and won again with Chestertown in 1946.

Sport Slants

Otis Stine of York, Pa., who is supposed to appear in the automobile races at the Bedford Fair Grounds on Saturday, pulled a good one on June 4 at the New Jersey State Fairgrounds, Trenton.

When his car refused to pep up for the feature, he disappeared into a barn and emerged 10 minutes later towed by a horse.

Stine is currently third in the Eastern AAA standings.

The 235-pound, 6-foot-3 Groza, bettered by one yard the National Football League record of 54 yards set in 1934 by Glenn Pressnell of Detroit. Lou's record boot, however, doesn't count because it was in practice.

During the life span of the All-American Conference, Groza tallied 259 points without making a touchdown. He kicked 30 field goals, including one that traveled 53 yards.

We note that Sugar Robinson plans to go through with that affair with Jose Basora in Scranton, Pa., on August 23.

On June 27, 1947 Basora was so badly injured about the head in a fight with Tommy Yarosz at the Olympia Arena, Detroit, that doctors advised the Puerto Rican "punching bag" not to fight again.

"As Basora stepped through the ropes to leave the ring he told the boxing commissioner he thought he won the fight.

"Then as he started for the dressing room he went out like a light and tumbled to the floor unconscious.

"He was out for 40 minutes and when he regained consciousness he complained that his head was split wide open and his ribs were cracked.

Basora is 32 and he's been bounced around rings since 1939.

Bit O' Fate Wins By Nose

Admiral Drake 2nd In Race At Saratoga

SARATOGA SPRINGS, N. Y., Aug. 8 (AP) — Bit O'Fate, in a spirited rally through the stretch, got up in time to win the $4,500 added Sacandaga Classified Handicap before 11,146 here today. The son of Wait A Bit-Quaker Girl came to the inside of Joseph M. Roebling's Admiral Drake, the favorite, and beat that colt by a nose in one of the most rousing finishes of the afternoon.

Frank Frankel's Noblest was third, a short length behind the battling pair, while King Ranch's oft-disappointing On The Mark was another length away in fourth place. Adopt and Three and Two completed the small field, reserved for three-year-olds.Bit O' Fate, owned by William J. Ziezlar, who bred the lad, paid $10.60 straight and traversed the mile and a furlong on a fast track in 1:51 1-5.

Potent Is Winner

MONMOUTH PARK, N. J., Aug. 8 (AP) — Vera S. Bragg's Potent won his second consecutive race over the local track when he took today's featured event as a $3.80 favorite.

The son of Cohort completed a dauble for Jockey Joe Culmone and covered a mile and a sixteenth in 1.45 4-5 while beating Pentagon Stable's Djinn by a head. Four lengths farther back Mrs. A. J. Cochran's Dateline took a nose decision from Ella K. Bryson's Yarle.

Weather conditions were again in favor of the host organization and approximately 19,000 racegoers were on hand for the program.

Father Link Scores

SALEM, N. M., Aug. 8 (AP) — T. P. Morgan's Father Link captured a photo finish victory in the Garden House Purse, featured three quarter mile event at Rockingham Park today.

The Questrian — Done Gone colt led all the way and fought off the stretch challenge of W. L. Huntley's Whirling World in traveling the course in 1:12 1-5.

Mrs. Hattie Toffel's Red Anita was third, a length and a half back of Whirling World.

Ohioan Annexes Tam Amateur Tournament

CHICAGO, Aug. 8 (AP)—Defending champion Frank Stranahan, already ahead by five strokes won by disqualification today over troubled Wilford Wehrle on the 18th green of their playoff for the All-American amateur golf title.

No card was turned in for Wehrle, who picked up on the last green when Stranahan sank a 15-footer. Arch Matson, tourney rules chairman, said the pick-up automatically disqualified Wehrle.

Wehrle had started the playoff after a charge today by the U. S. G. A. in New York that he has lacked amateur status for the past two years.

Stranahan, much-traveled simonpure from Toledo, Ohio, unreeled a four-under-par 68, compared with a theoretical 73 for Wehrle. The two had tied in the regulation 72-hole distance over Tam O'Shanter's par 36-36-72 course at 291 strokes yesterday.

Wehrle, registered from Ormond, Fla., thus had his second last green fiasco in a row at Tam O'Shanter. It was on the final hole of the 1949 "world" amateur at Tam that Wehrle dropped prone on the grass while the ultimate champion, Bill Campbell, was putting.

A telecast of that episode came to the attention of U. S. G. A. officials, who thus discovered that Wehrle was playing as an amateur after losing that status just before the 1948 National Amateur at Memphis, Tenn.

The U. S. G. A. statement today told Tam promoter George S. May that Wehrle is not an amateur. But Wehrle teed off in the playoff with the comment that he intends soon to apply for reinstatement as an amateur.

May said he had requested a list of amateurs considered ineligible by the U. S. G. A. Receiving none, May said, he okeyed Wehrle's entry.

Locke's Great Finish Catches Lloyd Mangrum

A-A Golf Ends In Tie, Playoff Is Set Today

CHICAGO, Aug. 8 (AP) — Exiled from American fairways for more than a year under a PGA ban, Bobby Locke returned with a vengeance today to sweep into a 72-hole tie with Lloyd Mangrum for the Tam O'Shanter All-American golf title.

They both closed their fourth round with 67's for a six-under-par tally of 282, forcing them into an 18-hole playoff beginning at 2 p. m. (EST) tomorrow. A first prize of $2,500 is at stake.

It was Locke's rusty blade putter, which looks like a throwback from the caveman days, which once again proved the fatal weapon. The South African, fresh from winning the British Open and a batch of over British events, birdied four of the last five with putts of 32, 12, 30 and 22 feet.

This closing drive, one of the greatest in the 10-year history of the colorful Tam O'Shanter gold rush, gave him a five-under 31 on the back nine to couple with his standard front side of 36.

Locke was banned by the PGA last June when he failed to fulfill a contract to appear at the Toledo Inverness Invitational. He previously had shunned several exhibition dates.

The boom was lifted on him this April by the PGA and "Old Muffin Face"—now sporting a cookie duster under his nose—made the Tam meet his first on his return to the U. S.

In a tie for fourth place, each pocketing $750, were leading money winner Sam Snead and Jim Ferrier. Snead closed with a 69 for 285 while Ferrier blasted 68.

Grouped at 286, each getting $493.75, were Fred Hawkins of El Paso, Tex., with a final 72; Chandler Harper, the PGA national champion from Portsmouth, Va., with 69; Ed Furgol of Royal Oak, Mich., the 54-hole leader, with a blow-up 75 after taking 36 putts; and Skip Alexander of Knoxville, Tenn., with 73.

Grouped at 287 were Johnny Bulla, Chick Harbert and Clayton Haefner. Skee Riegel of Tulsa, Okla., only four strokes off the pace at 54 holes, was 13th with a 288, even par for the distance, after a last 73.

Pick Co-Captains

DELAFIELD, Wis., Aug. 8 (AP)—Doak Walker, Southern Methodist halfback, and Clayton Tonnemaker, Minnesota center, today were elected co-captains of the College All-star football team.

The All-Stars will play the Philadelphia Eagles, champions of the National Football League, in the 17th annual game in Soldier Field Friday night. An estimated 80,000 are expected to see the game.

Clement "Buddy" Cosgrove and James E. "Junior" Raupach of this city will compete in the annual national motorcycle hill-climb championship events at Muskegon, Mich., Sunday, August 27.

Cosgrove won two Class "B" events in Michigan in 1949. He will compete in Class "A" contests this year.

Raupach will be riding in a national championship event for the first time.

The Hemmis Brothers — Joe and "Tee" — will likely compete at Muskegon this month. The South End brothers are now employed by the Hudson Motor Company and reside in Detroit.

Their father, Clarence "Tan" Hemmis, who won two events at the national meet in 1946, has sold his motorcycle business on Virginia Avenue but still makes his home in Cumberland.

Only state champions are eligible for the event the latter part of this month.

Johnny Waltman, the Ellerslie lad, who was placed on the disabled list for 60 days after he came up with a sore arm this spring while pitching for Marshall in the East Texas League, a Class "C" circuit, will not report back to the Texas team the latter part of this month, it was learned yesterday.

He's still bothered with a sore arm and has been playing with the Hyndman VFW team in the Interstate League.

Johnny went great guns in the K. O. M. League (Class D) last season with the last place Pittsburg (Kansas) team. He won 16 and lost 14 for the tailenders, twirled in 32 games (25 complete) and had an earned run average of .242, one of the lowest in the circuit.

Waltman is the property of the St. Louis Browns and has been pitching for "farm" teams of the major league club.

The Cumberland Old Germans of the Bi-State Baseball League have a unique record this season. In fact, it might be an all-time record for that circuit.

In 29 games played to date the team has yielded 405 runs while scoring an even 100. This means that opposing teams have scored an average of 14 runs per game while the Brewers have averaged three tallies per contest.

Occupying last place with a 3-26 record, the locals have yielded 11 or more runs to the opposition in 20 of the 29 contests. In six games opposing teams have scored 20 or more runs. The 28-0 defeat at the hands of Hyndman is the worst.

The team's latest losing streak has extended to 10 games in which its opponents have rolled up 176 tallies to the Brewers' 16—an average of 17.7 to 1.6 per game.

Braves Lose 9th In Little League, 10-2

The Dodgers shoved the Braves deeper into the cellar of the Dan Division of the Little Baseball League by beating the tailenders under the lights at Penn Avenue Field last night by the score of 10-2.

The win gave the Dodgers a 5-5 mark for the season while the loss was the ninth against a single victory for the Braves.

Wayne* Murray set the Braves down with four hits, struck out 13 and rapped a home run. Bill Buzzard and W. Hillegas slapped out two hits each. One of Buzzard's blows was a two-bagger. Wolfe obtained two of the losers' four hits.

Weltman and Klippenberg gave up all of the runs scored by the Dodgers. Score:

The victory put the Elks in third place, a full game ahead of the Moose tossers who were trounced by the score of 10-1 by the Knights of Columbus at Fort Hill Field.

In the night game played in the remarkable fast time of 40 minutes, the Outdoor Club blanked the Amvets, 3-0, at Penn Avenue Field.

Van Roby hit a 3-run homer for the Elks during a four-run outburst in the 5th. "Pooch" Orndorff, Bill Spangler and Joe Garlitz had two hits each for the Elks while Roy Whiteman made several nice catches in right field. Schroeder, Patty And Flam Victors

NEWPORT, R. I., Aug. 8 (AP) — Three of the top-ranking favorites — Budge Patty, Ted Schroeder and Herb Flam — had anxious moments today but rallied to gain the fourth round in the Newport Casino Invitation Tennis Tournament.

Each of these three leading candidates for the U. S. Davis Cup team lost the opening set to unheralded foes. They pulled their jittery games together just in time to stave off disaster.

The 29-year-old veteran internationalist, whose game has deteriorated through inactivity, struggled to a 4-6, 10-8, 6-3 triumph over Arnold Saul of Los Angeles.

Schroeder, who is given an inside track for one of the singles assignments on the Davis Cup team, was seeded No. 2 in this important grass court event.

The tournament's No. 1 seed, Wimbledon champion Budge Patty, had to call upon all the stroking genius and court generalship at command to oust Harold Burrows of the University of Virginia, 3-6, 7-5, 6-0.

Little Herbie Flam, the giant killer from Beverly Hills, Calif., banged himself out of a hole to eliminate Fred Fisher of Seattle, 2-6, 6-2, 6-4.

Fusari Is 5 To 1 Underdog In New Jersey Go Tonight

Cancer Fund Show In Jersey City May Draw $150,000 Gate

By JACK HAND

JERSEY CITY, Aug. 8 (AP)—Ray Robinson risks his welterweight title for the last time tomorrow night (9 p. m. EST) in Roosevelt Stadium against Charlie Fusari in a Damon Runyon Cancer fund show.

"Win, lose or draw, this is my last welterweight defense," said Sugar Ray at his Pompton Lakes, N. J. camp today.

But Robinson didn't say "positively." Later he added that he wants to be sure of a title bout with Middleweight Champion Jake La Motta before he gives up the welter title.

It was obvious that the struggle to make the 147-pound limit is taking too much out of him.

Ray Wants Shot At Jake

What Sugar Ray has in mind is a shot at Jake LaMotta's middleweight crown. But that may be a distant proposition. No promoter has been able to get the two to agree on terms and the International Boxing Club has Jake under exclusive contract.

In the meantime, Robinson fights a doubleheader tomorrow against (1) the scales and (2) Fusari, a blond 25-year-old puncher from Irvington, N. J., and he's doing it for less than taxi fare.

The lean Harlem Slasher will fight for the sum of one dollar. Ray donates his 30 per cent purse to the fund which may realize about $50,000 if 30,000 fans pay $150,000 as expected.

The battle of the scales, scheduled for 10 a. m. (EST) at Roosevelt Stadium promises to be tougher than the 15-rounder with Fusari. However, Ray will make the weight with a little to spare. It remains to see how much it has sapped his strength.

Supporters of Fusari, a 5 to 1 underdog, count on a sub-par Robinson to tire against an inspired challenger. They may be right but the pick here is Sugar Ray in a walk.

There will be no television of the battle.

If Rain Halts Bout

In the event of rain, the fight will go on Thursday night, with no second weigh-in. However, if there is a 48-hour postponement, both boys must make the 147 pound limit again.

Four Games Carded For Little League

Braves Acquire Mickey Haefner

BOSTON, Aug. 8 (AP) — The acquisition of lefthander Mickey Haefner from the Chicago White Sox via the waiver route was announced tonight by General Manager John Quinn of the Boston Braves.

Haefner, a 37-year-old knuckleball artist, is expected to give the Braves much-needed relief pitching strength. To make room for him on the roster, the Braves released Pitcher Ernie Johnson outright to their Hartford Eastern League farm club.

Haefner, who served six terms as a starting pitcher for the Washington Senators, was sold to the White Sox late last season. So far this year he has a 1-6 record, mostly as a relief pitcher.

Church Opposes Wholesale Beer License Request

Members of St. Philip's Episcopal Church filed a remonstrance yesterday with the Allegany County Liquor Board against the issuance of Class A (wholesale) off sale beer license to Charles A. McFerran for an establishment at the rear of 203 Greene Street.

Remonstrants protested that the proposed area is residential and near a place of worship and that there was no necessity for a place of business of the type proposed at that point.

September 5 at 10 a. m. was set as the hearing date by the board.

The board also issued a number of licenses yesterday.

Reta R. Auvil, trading as the Mayfair Tavern, Winchester Road, was granted a Class D beer license. John H. Smith formerly held the license at the location.

A special one-day beer license was granted to the LaVale Volunteer Fire Company for use August 11.

Park Gets Beer License

The board also granted a Class D. beer license to Richard B. Young for Crystal Park on Route 40, west of Cumberland.

Young appeared before the board to testify that he had abandoned his use of the park arena as a skating rink and now conducts dances and shows only.

Young personally assured the board that no teen-agers would be allowed to loiter in the room where beer is sold.

The board refused twice previously to grant a beer license to the park as children used it for skating. Under the changed circumstances the board felt Young was entitled to a license.

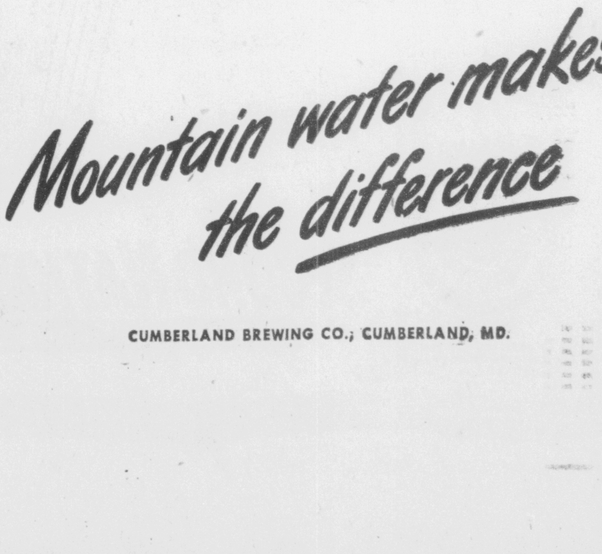
LET'S SKIP THE FANCY WORDS!

Anybody Can Throw the Dictionary at You—But No Other Beer Has Ever Offered This Convincing Proof Before —Public Praise From the Men Who Know Beer Best—Brewers of Other Fine Beers!

MARTIN WALTER, JR., who for more than 45 years has been the head of the Walter Brewing Company of Colorado. An "old timer" in the industry, Mr. Walter speaks with authority when he praises Old Export in the same glowing terms as his own famous brands and states: "It can only be developed with fine Mountain Water and long brewing knowledge. It's a Swell Beer!"

JOIN THE EXPERTS SAY "OLD EXPORT"

Here's the kind of proof that means something — public endorsements from brewers of other beers! Here's straight talk from the men who know beer best! When they say "Old Export — A Swell Beer," that's a proven fact, not just a lot of empty words. And when local folks everywhere back up their own individual taste preference by boosting Old Export sales higher and higher, you can bet you're on the right track when you JOIN THE EXPERTS — SAY OLD EXPORT. Remember too, the added convenience of the new No Deposit glass bottle.



JOHN A. BERGHOFF, of Fort Wayne, Indiana, brewer of Gold Star Beer and Ale, and one of the outstanding beer producers in the United States who made history when he publicly acclaimed Old Export in these words: "It has an excellence of flavor, zest and sparkle that's mighty hard to equal. It's a swell beer." This Hoosier man is former President of a National Brewers' Association.

"A SWELL BEER"... LOCAL FOLKS HAVE SAID IT FOR OVER 60 YEARS

JOSEPH BENIK, Miner Motorman of Beaverdale, Pa. "I'll always take the advice of an expert, and when another brewer praises Old Export Beer, that's good enough for me! I'm proud to jo'n the brewers from coast to coast and give a rousing cheer for Old Export — a swell beer!"

C. D. SHEPHERD, Woolen Mills Card Mechanic, Winchester, Va. "Those brewers from other sections sure picked a winner in Old Export. No wonder! It's brewed with mountain water — a really swell beer! The experts say so — my friends say so — and my taste says so!"

JOHN PIGNANALLI, Retired Glass Worker, Fairmont, W. Va. "In a glass at home, right out of the bottle or can — or on tap at my favorite bar, when I see the Old Export Label, I know I'm getting the finest beer money can buy. Old Export? It's really a swell beer!"

GEORGE H. MINNICKS, Service Station Attendant, Cumberland, Md. "Off the job my relaxation includes Old Export. It's the swell beer that gives me the pick up I need after a day on the job. The experts say it's swell — and brother, I agree!"

13 Trotters To Vie Today In $75,209 Hambletonian

By JOHN CHANDLER

GOSHEN, N. Y., Aug. 8 (AP) —Thirteen smart stepping trotters, cream of the three-year-old crop, are scheduled to start tomorrow in the $75,209 Hambletonian — richest in the event's history.

There were no surprises as the owners or trainers named their stars and paid $500 each for a crack at first money of $40,537.

Sleepy Goshen was slowly waking up as the vanguard of a crowd of 21,000 began moving in. The names of Star's Pride, Florican and Lusty Song were foremost with those who had the pari-mutuel windows in mind.

Star's Pride Favored

Star's Pride is expected to rule the 2 to 1 betting choice. The bay son of Worthy Boy is owned by E. R. Harriman of Arden, N. Y., and L. B. Sheppard, Hanover, Pa. He will be driven by Johnny Simpson.

Florican, owned by Harriman and his nephew, E. T. Gerry, will be driven by Harry Pownall, and will be coupled in the wagering with Star's Pride. Pownall won the 1945 Hambletonian with Titian Hanover owned by Harriman's Arden Homestead Stable.

Berry Seeks 3rd Win

Another horse given a chance is King's Ransom, from the Coldstream Stud, Lexington, Ky., and driven by Tom Berry—68 year old veteran of the sulky who took the 1950 Hambletonian with Hanover's Bertha and won again with Chestertown in 1946.

Others in the lineup are Darn Flashy, owned by J. J. Parcell of Nichols, N. Y.; Vic Song, S. A. Wathen and son, Ft. Fairfield, Me.; Anthony Hanover, T. J. Zornow, Pittsford, N. Y.; Mariner Hanover, Ben E. Bampton, New York; Choice Hanover, C. W. Knibb, Providence, R. I.; Mightey Express, Newport Stock Farm, South Plainfield, N. J.; Banter Hanover, Ernie Roediger, Norristown, Pa.; and Stuart Hanover, Milky Way Stable, Rockville Center, N. Y.

Otis Stine of York, Pa., who is supposed to appear in the automobile races at the Bedford Fair Grounds on Saturday, pulled a good one on June 4 at the New Jersey State Fairgrounds, Trenton.

When his car refused to pep up for the feature, he disappeared into a barn and emerged 10 minutes later towed by a horse.

Stine is currently third in the Eastern AAA standings.

The 235-pound, 6-foot-3 Groza, bettered by one yard the National Football League record of 54 yards set in 1934 by Glenn Pressnell of Detroit. Lou's record boot, however, doesn't count because it was in practice.

During the life span of the All-American Conference, Groza tallied 259 points without making a touchdown. He kicked 30 field goals, including one that traveled 53 yards.

We note that Sugar Robinson plans to go through with that affair with Jose Basora in Scranton, Pa., on August 23.

On June 27, 1947 Basora was so badly injured about the head in a fight with Tommy Yarosz at the Olympia Arena, Detroit, that doctors advised the Puerto Rican "punching bag" not to fight again.

"As Basora stepped through the ropes to leave the ring he told the boxing commissioner he thought he won the fight.

"Then as he started for the dressing room he went out like a light and tumbled to the floor unconscious.

"He was out for 40 minutes and when he regained consciousness he complained that his head was split wide open and his ribs were cracked.

Basora is 32 and he's been bounced around rings since 1939.

Bit O' Fate Wins By Nose

Admiral Drake 2nd In Race At Saratoga

SARATOGA SPRINGS, N. Y., Aug. 8 (AP) — Bit O'Fate, in a spirited rally through the stretch, got up in time to win the $4,500 added Sacandaga Classified Handicap before 11,146 here today. The son of Wait A Bit-Quaker Girl came to the inside of Joseph M. Roebling's Admiral Drake, the favorite, and beat that colt by a nose in one of the most rousing finishes of the afternoon.

Frank Frankel's Noblest was third, a short length behind the battling pair, while King Ranch's oft-disappointing On The Mark was another length away in fourth place. Adopt and Three and Two completed the small field, reserved for three-year-olds.Bit O' Fate, owned by William J. Ziezlar, who bred the lad, paid $10.60 straight and traversed the mile and a furlong on a fast track in 1:51 1-5.

Potent Is Winner

MONMOUTH PARK, N. J., Aug. 8 (AP) — Vera S. Bragg's Potent won his second consecutive race over the local track when he took today's featured event as a $3.80 favorite.

The son of Cohort completed a dauble for Jockey Joe Culmone and covered a mile and a sixteenth in 1.45 4-5 while beating Pentagon Stable's Djinn by a head. Four lengths farther back Mrs. A. J. Cochran's Dateline took a nose decision from Ella K. Bryson's Yarle.

Weather conditions were again in favor of the host organization and approximately 19,000 racegoers were on hand for the program.

Father Link Scores

SALEM, N. M., Aug. 8 (AP) — T. P. Morgan's Father Link captured a photo finish victory in the Garden House Purse, featured three quarter mile event at Rockingham Park today.

The Questrian — Done Gone colt led all the way and fought off the stretch challenge of W. L. Huntley's Whirling World in traveling the course in 1:12 1-5.

Mrs. Hattie Toffel's Red Anita was third, a length and a half back of Whirling World.

Ohioan Annexes Tam Amateur Tournament

CHICAGO, Aug. 8 (AP)—Defending champion Frank Stranahan, already ahead by five strokes won by disqualification today over troubled Wilford Wehrle on the 18th green of their playoff for the All-American amateur golf title.

No card was turned in for Wehrle, who picked up on the last green when Stranahan sank a 15-footer. Arch Matson, tourney rules chairman, said the pick-up automatically disqualified Wehrle.

Wehrle had started the playoff after a charge today by the U. S. G. A. in New York that he has lacked amateur status for the past two years.

Stranahan, much-traveled simonpure from Toledo, Ohio, unreeled a four-under-par 68, compared with a theoretical 73 for Wehrle. The two had tied in the regulation 72-hole distance over Tam O'Shanter's par 36-36-72 course at 291 strokes yesterday.

Wehrle, registered from Ormond, Fla., thus had his second last green fiasco in a row at Tam O'Shanter. It was on the final hole of the 1949 "world" amateur at Tam that Wehrle dropped prone on the grass while the ultimate champion, Bill Campbell, was putting.

A telecast of that episode came to the attention of U. S. G. A. officials, who thus discovered that Wehrle was playing as an amateur after losing that status just before the 1948 National Amateur at Memphis, Tenn.

The U. S. G. A. statement today told Tam promoter George S. May that Wehrle is not an amateur. But Wehrle teed off in the playoff with the comment that he intends soon to apply for reinstatement as an amateur.

May said he had requested a list of amateurs considered ineligible by the U. S. G. A. Receiving none, May said, he okeyed Wehrle's entry.

Federal Road Aid Projects To Be Stopped

Because of the present hostilities in Korea, no further projects under the federal aid roads bill will be undertaken, Commissioner William H. Lemmert told the Allegany County Board of Commissioners yesterday.

Lemmert was informed of the order by Albert Gordon, executive director of the State Roads Commission, in a telephone conversation.

The order will not affect the Lower Town Creek, Mill Run and Williams Road projects which already have been entered into by the board.

The county board yesterday released the names of 10 agents who will handle the issuance of dog licenses.

Name License Agents

Joseph P. McCormick, Barton; Roy E. Bowman, Cresaptown; Harry W. Yonker, Flintstone, and George Deffinbaugh, Oldtown.

The fee for each male or spayed female dog will be $1; each unspayed female, $2; kennel of not more than 25 dogs, $10, and kennel with more than 25 dogs, $20. In the event a tag is lost, a duplicate may be secured from the county treasurer upon payment of an additional fee of 25 cents.

The owner of any dog six months old or over must apply to the county treasurer or his agents on or before July 1 of each year for a license.

Road Requests Received

The tags will be metal with serial numbers corresponding to the license issued to the owner, and will show the calendar or fiscal year. Shape of the tag will be changed from year to year.

The board also received a number of requests yesterday for road repairs.

Mrs. Thomas Neilson and Mrs. John Ware, who reside on Welsh Hill in the Frostburg area, asked that repairs be made to the street as soon as possible.

R. G. Curry asked that a pipe Cresaptown section be replaced. The old pipe was of terra cotta and heavy traffic has crushed it in a number of places.

County Engineer John J. Smith was ordered to investigate the complaints and reports to the board. Smith submitted his semi-monthly report on costs of labor and materials on road and bridge projects for the period between July 16 and 31.

Church Opposes Wholesale Beer License Request

Members of St. Philip's Episcopal Church filed a remonstrance yesterday with the Allegany County Liquor Board against the issuance of Class A (wholesale) off sale beer license to Charles A. McFerran for an establishment at the rear of 203 Greene Street.

Remonstrants protested that the proposed area is residential and near a place of worship and that there was no necessity for a place of business of the type proposed at that point.

September 5 at 10 a. m. was set as the hearing date by the board.

The board also issued a number of licenses yesterday.

Reta R. Auvil, trading as the Mayfair Tavern, Winchester Road, was granted a Class D beer license. John H. Smith formerly held the license at the location.

A special one-day beer license was granted to the LaVale Volunteer Fire Company for use August 11.

Park Gets Beer License

The board also granted a Class D, beer license to Richard B. Young for Crystal Park on Route 40, west of Cumberland.

Young appeared before the board to testify that he had abandoned his use of the park arena as a skating rink and now conducts dances and shows only.

Young personally assured the board that no teen-agers would be allowed to loiter in the room where beer is sold.

The board refused twice previously to grant a beer license to the park as children used it for skating. Under the changed circumstances the board felt Young was entitled to a license.

LET'S SKIP THE FANCY WORDS!

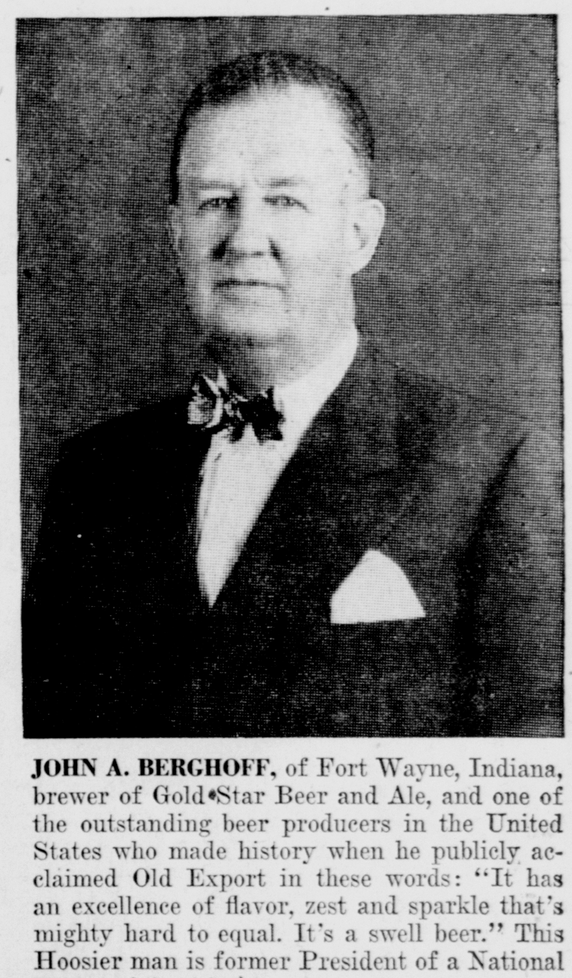
Anybody Can Throw the Dictionary at You—But No Other Beer Has Ever Offered This Convincing Proof Before—Public Praise From the Men Who Know Beer Best—Brewers of Other Fine Beers!

MARTIN WALTER, JR., who for more than 45 years has been the head of the Walter Brewing Company of Colorado. An "old timer" in the industry, Mr. Walter speaks with authority when he praises Old Export in the same glowing terms as his own famous brands and states: "It can only be developed with fine Mountain Water and long brewing knowledge. It's a Swell Beer!"

JOIN THE EXPERTS SAY "OLD EXPORT"

Here's the kind of proof that means something — public endorsements from brewers of other beers! Here's straight talk from the men who know beer best! When they say "Old Export — A Swell Beer," that's a proven fact, not just a lot of empty words. And when local folks everywhere back up their own individual taste preference by boosting Old Export sales higher and higher, you can bet you're on the right track when you JOIN THE EXPERTS — SAY OLD EXPORT. Remember too, the added convenience of the new No Deposit glass bottle.

"A SWELL BEER"... LOCAL FOLKS HAVE SAID IT FOR OVER 60 YEARS



JOHN A. BERGHOFF, of Fort Wayne, Indiana, brewer of Gold Star Beer and Ale, and one of the outstanding beer producers in the United States who made history when he publicly acclaimed Old Export in these words: "It has an excellence of flavor, zest and sparkle that's mighty hard to equal. It's a swell beer." This Hoosier man is former President of a National Brewers' Association.

JOSEPH BENIK, Miner Motorman of Beaverdale, Pa. "I'll always take the advice of an expert, and when another brewer praises Old Export Beer, that's good enough for me! I'm proud to jo'n the brewers from coast to coast and give a rousing cheer for Old Export — a swell beer!"

C. D. SHEPHERD, Woolen Mills Card Mechanic, Winchester, Va. "Those brewers from other sections sure picked a winner in Old Export. No wonder! It's brewed with mountain water — a really swell beer! The experts say so — my friends say so — and my taste says so!"

JOHN PIGNANALLI, Retired Glass Worker, Fairmont, W. Va. "In a glass at home, right out of the bottle or can — or on tap at my favorite bar, when I see the Old Export Label, I know I'm getting the finest beer money can buy. Old Export? It's really a swell beer!"

GEORGE H. MINNICKS, Service Station Attendant, Cumberland, Md. "Off the job my relaxation includes Old Export. It's the swell beer that gives me the pick up I need after a day on the job. The experts say it's swell — and brother, I agree!"

Citizens Thank City Council For Street Work

Officials Consider Boundary Survey

WESTERNPORT—Three citizens living on Riordan Road and Ross Street thanked Mayor George P. Kight and the City Commissioners Monday night for the work of improving the streets.

Officials received praise from Alonzo Riggleman, Fred Riggleman and Larry Donahue. About 600 feet of hot-patch has been placed on the streets.

Donahue complained about neighbors dogs keeping him awake at night by barking. He was advised to secure a warrant for the owners of the dogs to have the noises stopped.

Phillip Hartig, Frostburg, civil engineer, conferred with the mayor and commissioners about the cost of making a resurvey of the boundaries of the town. He gave an estimate between $700 and $800. No action was taken.

Harry E. Welsh, who was appointed water and light commissioner at the last meeting to serve the unexpired term of Charles C. Biggs who died July 19, participated in his first council meeting.

A letter from Lewis E. Harris to the Mayor and Commissioners was read by the City Clerk, Mrs. Katherine Dailey.

The letter read "I understand that your body had directed some consideration to applying a hot-patch to Allegany Street for some distance. In this connection I understand further that plans in a tentative way specified a catch-basin to be installed."

"The sewer on the street is perhaps no more than level with the main sewer and this means that every high water the sewer would force its way through the catch basin and scatter its contents over a wide area, perhaps leading to serious consequences."

"We hope it holds some interest for you to know that several of the folks who have lived in this section over the years and who have observed the action or reaction of the sewer problems, hold the idea that a hot-patch will offer a much needed improvement to the street, and be in position to serve well without the installation of the catch-basin."

Following a discussion of the project, the city officials ordered that no work be done on the street this year.

Ladies Aid Plans Chicken Dinner

FROSTBURG—The annual chicken dinner of the Ladies Aid Society of Welsh Baptist Memorial Church will be held Thursday evening at Layman's farm, Garrett County. A bus will leave the church, Beall Street, at 6 p. m. Persons planning to attend are asked to contact Mrs. Ruth Legeer.

Following the dinner, there will be a program consisting of a vocal solo by Miss Betty Ann Hanna, a reading by Mrs. Althea Yenshaw, a humorous skit by Margaret Walsh and Mar McLuckie and a reading by Mrs. Ruth Custer. Miss Elizabeth Workman and Mrs. Karl Kauffman comprise the committee in charge.

X-Ray Unit Will Visit Lonaconing

LONACONING — The mobile X-ray unit, sponsored by the Allegany County Tuberculosis Association in conjunction with the State Health Department, will visit Lonaconing on Monday and Tuesday, August 14 and 15, from 1 to 7 p.m.

Mrs. Mary Whitfield, county health nurse, states that persons 14 years or older may have the chest X-ray taken. The unit will be stationed near the Health center, Main Street.

Federal Road Aid Projects To Be Stopped

Because of the present hostilities in Korea, no further projects under the federal aid roads bill will be undertaken, Commissioner William H. Lemmert told the Allegany County Board of Commissioners yesterday.

Lemmert was informed of the order by Albert Gordon, executive director of the State Roads Commission, in a telephone conversation.

The order will not affect the Lower Town Creek, Mill Run and Williams Road projects which already have been entered into by the board.

The county board yesterday released the names of 10 agents who will handle the issuance of dog licenses.

Name License Agents

Joseph P. McCormick, Barton; Roy E. Bowman, Cresaptown; Harry W. Yonker, Flintstone, and George Deffinbaugh, Oldtown.

The fee for each male or spayed female dog will be $1; each unspayed female, $2; kennel of not more than 25 dogs, $10, and kennel with more than 25 dogs, $20. In the event a tag is lost, a duplicate may be secured from the county treasurer upon payment of an additional fee of 25 cents.

The owner of any dog six months old or over must apply to the county treasurer or his agents on or before July 1 of each year for a license.

Road Requests Received

The tags will be metal with serial numbers corresponding to the license issued to the owner, and will show the calendar or fiscal year. Shape of the tag will be changed from year to year.

The board also received a number of requests yesterday for road repairs.

Mrs. Thomas Neilson and Mrs. John Ware, who reside on Welsh Hill in the Frostburg area, asked that repairs be made to the street as soon as possible.

R. G. Curry asked that a pipe Cresaptown section be replaced. The old pipe was of terra cotta and heavy traffic has crushed it in a number of places.

County Engineer John J. Smith was ordered to investigate the complaints and reports to the board. Smith submitted his semi-monthly report on costs of labor and materials on road and bridge projects for the period between July 16 and 31.

KEEPING UP WITH HOLLYWOOD

By DOROTHY MANNERS

(Substituting for vacationing Louella Parsons)

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 8 (INS)—Peter Lawford, seldom farmed out by MGM, goes to 20th for "Kangaroo." He will be gone from the home base for quite a spell.

"Kangaroo" will be shot entirely in Australia with Lewis Milestone directing and Robert Bassler producing.

Made by a less important setup, it might be called an Australian "western." But this is on the big and expensive side.

Milestone has already left for down under to scout locations and Peter joins the company there about mid-September.

If this doesn't age you in a hurry nothing will. Margaret O'Brien gets her first screen kiss in "The Romatic Age" at Columbia, her first screen love story.

Remember all the fuss about Deanna Durbin getting her first smooch from Robert Stack? This seems even more disillusioning. Maggie gets her braids cut for a snappier grown up coiffure. And her wardrobe, Margaret O'Brien created by Jean Louis, will be the latest gasp in high school styles.

She was excellent with Jessica Tandy on Broadway and she will be just as good in the Feldman-Warner movie with Vivien Leigh. Kim had a lot of movie experience before she went to Broadway.

Arthur Hornblow is off today for Moss Hart's farm in Bucks County, Pennsylvania. It will be a story huddle on the untitled original Hornblow has bought from Hart.

They'll work on ideas for the screenplay for three weeks, and then Arthur moves on for a few days in New York.

The fabulous life of Jack London will be screened againt—his time with Vic Orsatti and Joe Newman producing the adventures of the two fisted author.

If they get their wish, Edmond O'Brien will play the London role (Mike O'Shea did it the first time). Eddie is hot now in the hit "711 Ocean Drive" in which he was directed by Newman.

Vic and Joe have just bought the rights to the biography from Irving Stone who told London's story in "Beggar On Horseback."

John Agar was with a pretty named Mona Knox at the Encore—but it's no romance. He always seems distracted and preoccupied no matter how lovely his date is.

•—•—•

Went to Del Mar to visit Louella Parsons on her birthday, and to attend the intimate dinner hosted by Dr. Harry Martin at the Del Mar Hotel. Joseph Schenck again proved himself a rare wit as toastmaster, and Mrs. Ann Peppers, who is part owner of the Del Mar track with Joe, was a very attractive guest.

It was a small but gay group that dropped in to wish my boss "many happy returns."

Speaking of the birthday—Dinah Shore will get a kick out of this: She sent "Lop" a "singing wire" and the gal who did the warbling over the phone had such an awful voice that she, herself, broke down, admitting she was singing it for Dinah!

That's all today. See you tomorrow.

Citizens Thank City Council For Street Work

Officials Consider Boundary Survey

WESTERNPORT—Three citizens living on Riordan Road and Ross Street thanked Mayor George P. Kight and the City Commissioners Monday night for the work of improving the streets.

Officials received praise from Alonzo Riggleman, Fred Riggleman and Larry Donahue. About 600 feet of hot-patch has been placed on the streets.

Donahue complained about neighbors dogs keeping him awake at night by barking. He was advised to secure a warrant for the owners of the dogs to have the noises stopped.

Phillip Hartig, Frostburg, civil engineer, conferred with the mayor and commissioners about the cost of making a resurvey of the boundaries of the town. He gave an estimate between $700 and $800. No action was taken.

Harry E. Welsh, who was appointed water and light commissioner at the last meeting to serve the unexpired term of Charles C. Biggs who died July 19, participated in his first council meeting.

A letter from Lewis E. Harris to the Mayor and Commissioners was read by the City Clerk, Mrs. Katherine Dailey.

The letter read "I understand that your body had directed some consideration to applying a hot-patch to Allegany Street for some distance. In this connection I understand further that plans in a tentative way specified a catch-basin to be installed."

"The sewer on the street is perhaps no more than level with the main sewer and this means that every high water the sewer would force its way through the catch basin and scatter its contents over a wide area, perhaps leading to serious consequences."

"We hope it holds some interest for you to know that several of the folks who have lived in this section over the years and who have observed the action or reaction of the sewer problems, hold the idea that a hot-patch will offer a much needed improvement to the street, and be in position to serve well without the installation of the catch-basin."

Following a discussion of the project, the city officials ordered that no work be done on the street this year.

By BOB CONSIDINE

TOKYO (INS)

CERTAIN SWIVEL chair columnists and war commentators at home along with the deflated curmudgeon Harold Ickes have attempted to give the American public a wholly inaccurate picture of the censorship involved and of Gen. Douglas MacArthur's role in the Korean conflict.

There is no censorship, in the traditional sense of the word, being invoked in this war. MacArthur has resisted even the efforts of conservative correspondents to establish a censorship code. He has left censorship to individual discretion, a confidence that has been only briefly abused.

It is not true that it was a myopic "guarantee" by MacArthur to President Truman, concerning the ability of American forces to handle the Korean situation, which prompted the President to order U. S. troops flung into the battle as the vanguard of the first United Nations army.

• — • — •

To repeat, that is an unadulterated lie. The President made up his own mind, presumably after consulting his military advisers in Washington, and initiated the present action. Orders then were sent to MacArthur who, if he was taken by surprise by the stand we had taken, instantly and wholeheartedly endorsed the President's action.

MacArthur had no authority over Korea until it was invested in him by the President. His authority as supreme commander for the Allied powers in Japan, and commander-in-chief of his country's Far Eastern command, extended only over Japan, Okinawa, Saipan, Guam, and to some extent the Philippines.

The fall of China's millions and the fermentation of trouble in Korea affected his deep personal concern but he was neither legally nor materialistically empowered to act to stay these enveloping forces. Formosa was none of his official business. Yet we now see him harpooned at home—by jerks who either dislike him personally or are bereft of conscience and character—for having failed to stem communist advances to a continent over which he had no more real influence than Shirley Temple.

The General's only orders concerning Korea ralled for him to evacuate civilians from that part of the country lying below the 38th parallel in event of emergency.

Within 48 hours after the Red Koreans invaded, MacArthur's planes had removed 2,000 Americans to Tokyo. It was every American who wished to leave. Not a minute was lost during this speedy bit of fending for his countrymen.

The U. S. military commission which worked in Korea in the months leading up to the outbreak reported directly to the State Department through U.S. Ambassador John Muccio. The commission was under no compulsion to present its findings to MacArthur and it did not do so. It was exclusively a State Department operation. It in no way affected MacArthur's theater of operations.

MacArthur moved two rifle companies into Korea by air within hours after receiving his presidential orders. This was for the immediate purpose of stiffening the morale of South Korean troops he did not train. He added additional troops quickly thereafter and the inevitable and grave holding action began. There was never any question in his mind or the minds of other responsible military men that it would be a holding action at best. But without it South Korea would have fallen a month ago—and Russia would have been justifiably emboldened to start similar disorders elsewhere in the world.

MacArthur preceded the original airborne troops with ammunition supplies for the South Koreans and within three weeks after the outbreak of war he had three divisions in battle. Naval commanders of the area, never noted for excessive praise of MacArthur, swore openly that such a movement of men and material would have taken three months in World War II.

His predictions of eventual victory in Korea, which have caused criticism at home because the box score indicates we are losing ground, are based—of course—on his knowledge that more and greater forces will be committed as soon as his country can supply them.

And that courageous field commanders, who have ended for all time the legend that the brass never fights, will use them well.

As for censorship, MacArthur is operating on the wholly unique premise that the American reading and listening public is mature enough to take the bitter with the sweet.

The public is entitled to know the score and share the burden of it, he believes. No commander of the discernible past ever evidenced such confidence in the free press. It is true that the Communist radio has made some use of the more sensational stories coming out of Korea, especially those quoting the bewilderment and understandable disgust of shocked green troops.

• — • — •

But the Korean red radio is something less than all pervading, the General figures, and he is solidly of the opinion that there are enough responsible war correspondents in Korea and Tokyo to handle military information with restraint, and keep from the enemy such information as will enhance his chances.

The plain fact is that MacArthur has a shatter-proof confidence in American newspaper and radiomen on the scene, and an equal confidence in their superiors at home.

In answer to older correspondents who have asked for censorship rules as a guard against having to compete with gaudier practitioners, MacArthur shrugs and says in effect that the matter will take care of itself as time goes on.

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE—Here's how to work it:

is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this example A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophies, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

A Cryptogram Quotation

O L P K M S X H G H Y F X G P N L T P H O K X. H P G D M K I V K C J X V M N X S X N O L N Y-X P D — G M L P D X I.

Yesterday's Cryptoquote: FOR WHO WOULD BE SATIRICAL UPON A THING SO VERY SMALL?—SWIFT.

KEEPING UP WITH HOLLYWOOD

By DOROTHY MANNERS

(Substituting for vacationing Louella Parsons)

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 8 (INS)—Peter Lawford, seldom farmed out by MGM, goes to 20th for "Kangaroo." He will be gone from the home base for quite a spell.

"Kangaroo" will be shot entirely in Australia with Lewis Milestone directing and Robert Bassler producing.

Made by a less important setup, it might be called an Australian "western." But this is on the big and expensive side.

Milestone has already left for down under to scout locations and Peter joins the company there about mid-September.

If this doesn't age you in a hurry nothing will. Margaret O'Brien gets her first screen kiss in "The Romatic Age" at Columbia, her first screen love story.

Margaret O'Brien

Remember all the fuss about Deanna Durbin getting her first smooch from Robert Stack? This seems even more disillusioning. Maggie gets her braids cut for a snappier grown up coiffure. And her wardrobe, created by Jean Louis, will be the latest gasp in high school styles.

Hunt Stromberg is the producer of this picture guaranteed to assure that old rockin' chair's got you.

She was excellent with Jessica Tandy on Broadway and she will be just as good in the Feldman-Warner movie with Vivien Leigh. Kim had a lot of movie experience before she went to Broadway.

•—•—•

Arthur Hornblow is off today for Moss Hart's farm in Bucks County, Pennsylvania. It will be a story huddle on the untitled original Hornblow has bought from Hart.

They'll work on ideas for the screenplay for three weeks, and then Arthur moves on for a few days in New York.

The fabulous life of Jack London will be screened againt—his time with Vic Orsatti and Joe Newman producing the adventures of the two fisted author.

If they get their wish, Edmond O'Brien will play the London role (Mike O'Shea did it the first time). Eddie is hot now in the hit "711 Ocean Drive" in which he was directed by Newman.

Vic and Joe have just bought the rights to the biography from Irving Stone who told London's story in "Beggar On Horseback."

•—•—•

John Agar was with a pretty named Mona Knox at the Encore—but it's no romance. He always seems distracted and preoccupied no matter how lovely his date is.

•—•—•

•—•—•

Went to Del Mar to visit Louella Parsons on her birthday, and to attend the intimate dinner hosted by Dr. Harry Martin at the Del Mar Hotel. Joseph Schenck again proved himself a rare wit as toastmaster, and Mrs. Ann Peppers, who is part owner of the Del Mar track with Joe, was a very attractive guest.

It was a small but gay group that dropped in to wish my boss "many happy returns."

Speaking of the birthday—Dinah Shore will get a kick out of this: She sent "Lop" a "singing wire" and the gal who did the warbling over the phone had such an awful voice, that she, herself, broke down, admitting she was singing it for Dinah!

That's all today. See you tomorrow.

G.N. 500 Club Meets With Mrs. Crow

The next meeting will be held Thursday at the home of Mrs. Edith Lancaster.

MIDLAND — A well baby and pre-school clinic will be held Friday from 10 a. m. to noon at the Midland Medical Center, Railroad Street.

Educators Are At State Meet

KEYSER, W. Va. — Attending the West Virginia Work conference this week at Camp Caesar in Webster County are five Mineral County residents.

The local group, Vernon Staggers, Charles N. Wimer and Miss Mernie Judy, of New Creek area; W. E. Michael, Keyser, and Mrs. Garland Ebert, Burlington, are part of a group of 160 county or collegiate representatives at the conference sponsored by the West Virginia Education Association.

The keynote speaker at the conference is Dr. Edgar Grim, of the Michigan State Department of Education. The main topic for the conference is "Building a Better West Virginia Through Education."

In Memoriam

In loving memory of Sgt. J. Donald Kenney, who was killed in the service of his country, 7 years ago today, August 9, 1943.
It was seven years ago today
Since that loving heart was stilled,
Time goes passing on and on,
But the void cannot be filled,
For that parting brought such heartache,
And the grief so hard to bear,
We are gladdened by the knowledge,
That you are happy with Him there.
Sadly missed by mother.

By BOB CONSIDINE

TOKYO (INS)

CERTAIN SWIVEL chair columnists and war commentators at home along with the deflated curmudgeon Harold Ickes have attempted to give the American public a wholly inaccurate picture of the censorship involved and of Gen. Douglas MacArthur's role in the Korean conflict.

There is no censorship, in the traditional sense of the word, being invoked in this war. MacArthur has resisted even the efforts of conservative correspondents to establish a censorship code. He has left censorship to individual discretion, a confidence that has been only briefly abused.

It is not true that it was a myopic "guarantee" by MacArthur to President Truman, concerning the ability of American forces to handle the Korean situation, which prompted the President to order U. S. troops flung into the battle as the vanguard of the first United Nations army.

• — • — •

To repeat, that is an unadulterated lie. The President made up his own mind, presumably after consulting his military advisers in Washington, and initiated the present action. Orders then were sent to MacArthur who, if he was taken by surprise by the stand we had taken, instantly and wholeheartedly endorsed the President's action.

MacArthur had no authority over Korea until it was invested in him by the President. His authority as supreme commander for the Allied powers in Japan, and commander-in-chief of his country's Far Eastern command, extended only over Japan, Okinawa, Saipan, Guam, and to some extent the Philippines.

The fall of China's millions and the fermentation of trouble in Korea affected his deep personal concern but he was neither legally nor materialistically empowered to act to stay these enveloping forces. Formosa was none of his official business. Yet we now see him harpooned at home—by jerks who either dislike him personally or are bereft of conscience and character—for having failed to stem communist advances to a continent over which he had no more real influence than Shirley Temple.

The General's only orders concerning Korea ralled for him to evacuate civilians from that part of the country lying below the 38th parallel in event of emergency.

Within 48 hours after the Red Koreans invaded, MacArthur's planes had removed 2,000 Americans to Tokyo. It was every American who wished to leave. Not a minute was lost during this speedy bit of fending for his countrymen.

The U. S. military commission which worked in Korea in the months leading up to the outbreak reported directly to the State Department through U.S. Ambassador John Muccio. The commission was under no compulsion to present its findings to MacArthur and it did not do so. It was exclusively a State Department operation. It in no way affected MacArthur's theater of operations.

MacArthur moved two rifle companies into Korea by air within hours after receiving his presidential orders. This was for the immediate purpose of stiffening the morale of South Korean troops he did not train. He added additional troops quickly thereafter and the inevitable and grave holding action began. There was never any question in his mind or the minds of other responsible military men that it would be a holding action at best. But without it South Korea would have fallen a month ago—and Russia would have been justifiably emboldened to start similar disorders elsewhere in the world.

MacArthur preceded the original airborne troops with ammunition supplies for the South Koreans and within three weeks after the outbreak of war he had three divisions in battle. Naval commanders of the area, never noted for excessive praise of MacArthur, swore openly that such a movement of men and material would have taken three months in World War II.

His predictions of eventual victory in Korea, which have caused criticism at home because the box score indicates we are losing ground, are based—of course—on his knowledge that more and greater forces will be committed as soon as his country can supply them.

And that courageous field commanders, who have ended for all time the legend that the brass never fights, will use them well.

As for censorship, MacArthur is operating on the wholly unique premise that the American reading and listening public is mature enough to take the bitter with the sweet.

The public is entitled to know the score and share the burden of it, he believes. No commander of the discernible past ever evidenced such confidence in the free press. It is true that the Communist radio has made some use of the more sensational stories coming out of Korea, especially those quoting the bewilderment and understandable disgust of shocked green troops.

• — • — •

But the Korean red radio is something less than all pervading, the General figures, and he is solidly of the opinion that there are enough responsible war correspondents in Korea and Tokyo to handle military information with restraint, and keep from the enemy such information as will enhance his chances.

The plain fact is that MacArthur has a shatter-proof confidence in American newspaper and radiomen on the scene, and an equal confidence in their superiors at home.

In answer to older correspondents who have asked for censorship rules as a guard against having to compete with gaudier practitioners, MacArthur shrugs and says in effect that the matter will take care of itself as time goes on.

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE—Here's how to work it:

is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this example A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophies, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

Market Ends Session With Trend Down After Advances

By WILLIAM D. HORGAN

NEW YORK, Aug. 8 (AP) — The stock market ended on downgrade today after a smart early advance spearheaded by General Motors.

General Motors, Chrysler, International Paper, and some other favorites held up pretty well. In the balance of the market morning gains were either chopped down or converted into losses.

General Motors, though, took a $4 a share jump to $93.62 and International Paper $3.75 to $54. Buying interest in each issue was stimulated by dividend news.

Groaning In

With the Korean crisis, President Truman's goal—an increase of $100,000,000,000 in the national income during the next ten years—went out the window. At least it went out so far as there was ever any possibility of its coming about by an increase in the production of real goods for the people to use. From now on a large part of the country's industry will be devoted to producing goods, not for the people to use, but for war. The other way of increasing national income, the statistical way, by marking up wages and prices, can of course go on.

But any increases in prices and wages from now on would be sheer inflation. It would take place without corresponding increase in the production of real goods, and it would come on top of an inflation that has already taken place during the past five years.

It is this condition that causes the present sweating and groaning at Washington, on the part of both Congress and the Administration. They strive to find a way by which statistical increases in prices and wages can be averted. Any sound way must be politically disadvantageous. Labor would have to forego increase in wage rates; farmers would have to forego, in one degree or another, the manitenance by government of artificial prices for their crops.

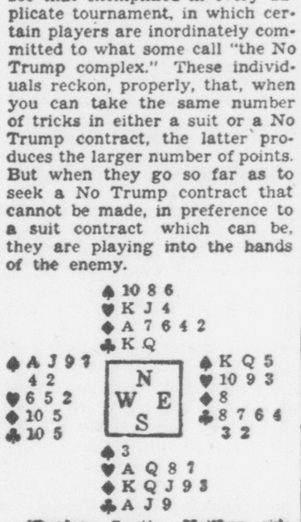
CARRYING IT TOO FAR

THERE is such a thing as carrying a good idea too far. You see that exemplified in every duplicate tournament, in which certain players are inordinately committed to what some call "the No Trump complex." These individuals reckon, properly, that, when you can take the same number of tricks in either a suit or a No Trump contract, the latter produces the larger number of points. But when they go so far as to seek a No Trump contract that cannot be made, in preference to a suit contract which can be, they are playing into the hands of the enemy.



(Dealer: South. Neither side vulnerable.)

South	West	North	East
1. 1 ♦	Pass	2 ♦	Pass
2 ♥	Pass	4 ♦	Pass
4 NT	Pass	5 ♦	Pass
6 ♦
2. 1 ♦	Pass	2 ♦	Pass
2 ♥	Pass	3 ♦	Pass
3 NT

The minds of the North and South players ran along similar lines for the first three bids made by their sides at these two tables of a tournament. Since North's hand was such that a minor suit contract seemed probable at first, neither holder of it felt like forcing a possible eleven-trick game contract. But, when South then made the "reverse" bid of his higher-ranking hearts at the two-level, both Norths felt ready for action. The first made a forthright game-forcing jump of 4-Diamonds and, after use of the Blackwood convention, his partner landed in 6-Diamonds and made at easily.

North at the other table, hating minor suit games especially, bid only 3-Diamonds in order to avoid "going above the 3-No Trumps game level." With that pair such a rebid raise was not necessarily a sign of weakness, but betokened mildly the fact that North might like a No Trump game. South, having one of the two black suits well stopped, took a chance that North could stop the other. Result? The defenders ran six spade tricks against them after West led the 7.

MIRROR OF YOUR MIND — By LAWRENCE GOOD, Consulting Psychologist

Answer: Strictly speaking, never. For nothing takes place without a reason, even though in certain cases the reason appears unrelated to the person who becomes its victim. But as Dr. Jack A. Holmes says in reporting on a study of accidents at the Benicia Arsenal, California: "A great proportion of accidents in any industrial group can be attributed to a very small portion of that group." There are people whose unconscious urge to self-destruction makes them "accident-prone," and who should be kept from dangerous occupations.

Answer: No more than would be his dying of an illness of which you had never learned the symptoms. It is doubtful whether any child would become delinquent or a criminal if his parents had made no mistakes in their treatment of him, especially when he was little, but there are occasional children whose emotional needs are so complex that the average parent has no way of knowing how to meet them. If you did your best in bringing up your children, there is no use in blaming yourself—or them—if they "turned out badly."

May "peace in the family" cost too much?

Answer: Yes. A family in which everyone gives in to one aggressive, domineering member in order to "keep peace" is paying far too high an emotional price for the illusion of harmony. On the one hand, such an attitude encourages the domestic tyrant to be more and more self-centered and demanding; on the other, it inflicts upon his (or her) victims a degree of frustration which will ultimately explode in disruption of the family or in neurotic illness. Real peace can rest only on the basis of fairness to everybody.

In Memoriam

In loving memory of Sgt. J. Donald Kenney, who was killed in the service of his country, 7 years ago today, August 9, 1943.
It was seven years ago today
Since that loving heart was stilled,
Time goes passing on and on,
But the void cannot be filled,
For that parting brought such heartache,
And the grief so hard to bear.
We are gladdened by the knowledge,
That you are happy with Him there.

Interior Department Submits Favorable Report On Parkway

Advantages Of Developing Route Of Historic C And O Canal Stressed

The Department of Interior yesterday sent a report to Congress recommending construction of a motor parkway along the old Chesapeake and Ohio Canal between Great Falls and Cumberland.

The report, signed by Assistant Secretary Dale E. Doty, was given to Interior Secretary Chapman nearly a month ago by Rep. J. Glenn Beall (R-Allegany) who at that time asked the department to delay its submission to Congress.

Rep. Beall has been sponsoring the parkway bill in the House of Representatives. On July 26, a House Public Lands Subcommittee approved a bill by Beall authorizing the National Park Service to acquire lands needed for right of way purposes for such a parkway.

The Interior Department reports the parkway would open a scenic and historic route to the public and at the same time provide a useful access road to a large area.

There are now 13 overpasses on the canal. Present plans call for developing access points only with the 11 following locations:

Seneca, connecting with Maryland 112; Edward Ferry, with a county road; Point of Rocks, with U. S. 15; Brunswick, with Maryland 70; Harpers Ferry, with U. S. 340; Shepherdstown, with Maryland 34; Williamsport, with U. S. 11; Hancock, with U. S. 40; Paw Paw, W. Va., with Maryland 51 and West Virginia 29, and Cumberland, with city streets and U. S. 40 and U. S. 220.

The study indicates the parkway would generate new traffic and draw traffic from congested roads through Frederick and Hagerstown.

It noted also that the right of way along the canal would have to be widened to provide a roadway to accomodate expected traffic volume of 640 to 2,500 vehicles a day, and observed that the State of Maryland would have to convey such acreage to the government.

At present, it is said, federal holdings are inadequate to provide a sufficiently wide parkway for a four-lane road. At least 68 feet would be needed for the four lanes, minimum four foot island and eight-foot shoulders.

For the more satisfactory 16-foot island, 80 feet would be required. The bill initiated by Rep. Beall authorizes an exchange of land with the B. and O. Railroad which owns a small section of land needed for the parkway.

The measure also would permit the Interior Secretary to accept sufficient Maryland lands, through gifts and exchanges, to bring the right of way to a width of 100 acres a mile to give enough room for the parkway.

The report noted that the cost of the parkway would be less than normal because use could be made of the canal grade and other features of the old water route.

FBI Agent Cities Draft Law Penalties

Delinquencies Decrease In State

Wilful violators of the Selective Service Act of 1948 may be subjected to severe penalties, C. H. Carson, special agent in charge of the Baltimore office of the Federal Bureau of Investigation, warned yesterday.

In discussing steps eligible men may take to avoid delinquency, Carson pointed out violators may be subjected to fines as high as $10,000, imprisonment up to five years or both.

Carson said that recently J. Edgar Hoover, director of the F. B. I., suggested that to avoid delinquency eligible men register promptly, fill out and return questionnaires promptly, keep their Local Boards informed of change of address, family status and the like and report for examination and induction when so ordered.

Carson warned registrants against making false or fictitious registration. Possession of a fradulently obtained, forged or altered registration certificate or classification notice is also a violation of the act.

Col. Henry C. Stanwood, state Selective Service director, reported yesterday that there has been a "gradual improvement" in the missing registration situation in Maryland. Failure among the eligibles to report for physical and mental examinations has fallen from 30 to 20 per cent since last month.

A great many of these, Col. Stanwood believes, have moved from their former addresses and have not yet received their notifications.

Word also came yesterday that many reservists eligible for six-months deferment under the present policy may be called up without delay.

Under the present plan, National Guardsmen and other reservists may be deferred as much as six months if they are found critically needed in one of 48 jobs in 72 industries. Now it is believed that the industry category will have to be changed.

Col. Stanwood said yesterday that the 66 draft boards throughout the state are fully staffed for the preliminary processing of eligible men 23 through 26 years old to fill the state quota of 1,474 men through October.

VFW Campaign Against Communists Continues

The war in Korea should warrant immediate drastic measures against more than half a million communist supporters within the United States, an official of the veterans of Foreign Wars declared here today.

Commander R. J. Whitehair of Henry Hart Post No. 1411 VFW urged that steps be taken without further delay against American reds because "we are actually at war now against Soviet Russia."

"The war in Korea is obviously only part of Russia's communist world revolution against the democracies," Whitehair asserted. "North Korean troops are merely another communist front. We should recognize that fact and do something immediately to forestall dangerous anti-American plotting by avowed communists and their followers here in the United States.

"The Federal Bureau of Investigation warns that American reds are intensifying their infiltration of vital defense industries, and that they are ready to wage widespread sabotage the moment the Kremlin orders such a move. We should not give them that leeway. We should strike first—now."

Ridgeley Legion To Hold Picnic

Knobley Mountain Post 136, American Legion, Ridgeley, will hold an all day basket picnic August 13, beginning at 10 a. m. at Malone's Beach, on the outskirts of Fort Ashby.

Games are being planned for the children as well as the adults and refreshments are to be served there. James McFarlane is chairman of the committee of arrangements.

A meeting of the committee is to be held at 7:30 tomorrow. All are requested to attend.

Fire Destroys 5-Room House

George W. Youngblood, former local resident, said he was alone in the barn next to the house at about noon when he saw that flames had broken out on the second floor.

After dashing into the house in an effort to save some furnishings, Youngblood said, he came out and fainted. Neighbors discovered him and an effort was made to call a fire company.

By the time Flintstone firemen arrived, the house was destroyed, Youngblood said, causing damage of approximately $4,500, only partly covered by insurance.

Youngblood moved into the house only last April and lived there with his wife and three of his nine children. His family was in Cumberland at the time of the fire.

Mr. and Mrs. Youngblood and one son, Conrad, are living with relatives here. The two other boys, Straier and Richard, are camping at the house site and caring for the livestock.

Church Meeting Tonight

An important meeting of the membership of Grace Baptist Church will be held at 7:30 o'clock tonight at the church, 417 North Mechanic Street, according to Rev. W. Randolph Keefe, pastor. All members are asked by Rev. Keefe to be present.

Sub-Teen Charm School

A girl's never too young to learn how to be her very prettiest self. At least, that's what Miss Jean Reinhard, executive secretary of the Allegany County Tuberculosis Association, thinks. She's been devoting an hour a day to teaching girls at the Kiwanis Sunshine Camp not only elements of health, but of good grooming, as well. Yesterday, Miss Ruth Lester, 1809 Bedford Street, local beautician, went out to show the campers how to take care of their hair. Miss Lester (left) is showing Juanita McBride what a scissors and comb can do to make a girl look her best. Looking on are (left to right) Betty Stuckey, Kay Miller, Mary Jane Raines, Donna Stuckey and Rosina Atkinson. Miss Reinhard is standing in the background.

Pollution Group Payment Refused By W. Va. Auditor

Says Appropriation Is Unconstitutional

CHARLESTON, W. Va., Aug. 8 (AP)—State Auditor Edgar B. Sims today refused to approve payment of $3,600 for West Virginia's share of expenses this year of the Potomac River Basin Interstate Commission.

It was the third action of its kind taken on appropriations made by the 1949 legislature.

A refusal to pay $2,250 to the eight-state Ohio River Valley Water Sanitation Commission was upheld by the West Virginia Supreme Court and has been appealed to the United States Supreme Court by the West Virginia members of the commission.

Last week, Sims declined to approve payment of $6,000 to the Council of State Governments. The council arranges for the annual governors' conference, conducts special technical studies and arranges for interchange of information among the various state governments.

This decision, according to Dr. Carl M. Frasure, chairman of the West Virginia Commission for Interstate Cooperation, which works with the council on various projects, will be appealed to the state supreme court.

Sims announced his latest refusal in a letter to State Health Director N. H. Dyer, a West Virginia member of the Potomac Basin anti-pollution body.

He said that the legislative action authorizing state participation in the commission binds further legislatures to make appropriations for the purpose. He said this was contrary to the state constitution and that the state Supreme Court had upheld his point in its ruling on the Ohio River Compact Case.

He contended further that payment of the appropriation would violate a constitutional clause forbidding granting of the credit of the state to any county, city, township, corporation or person, etc.

Its purpose is to work toward elimination of pollution of the Potomac and its tributaries in the Potomac Basin.

Dr. Dyer said he had referred Sims' refusal to the commission, which met today in Washington, and that any action that might be taken would await a reply from the group.

New Trial Awarded In Bank Case

Associate Judge George Henderson yesterday affirmed the ruling of Associate Judge Oliver H. Bruce, Jr., for a new trial in the case of Katherine Deffenbaugh vs The Peoples Bank, in which a jury awarded Mrs. Deffenbaugh $3,500.

Suit for $5,000 had been instituted by Edward J. Ryan, attorney for Mrs. Deffenbaugh who resides in Mt. Savage, on July 18, 1949.

She alleges she slipped on an accumulation of floor wax in the bank, fell and was badly injured. The mishap occurred, it was shown, October 16, 1946.

After the case had been tried, the bank's attorneys, Walter A. Capper and William Jenkins, filed a motion for a new trial. Judge Bruce awarded a new trial, and attorneys for the plaintiff asked that the ruling be set aside.

Judge Bruce became ill and Judge Henderson heard arguments on the motion. He agreed with Judge Bruce, and yesterday signed an order that a new trial would be in order.

Lt. Askey Will Head S. A. Corps

Lt. and Mrs. Joseph Askey, commanders of the Salvation Army Outpost, will leave here Sunday, August 20, to take command of the Hampton Salvation Army Corps in Baltimore, Major Elmer Wall, commander of the Cumberland corps, announced yesterday.

They will be succeeded by Lt. and Mrs. Harry Lezcano, who have been stationed at Magness Citadel, Nashville, Tenn.

Lt. Askey came here in March, 1948, to take command of the Outpost, 511 Virginia Avenue, Major Wall said, and has achieved splendid results in expanding the Outpost's program, and especially the Young People's departments.

Lt. and Mrs. Lezcano have two children, Esmeraldo Victoras, 6, and Harry, Jr., two.

Special Train To Take B & O Veterans To Picnic Saturday

The annual picnic of the Veterans Association of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad Company will be held Saturday at the City Park in Terra Alta, W. Va.

Special trains have been assigned to carry the veterans, their friends and families to and from the annual outing.

The train will leave Cumberland at 7 a. m., stopping at Keyser, W. Va., at 7:40 a. m.; Piedmont, W. Va., 7:50; Mt. Lake Park, 8:40; Oakland, 8:45; arriving at Terra Alta at 9:05 a. m. The special will return leaving Terra Alta at 6:30 p. m. Sandwiches, coffee and refreshments may be purchased aboard the train at reasonable rates.

Train No. 29 will pick up those wishing to attend at Harpers Ferry, Martinsburg, Hancock, Great Cacapon, Paw Paw and Green Spring.

The picnic, a family basket affair, attracts several hundred railroad families and their friends each year. This year, the committee believes the entertainment program arranged will help bring out a record attendance.

The Maintenance of Way department is staging a contest at 2 p. m., which includes the following events: adzing for individual trackmen; carrying cross ties, three men; rail drilling with Paulus brill, two men; applying insulated joint, two men; applying signal bonds, individual; cross cut saw, two-man teams; spike driving, preliminary; spike driving, final, two men; spike pulling, two men, and wheelbarrow race, two men.

Valuable prizes will be awarded the oldest person and the youngest person attending the outing. A hillbilly orchestra has been obtained for an old fashioned square dance with Mike Laffey calling figures, and numerous other attractions are planned.

The committee explains that those who may not be interested in the games and contests can enjoy the scenic beauty of the area, atop the Allegheny Mountains, and enroute by train they will have a chance to see the Savage River Dam.

Equity Suits Filed

Equity suits docketed in Circuit Court yesterday included Francis Leo Fradiska vs Eulalia Edith Fradiska; Anita M. Abe vs Robert L. Abe; Donald C. Cross vs Jo Ann Burkett Cross; and Melvin K. Ruckman vs Fulda K. Ruckman.

The Two Adams Offer Thrills In Bicycle Act At Fair Show

Youngsters of Cumberland who still whiz about on their two-wheelers and the oldsters who remember the thrill of the first real bike will have barrels of fun with the two Adams at the Cumberland Fair on August 22-26, inclusive.

Featured entertainers, the two Adams, who are direct importations from Denmark, will show the people of Cumberland a thousand ways to ride a bicycle.

The introduction of the world's smallest motorcycle is one of the highlights of the act. Adams not only introduces it but he rides it and in many different and unusual ways.

This act was secured for the Cumberland Fair through the office of George A. Hamid, of New York, booker of outdoor amusement acts, and is sponsored by Ali Ghan Shrine Temple.

The Weather

Cumberlanders awoke yesterday to a still "very cool for August" temperature of 51 at Constitution Park and only a little higher, 56, downtown. Following the pattern of previous days, the thermometer soared to high of 88, mid-afternoon downtown, and 86 at the Park, taking a sharp drop into the 70's between 7 and 8 last night. Up on the Hill late night temperature reading was 68. For today the Weather Man promises sunshine and warmer temperatures followed by scattered showers tonight. High will be in the mid-80's.

John M. Butler Hits Propaganda

BALTIMORE (AP) — A Republican candidate for the Senatorial nomination said today a propaganda campaign has been aimed at Americans "to minimize in their minds" the importance of their elected representatives.

John M. Butler pledged himself in a speech to Baltimore Rotarians to "return this government back to the people" if nominated and elected to the Senate.

Meanwhile, State Senator Roy Tasco Davis of Montgomery County declined another invitation to bow out of the GOP gubernatorial primary race.

Latest to suggest that Davis leave the field clear for former Mayor Theodore R. McKeldin of Baltimore was Thomas B. R. Mudd of Charles County. Mudd himself withdrew his candidacy for the nomination for governor when McKeldin announced his.

There was another, oblique comment on the McKeldin-Davis race. It came from Noah Hillman, Republican attorney running for the State Senate from Anne Arundel county.

Hillman observed that "McKeldin is our best vote getter among those people from whom we need votes—the Democrats."

Local Fire Is Termed Accidental

City police reported yesterday the fire that damaged the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ruhl Alderton, 941 Maryland Avenue, Monday morning was accidentally set by an intruder.

Detective Thomas J. See, who investigated, said an intruder apparently entered the basement of the house and dropped on a table the cigaret blamed for starting the blaze.

Investigation, he added, showed that the odor of cleaning fluid noticed by authorities probably was spilled when a basket of bottles and odds and ends was disturbed.

The occupant, he added, had collected the basket and a considerable quantity of papers preparatory to taking them to the country and dumping them, saying he had no way to dispose of them at home.

To Present Report

The Executive Committee of the Cumberland Community Chest will meet Thursday, August 24, at 7:30 p. m. to hear a report of the budget committee for the 1950-51 Red Feather campaign.

The meeting was scheduled tomorrow, but was postponed so R. A. J. Morrison, Budget chairman, now on vacation, could present the report.

Celanese Pays $3.61 Per Share

NEW YORK (AP) — Celanese Corp. of America today reported net income of $21,441,284, equal to $3.61 a share, for the first six months this year.

This compared with $6,174,659 or 84 cents a share for the first half of 1949.

Net earnings for the June quarter this year were $10,872,398 or $1.83 a share, compared with $127,038 or a deficit of 11 cents a common share, for the like quarter last year.

Horse Show Committees Are Named

Events Scheduled September 16, 17

Committees have been named for the annual Cumberland Horse Show sponsored by the Lions Club, according to William R. Carscaden, secretary of the arrangements committee.

The show will be held September 16 and 17 at Fairgo, and for the first time in the show's four-year history, there will be an evening performance.

Carscaden said full performances have been scheduled for the afternoon and evening of September 16 and the afternoon of September 17.

Another first for this year's show is the dividing of proceeds between the Allegany County League for Crippled Children and the Overlea School for the Blind.

Last year, the first in which the Lions Club sponsored the event, receipts went only to the School of the Blind. Approximately $1100 was netted for the school.

Horse show committee members will meet with officials of the Crippled Children's League today at 3 p. m. at League headquarters.

He pointed out that committee members have been attending horse shows in Pennsylvania, West Virginia and Ohio and have been told by various exhibitors that Cumberland has the most beautiful setting for a horse show in the East.

Louis V. Shinnamon has been named chairman of the event and W. Edward Solomon is co-chairman Winfield Adam will serve as assistant secretary.

George Ruhl, photography; James Scarpelli, ambulance; Glenn Davis, police; Arch M. Hutcheson, tickets; Dr. Norman L. Barger, box seats; George Hankins, program; Lynn C. Lashley, trophies; Vincent R. Burns, exhibitors relations.

William Blake and Lawrence Cessna, lights; Edgar D. Vandegrift, grounds; Frank Spoerl and Perry Ambrose, stable; Robert W. Huck, Jr., and Julius D. Lonnholm, concessions, and S. Louis Curl, publicity.

Navy's Mobilization Job Is Outlined

He outlined the various steps necessary to procure ships, equipment and men for active duty with the Navy in times of national emergencies.

Com. Lewis explained in detail the methods by which ships and equipage have been preserved by the Navy since World War II, how reserve training programs have been formulated and carried out; and the reasons for the Navy having instituted these programs. He further clarified the methods by which Naval Reservists are called to active duty and how each reservist's classification is carefully reviewed prior to his being called.

He inserted interesting sidelights concerning the cost of new ships and equipment as compared to the relatively low cost of preserving ships built during World War II and reactivating them as the need arose.

Held For Investigation

A man booked as Samuel Macich, Walton Hotel, is being "held for investigation" in the city jail. Authorities said the man is being held pending an investigation by immigration and naturalization authorities.

B & O Reports Increase In Employment

Keyser, Cumberland And Other Points Show More Men Being Hired

Fifty additional workers are expected to report this morning at the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad car shops in Keyser, W. Va., and indications are that business is picking up all along the Cumberland Division.

F. C. Crockett, general superintendent of the Keyser car shops, said last night that the additional 50 employes would bring the total at Keyser to a little over 500.

He pointed out that this number is the highest employed at this point since the peak World War II years, when over 600 worked in the Keyser shops.

Although the greater number of the men scheduled to report this morning had been furloughed, some of them are being hired for the first time, Crockett said.

He added that he believed about 25 men were being taken on this week at Combo, W. Va., 30 at Brunswick and 25 at Curtis Bay.

Second Call In Month

According to Crockett, this week's call is the second for 50 men in the past month.

Business on the railroad has increased steadily since last winter's coal strike, when the Keyser shops were down to 67 employes, he stated.

Although no official figures were available for Cumberland last night, there are indications that B. and O. employment is on the upgrade here.

C. M. Scott, general foreman of the local car shops, said 10 additional men came to work Monday morning.

A Railroad Brotherhood spokesman said he believed 18 men had been called for the car shops, but did not know whether or not Monday's 10 were included in this number.

Near 1945 Normal

An estimated 15 or 20 men have returned to work at the back shops, according to a back shop boiler inspector. He added that additional helpers could come back to their jobs except for a current shortage of mechanics, boiler makers and first class machinists.

The back shop spokesman estimated that between 450 and 475 men are working there now, somewhat short of the war peak when over 500 employes were in the shops.

The Brotherhood representatives said employment in most of the shops was nearly up to the 1945 normal. About 15 new machinist apprentices have been employed in the round house in the past few weeks, he added.

No new employment has been reported at the bolt and forge shops.

Aid Is Offered On Conservation

Allegany Soil Conservation District officials yesterday reminded cooperators that its services will be available for laying out contour strip cropping and other conservation measures during the fall plowing season.

David Crocker, unit conservationist, said the district has two graders available for construction of contour diversion terraces, ditches and farm roads and a Brillion seeder, supplied at nominal fees for maintenance.

Personnel of the district will be available without charge for technical aid in connection with such work.

Cooperators were asked to notify the Cumberland office at least two days before they are ready to begin work, to have at least one extra helper available and have plow ready to operate at the time agreed on.

Huge Christmas Parade May Usher In Yule Season Here

Louis V. Shinnamon, chairman, said the Christmas committee of the bureau will meet today at 10 a. m. for further discussion on the yule parade and to discuss new Christmas decorations for this city.

The parade has been tentatively scheduled for November 27, the Monday after Thanksgiving, and is the sort of display, including huge dragons, and the like, which are held in metropolitan areas to usher in the Christmas buying season.

At today's meeting the committee will discuss and prepare recommendations on the feasibility of the parade as well as on the type of Christmas decorations.

Estimates on the yule decorations are expected to be available this week, officials said.

The Christmas committee, headed by Edward L. Ewald, began work some weeks ago to plan for a novel plan of street decorations during the 1950 Christmas season.

If the Christmas decorations committee reports favorably on the parade and decorations plans, officials said a meeting of the Bureau may be called this week to act on the yule program.

Also discussed at a meeting yesterday were plans for a united "Back to School" promotion effort by local merchants, beginning August 20.

Market Ends Session With Trend Down After Advances

By WILLIAM D. HORGAN

NEW YORK, Aug. 8 (AP) — The stock market ended on downgrade today after a smart early advance spearheaded by General Motors.

General Motors, Chrysler, International Paper, and some other favorites held up pretty well. In the balance of the market morning gains were either chopped down or converted into losses.

General Motors, though, took a $4 a share jump to $93.62 and International Paper $3.75 to $54. Buying interest in each issue was stimulated by dividend news.

Sales crossed the 2,000,000-share mark for the first time since July 28 and compared with 1,850,000 Monday.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks dipped .2 of one point to 77.5. Utilities improved but rails and industrials fell back.

The market broadened to include 1,147 individual issues, of which 421 advanced and 480 declined.

Groaning In

tistical spiral was actively under way when the Korean crisis came.

With the Korean crisis, President Truman's goal—an increase of $100,000,000,000 in the national income during the next ten years—went out the window. At least it went out so far as there was ever any possibility of its coming about by an increase in the production of real goods for the people to use. From now on a large part of the country's industry will be devoted to producing goods, not for the people to use, but for war. The other way of increasing national income, the statistical way, by marking up wages and prices, can of course go on.

But any increases in prices and wages from now on would be sheer inflation. It would take place without corresponding increase in the production of real goods, and it would come on top of an inflation that has already taken place during the past five years.

It is this condition that causes the present sweating and groaning at Washington, on the part of both Congress and the Administration. They strive to find a way by which statistical increases in prices and wages can be averted. Any sound way must be politically disadvantageous. Labor would have to forego increase in wage rates; farmers would have to forego, in one degree or another, the manitenance by government of artificial prices for their crops.

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

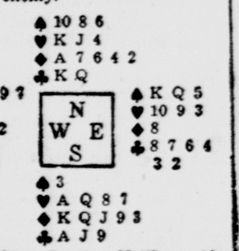
"The Authority on Authorities"

CARRYING IT TOO FAR

THERE is such a thing as carrying a good idea too far. You see that exemplified in every duplicate tournament, in which certain players are inordinately committed to what some call "the No Trump complex." These individuals reckon, properly, that, when you can take the same number of tricks in either a suit or a No Trump contract, the latter produces the larger number of points. But when they go so far as to seek a No Trump contract that cannot be made, in preference to a suit contract which can be, they are playing into the hands of the enemy.



(Dealer: South. Neither side vulnerable.)

4 NT	Pass	5 ♦	Pass

2. 1 ♦	Pass	2 ♦	Pass
2 ♥	Pass	3 ♦	Pass

The minds of the North and South players ran along similar lines for the first three bids made by their sides at these two tables of a tournament. Since North's hand was such that a minor suit contract seemed probable at first, neither holder of it felt like forcing a possible eleven-trick game contract. But, when South then made the "reverse" bid of his higher-ranking hearts at the two-level, both Norths felt ready for action. The first made a forthright game-forcing jump of 4-Diamonds and, after use of the Blackwood convention, his partner landed in 6-Diamonds and made at easily.

North at the other table, hating minor suit games especially, bid only 3-Diamonds in order to avoid "going above the 3-No Trumps game level." With that pair such a rebid raise was not necessarily a sign of weakness, but betokened mildly the fact that North might like a No Trump game. South, having one of the two black suits well stopped, took a chance that North could stop the other. Result? The defenders ran six spade tricks against them after West led the 7.

MIRROR OF YOUR MIND

By LAWRENCE GOOD
Consulting Psychologist

Are "accidents" really matters of chance?

Answer: Strictly speaking, never. For nothing takes place without a reason, even though in certain cases the reason appears unrelated to the person who becomes its victim. But as Dr. Jack A. Holmes says in reporting on a study of accidents at the Benicia Arsenal, California: "A great proportion of accidents in any industrial group can be attributed to a very small portion of that group." There are people whose unconscious urge to self-destruction makes them "accident-prone," and who should be kept from dangerous occupations.

Answer: No more than would be his dying of an illness of which you had never learned the symptoms. It is doubtful whether any child would become delinquent or a criminal if his parents had made no mistakes in their treatment of him, especially when he was little, but there are occasional children whose emotional needs are so complex that the average parent has no way of knowing how to meet them. If you did your best in bringing up your children, there is no use in blaming yourself—or them—if they "turned out badly."

May "peace in the family" cost too much?

Answer: Yes. A family in which everyone gives in to one aggressive, domineering member in order to "keep peace" is paying far too high an emotional price for the illusion of harmony. On the one hand, such an attitude encourages the domestic tyrant to be more and more self-centered and demanding; on the other, it inflicts upon his (or her) victims a degree of frustration which will ultimately explode in disruption of the family or in neurotic illness. Real peace can rest only on the basis of fairness to everybody.

Interior Department Submits Favorable Report On Parkway

Advantages Of Developing Route Of Historic C And O Canal Stressed

The Department of Interior yesterday sent a report to Congress recommending construction of a motor parkway along the old Chesapeake and Ohio Canal between Great Falls and Cumberland.

The report, signed by Assistant Secretary Dale E. Doty, was given to Interior Secretary Chapman nearly a month ago by Rep. J. Glenn Beall (R-Allegany) who at that time asked the department to delay its submission to Congress.

Rep. Beall has been sponsoring the parkway bill in the House of Representatives. On July 26, a House Public Lands Subcommittee approved a bill by Beall authorizing the National Park Service to acquire lands needed for right of way purposes for such a parkway.

The Interior Department reports the parkway would open a scenic and historic route to the public and at the same time provide a useful access road to a large area.

There are now 13 overpasses on the canal. Present plans call for developing access points only with the 11 following locations:

Seneca, connecting with Maryland 112; Edward Ferry, with a county road; Point of Rocks, with U. S. 15; Brunswick, with Maryland 70; Harpers Ferry, with U. S. 340; Shepherdstown, with Maryland 34; Williamsport, with U. S. 11; Hancock, with U. S. 40; Paw Paw, W. Va., with Maryland 51 and West Virginia 29, and Cumberland, with city streets and U. S. 40 and U. S. 220.

The study indicates the parkway would generate new traffic and draw traffic from congested roads through Frederick and Hagerstown.

It noted also that the right of way along the canal would have to be widened to provide a roadway to accomodate expected traffic volume of 640 to 2,500 vehicles a day, and observed that the State of Maryland would have to convey such acreage to the government.

At present, it is said, federal holdings are inadequate to provide a sufficiently wide parkway for a four-lane road. At least 68 feet would be needed for the four lanes, minimum four foot island and eight-foot shoulders.

For the more satisfactory 16-foot island, 80 feet would be required. The bill initiated by Rep. Beall authorizes an exchange of land with the B. and O. Railroad which owns a small section of land needed for the parkway.

The measure also would permit the Interior Secretary to accept sufficient Maryland lands, through gifts and exchanges, to bring the right of way to a width of 100 acres a mile to give enough room for the parkway.

The report noted that the cost of the parkway would be less than normal because use could be made of the canal grade and other features of the old water route.

FBI Agent Cities Draft Law Penalties

Delinquencies Decrease In State

Wilful violators of the Selective Service Act of 1948 may be subjected to severe penalties, C. H. Carson, special agent in charge of the Baltimore office of the Federal Bureau of Investigation, warned yesterday.

In discussing steps eligible men may take to avoid delinquency, Carson pointed out violators may be subjected to fines as high as $10,000, imprisonment up to five years or both.

Carson said that recently J. Edgar Hoover, director of the F. B. I., suggested that to avoid delinquency eligible men register promptly, fill out and return questionnaires promptly, keep their Local Boards informed of change of address, family status and the like and report for examination and induction when so ordered.

Carson warned registrants against making false or fictitious registration. Possession of a fradulently obtained, forged or altered registration certificate or classification notice is also a violation of the act.

Col. Henry C. Stanwood, state Selective Service director, reported yesterday that there has been a "gradual improvement" in the missing registration situation in Maryland. Failure among the eligibles to report for physical and mental examinations has fallen from 30 to 20 per cent since last month.

A great many of these, Col. Stanwood believes, have moved from their former addresses and have not yet received their notifications.

Word also came yesterday that many reservists eligible for six-months deferment under the present policy may be called up without delay.

Under the present plan, National Guardsmen and other reservists may be deferred as much as six months if they are found critically needed in one of 48 jobs in 72 industries. Now it is believed that the industry category will have to be changed.

Col. Stanwood said yesterday that the 66 draft boards throughout the state are fully staffed for the preliminary processing of eligible men 23 through 26 years old to fill the state quota of 1,474 men through October.

VFW Campaign Against Communists Continues

The war in Korea should warrant immediate drastic measures against more than half a million communist supporters within the United States, an official of the veterans of Foreign Wars declared here today.

Commander R. J. Whitehair of Henry Hart Post No. 1411 VFW urged that steps be taken without further delay against American reds because "we are actually at war now against Soviet Russia."

"The war in Korea is obviously only part of Russia's communist world revolution against the democracies," Whitehair asserted. "North Korean troops are merely another communist front. We should recognize that fact and do something immediately to forestall dangerous anti-American plotting by avowed communists and their followers here in the United States.

"The Federal Bureau of Investigation warns that American reds are intensifying their infiltration of vital defense industries, and that they are ready to wage widespread sabotage the moment the Kremlin orders such a move. We should not give them that leeway. We should strike first—now."

Ridgeley Legion To Hold Picnic

Knobley Mountain Post 136, American Legion, Ridgeley, will hold an all day basket picnic August 13, beginning at 10 a. m. at Malone's Beach, on the outskirts of Fort Ashby.

Games are being planned for the children as well as the adults and refreshments are to be served there. James McFarlane is chairman of the committee of arrangements.

A meeting of the committee is to be held at 7:30 tomorrow. All are requested to attend.

Sub-Teen Charm School

A girl's never too young to learn how to be her very prettiest self. At least, that's what Miss Jean Reinhard, executive secretary of the Allegany County Tuberculosis Association, thinks. She's been devoting an hour a day to teaching girls at the Kiwanis Sunshine Camp not only elements of health, but of good grooming, as well. Yesterday, Miss Ruth Lester, 1809 Bedford Street, local beautician, went out to show the campers how to take care of their hair. Miss Lester (left) is showing Juanita McBride what a scissors and comb can do to make a girl look her best. Looking on are (left to right) Betty Stuckey, Kay Miller, Mary Jane Raines, Donna Stuckey and Rosina Atkinson. Miss Reinhard is standing in the background.

Pollution Group Payment Refused By W. Va. Auditor

Says Appropriation Is Unconstitutional

CHARLESTON, W. Va., Aug. 8 (AP)—State Auditor Edgar B. Sims today refused to approve payment of $3,600 for West Virginia's share of expenses this year of the Potomac River Basin Interstate Commission.

It was the third action of its kind taken on appropriations made by the 1949 legislature.

A refusal to pay $2,250 to the eight-state Ohio River Valley Water Sanitation Commission was upheld by the West Virginia Supreme Court and has been appealed to the United States Supreme Court by the West Virginia members of the commission.

Last week, Sims declined to approve payment of $6,000 to the Council of State Governments. The council arranges for the annual governors' conference, conducts special technical studies and arranges for interchange of information among the various state governments.

This decision, according to Dr. Carl M. Frasure, chairman of the West Virginia Commission for Interstate Cooperation, which works with the council on various projects, will be appealed to the state supreme court.

Sims announced his latest refusal in a letter to State Health Director N. H. Dyer, a West Virginia member of the Potomac Basin anti-pollution body.

He said that the legislative action authorizing state participation in the commission binds further legislatures to make appropriations for the purpose. He said this was contrary to the state constitution and that the state Supreme Court had upheld his point in its ruling on the Ohio River Compact Case.

He contended further that payment of the appropriation would violate a constitutional clause forbidding granting of the credit of the state to any county, city, township, corporation or person, etc.

Its purpose is to work toward elimination of pollution of the Potomac and its tributaries in the Potomac Basin.

Dr. Dyer said he had referred Sims' refusal to the commission, which met today in Washington, and that any action that might be taken would await a reply from the group.

New Trial Awarded In Bank Case

Associate Judge George Henderson yesterday affirmed the ruling of Associate Judge Oliver H. Bruce, Jr., for a new trial in the case of Katherine Deffenbaugh vs The Peoples Bank, in which a jury awarded Mrs. Deffenbaugh $3,500.

Suit for $5,000 had been instituted by Edward J. Ryan, attorney for Mrs. Deffenbaugh who resides in Mt. Savage, on July 18, 1949.

She alleges she slipped on an accumulation of floor wax in the bank, fell and was badly injured. The mishap occurred, it was shown, October 16, 1946.

After the case had been tried, the bank's attorneys, Walter A. Capper and William Jenkins, filed a motion for a new trial. Judge Bruce awarded a new trial, and attorneys for the plaintiff asked that the ruling be set aside.

Judge Bruce became ill and Judge Henderson heard arguments on the motion. He agreed with Judge Bruce, and yesterday signed an order that a new trial would be in order.

Lt. Askey Will Head S. A. Corps

Lt. and Mrs. Joseph Askey, commanders of the Salvation Army Outpost, will leave here Sunday, August 20, to take command of the Hampton Salvation Army Corps in Baltimore, Major Elmer Wall, commander of the Cumberland corps, announced yesterday.

They will be succeeded by Lt. and Mrs. Harry Lezcano, who have been stationed at Magness Citadel, Nashville, Tenn.

Lt. Askey came here in March, 1948, to take command of the Outpost, 511 Virginia Avenue, Major Wall said, and has achieved splendid results in expanding the Outpost's program, and especially the Young People's departments.

Lt. and Mrs. Lezcano have two children, Esmeraldo Victoras, 6, and Harry, Jr., two.

They will arrive here the week of August 20 to assume command of the Outpost.

The committee explains that those who may not be interested in the games and contests can enjoy the scenic beauty of the area, atop the Allegheny Mountains, and enroute by train they will have a chance to see the Savage River Dam.

John M. Butler Hits Propaganda

BALTIMORE (AP) — A Republican candidate for the Senatorial nomination said today a propaganda campaign has been aimed at Americans "to minimize in their minds" the importance of their elected representatives.

John M. Butler pledged himself in a speech to Baltimore Rotarians to "return this government back to the people" if nominated and elected to the Senate.

Meanwhile, State Senator Roy Tasco Davis of Montgomery County declined another invitation to bow out of the GOP gubernatorial primary race.

Latest to suggest that Davis leave the field clear for former Mayor Theodore R. McKeldin of Baltimore was Thomas B. R. Mudd of Charles County. Mudd himself withdrew his candidacy for the nomination for governor when McKeldin announced his.

There was another, oblique comment on the McKeldin-Davis race. It came from Noah Hillman, Republican attorney running for the State Senate from Anne Arundel county.

Hillman observed that "McKeldin is our best vote getter among those people from whom we need votes—the Democrats."

Local Fire Is Termed Accidental

City police reported yesterday the fire that damaged the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ruhl Alderton, 941 Maryland Avenue, Monday morning was accidentally set by an intruder.

Detective Thomas J See, who investigated, said an intruder apparently entered the basement of the house and dropped on a table the cigaret blamed for starting the blaze.

Investigation, he added, showed that the odor of cleaning fluid noticed by authorities probably was spilled when a basket of bottles and odds and ends was disturbed.

The occupant, he added, had collected the basket and a considerable quantity of papers preparatory to taking them to the country and dumping them, saying he had no way to dispose of them at home.

To Present Report

The Executive Committee of the Cumberland Community Chest will meet Thursday, August 24, at 7:30 p. m. to hear a report of the budget committee for the 1950-51 Red Feather campaign.

The meeting was scheduled tomorrow, but was postponed so R. A. J. Morrison, Budget chairman, now on vacation, could present the report.

Horse Show Committees Are Named

Events Scheduled September 16, 17

Committees have been named for the annual Cumberland Horse Show sponsored by the Lions Club, according to William R. Carscaden, secretary of the arrangements committee.

The show will be held September 16 and 17 at Fairgo, and for the first time in the show's four-year history, there will be an evening performance.

Carscaden said full performances have been scheduled for the afternoon and evening of September 16 and the afternoon of September 17.

Another first for this year's show is the dividing of proceeds between the Allegany County League for Crippled Children and the Overlea School for the Blind.

Last year, the first in which the Lions Club sponsored the event, receipts went only to the School of the Blind. Approximately $1100 was netted for the school.

Horse show committee members will meet with officials of the Crippled Children's League today at 3 p. m. at League headquarters.

Carscaden stated yesterday the committee expects this year's show to be much larger than last year's Over 200 exhibitors are expected.

He pointed out that committee members have been attending horse shows in Pennsylvania, West Virginia and Ohio and have been told by various exhibitors that Cumberland has the most beautiful setting for a horse show in the East.

Louis V. Shinnamon has been named chairman of the event and W. Edward Solomon is co-chairman Winfield Adam will serve as assistant secretary.

Navy's Mobilization Job Is Outlined

Lt. Com. F. A. Lewis, USN, Inspector-Instructor Reserve, at the Naval Reserve Armory here addressed the Rotary Club yesterday at their regular weekly meeting at Central Y. M. C. A. on "What the Navy Is Doing Today Toward Mobilization."

He outlined the various steps necessary to procure ships, equipment and men for active duty with the Navy in times of national emergencies.

Com. Lewis explained in detail the methods by which ships and equipage have been preserved by the Navy since World War II, how reserve training programs have been formulated and carried out; and the reasons for the Navy having instituted these programs. He further clarified the methods by which Naval Reservists are called to active duty and how each reservist's classification is carefully reviewed prior to his being called.

He inserted interesting sidelights concerning the cost of new ships and equipment as compared to the relatively low cost of preserving ships built during World War II and reactivating them as the need arose.

Held For Investigation

A man booked as Samuel Macich, Walton Hotel, is being "held for investigation" in the city jail. Authorities said the man is being held pending an investigation by immigration and naturalization authorities.

B & O Reports Increase In Employment

Keyser, Cumberland And Other Points Show More Men Being Hired

Fifty additional workers are expected to report this morning at the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad car shops in Keyser, W. Va., and indications are that business is picking up all along the Cumberland Division.

F. C. Crockett, general superintendent of the Keyser car shops, said last night that the additional 50 employes would bring the total at Keyser to a little over 500.

He pointed out that this number is the highest employed at this point since the peak World War II years, when over 600 worked in the Keyser shops.

Although the greater number of the men scheduled to report this morning had been furloughed, some of them are being hired for the first time, Crockett said.

He added that he believed about 25 men were being taken on this week at Combo, W. Va., 30 at Brunswick and 25 at Curtis Bay.

Second Call In Month

According to Crockett, this week's call is the second for 50 men in the past month.

Business on the railroad has increased steadily since last winter's coal strike, when the Keyser shops were down to 67 employes, he stated.

Although no official figures were available for Cumberland last night, there are indications that B. and O. employment is on the upgrade here.

C. M. Scott, general foreman of the local car shops, said 10 additional men came to work Monday morning.

A Railroad Brotherhood spokesman said he believed 18 men had been called for the car shops, but did not know whether or not Monday's 10 were included in this number.

Near 1945 Normal

An estimated 15 or 20 men have returned to work at the back shops, according to a back shop boiler inspector. He added that additional helpers could come back to their jobs except for a current shortage of mechanics, boiler makers and first class machinists.

The back shop spokesman estimated that between 450 and 475 men are working there now, somewhat short of the war peak when over 500 employes were in the shops.

The Brotherhood representatives said employment in most of the shops was nearly up to the 1945 normal. About 15 new machinist apprentices have been employed in the round house in the past few weeks, he added.

No new employment has been reported at the bolt and forge shops.

Aid Is Offered On Conservation

Allegany Soil Conservation District officials yesterday reminded cooperators that its services will be available for laying out contour strip cropping and other conservation measures during the fall plowing season.

David Crocker, unit conservationist, said the district has two graders available for construction of contour diversion terraces, ditches and farm roads and a Brillion seeder, supplied at nominal fees for maintenance.

Personnel of the district will be available without charge for technical aid in connection with such work.

Cooperators were asked to notify the Cumberland office at least two days before they are ready to begin work, to have at least one extra helper available and have plow ready to operate at the time agreed on.

Fire Destroys 5-Room House

George W. Youngblood, former local resident, said he was alone in the barn next to the house at about noon when he saw that flames had broken out on the second floor.

After dashing into the house in an effort to save some furnishings, Youngblood said, he came out and fainted. Neighbors discovered him and an effort was made to call a fire company.

By the time Flintstone firemen arrived, the house was destroyed, Youngblood said, causing damage of approximately $4,500, only partly covered by insurance.

Youngblood moved into the house only last April and lived there with his wife and three of his nine children. His family was in Cumberland at the time of the fire.

Mr. and Mrs. Youngblood and one son, Conrad, are living with relatives here. The two other boys, Straier and Richard, are camping at the house site and caring for the livestock.

The Two Adams Offer Thrills In Bicycle Act At Fair Show

Youngsters of Cumberland who still whiz about on their two-wheelers and the oldsters who remember the thrill of the first real bike will have barrels of fun with the two Adams at the Cumberland Fair on August 22-26, inclusive.

Featured entertainers, the two Adams, who are direct importations from Denmark, will show the people of Cumberland a thousand ways to ride a bicycle.

Eric Adams, bicycle equilibrist, does things with a two-wheel which would seem impossible and his daring leaves his audience hypnotized. There are plenty of laughs, too.

The introduction of the world's smallest motorcycle is one of the highlights of the act. Adams not only introduces it but he rides it and in many different and unusual ways.

His lovely feminine partner is equally adept at doing gymnastics on Adams' shoulder as he rides the bike and she performs many other difficult and interesting stunts.

This act was secured for the Cumberland Fair through the office of George A. Hamid, of New York, booker of outdoor amusement acts, and is sponsored by Ali Ghan Shrine Temple.

Huge Christmas Parade May Usher In Yule Season Here

Louis V. Shinnamon, chairman, said the Christmas committee of the bureau will meet today at 10 a. m. for further discussion on the yule parade and to discuss new Christmas decorations for this city.

The parade has been tentatively scheduled for November 27, the Monday after Thanksgiving, and is the sort of display, including huge dragons, and the like, which are held in metropolitan areas to usher in the Christmas buying season.

At today's meeting the committee will discuss and prepare recommendations on the feasibility of the parade as well as on the type of Christmas decorations.

Estimates on the yule decorations are expected to be available this week, officials said.

The Christmas committee, headed by Edward L. Ewald, began work some weeks ago to plan for a novel plan of street decorations during the 1950 Christmas season.

If the Christmas decorations committee reports favorably on the parade and decorations plans, officials said a meeting of the Bureau may be called this week to act on the yule program.

Also discussed at a meeting yesterday were plans for a united "Back to School" promotion effort by local merchants, beginning August 20.
